Justice Dept. Files Suit To Protect Ga. Negro Vote Rights

FRUSTRATED — Negro minister Glennon King talks with newsmen at neighbor's home after arriving in Gulfport, Miss., yesterday minus wife and children and intentions of attempting to enroll his daughter in a white elementary school frustrated. "Discriminatory" Practices By Three Registrars Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department Thursday sued for an injunction against Terrell County, Ga., voting registrars to bar them from allegedly keeping qualified Negroes from voting.

It was the first suit brought by the department under the 1957 Civil Rights Act which provided protection for the voting rights of Negroes in the South and others.

Attorney General William P. Rogers announced that the suit was filed in federal court at Columbus, Ga., to end what he described as "discriminatory practices" of three election registrars and two deputy registrars in Terrell County.

The suit accused the registrars of arbitrarily refusing "to register Negroes who demonstrated themselves to be qualified to register."

It said the Negro citizens involved, four teachers and a Marine Corps employe, live in Dawson, Ga., Terrell County seat.

Defendants Named

The defendants named in the suit were James Griggs Raine, Dixon Oxford, and Roscoe Radford, registrars of Terrell County, and F. Lawson Cook Sr. and his wife Mrs. F. Lawson Cook Sr., deputy registrars of the county.

The Justice Department asked the Columbus court to issue a preliminary and a permanent injunction "to forbid the registrars and all persons in active concert and participation with them" from discriminating against any applicant for registration for reasons of race or color.

According to the complaint, on last April 7, a number of Negro applicants appeared at the registrar's office to register. It said none was permitted to register.

The four school teachers who were not allowed to register were:

Edna Mae Lowe, a mathematics teacher at Carver High School, Dawson, who holds a bachelor of science degree and a master of arts degree in education from New York University.

Teacher Turned Down

Jane Breedlove, an elementary school teacher in Terrell County who holds a bachelor of science degree from Albany State College, Albany, Ga.

Davey Louis Gibson, a Terrell County school teacher who holds a bachelor of science degree from Albany State and is now working on a master's degree at New York University.

Grace Boyd Gibson, an elementary school teacher in Calhoun County, Ga., who holds a bachelor of science degree from Albany State.

The complaint said Eddie George Lowe, who attended Tuskeegee Institute and now works at the U.S. Marine Corps supply center at Albany, Ga., also was rejected.

The government's suit said the four teachers were turned down because of alleged inability to read correctly and intelligibly. Lowe was rejected because of alleged inability to write correctly and legibly.

U.S. Transport Vanishes Near Soviet Border

ADANA, Turkey (AP) — U. S. Air Force search plane crews scanned the mountainous country about 110 miles from the Soviet border Thursday for a military transport that disappeared two days ago with 17 men.

The C130 Hercules turbo prop transport, on a mission studying radio waves, last was reported over Trabzon, a Black Sea port in northeast Turkey, at 8:42 a.m. Trabzon is about 100 miles from Batumi, on the Soviet border.

The pilot's next radio report was due about an hour later over Lake Van in eastern Turkey, about 110 miles from Soviet Armenia over 50 miles from the Iranian border. No report was made.

Six mountains of 10,000 feet or more altitude are within a radius of 50 miles of the lake.

The transport took off from the Adana base Tuesday morning and was scheduled to return the same evening.

Search operations were veiled in secrecy, but an Air Force statement from Germany said that four-engine aircraft were being used to cover the vast area and that two parachute medical teams were included in the search party.

Col. Theodore P. Tatum, deputy commander of Atlantic Air Rescue Service at Ramstein in West Germany, was en route here to coordinate the search.

Air Force authorities would not comment on the possibility that the plane had strayed into Soviet territory. Last June 27, a U.S. transport plane flying from Cyprus to Iran was shot down by Soviet fighters when it flew accidentally over the Soviet border. Its nine crew members were held for 10 days.

The area in which the plane disappeared is remote and mountainous.

Legion Elects Okla. Lawyer As Commander

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Legion's 40th annual convention Thursday elected Preston J. Moore, a rangy Stillwater, Okla., lawyer and World War II Air Force veteran, as its new national commander.

Moore, 38, won on the first ballot in the cavernous Chicago Stadium over his two leading opponents, Truman C. Wold, 47-year-old Fargo, N.D., public relations man, and Howard C. Kingdom, 44, a Conneaut, Ohio, insurance man.

The six-foot, three - inch lawyer had traveled 100,000 miles to Legion posts throughout the country to win the $18,000-a-year post as leader of the nation's 2,700,000 Legionnaires. He had been campaigning for the job for four years.

Moore, the Legion's national executive committeeman from Oklahoma and former commander of his state department, took 2,503 first ballot votes. Wold got 525 and Kingdom, who had charged that Legion "kingmakers" were behind Moore's candidacy, collected 28.

Moore's landslide election capped a final convention session in which the delegates passed on a flock of resolutions and heard speeches by Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Nationalist Chinese leader, and Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico.

The standout resolution, approved by the delegates with a shout, urged Congress to overturn by "corrective legislation" any U.S. Supreme Court decisions in which the justices "improperly assumed the role of legislative policy maker."

The resolution was regarded as a reflection on the Supreme Court's ruling of two years ago against racial segregation in the public schools.

Although the resolution cited no specific resolution, it noted that the recent conference of state Chief Justices had "strongly criticized" the court on grounds that it "has by numerous decisions usurped the rights of the states and . . . compromised, violated or ignored true constitutional principles."

Other major resolutions approved by the delegates:

—Opposed "co-existence" with any Communist nation.

—Supported the action of "our government in providing definite protection around the Formosa area" and opposed United Nations or United States recognition of Communist China.

UAW To Plan Strike Action

Union Leaders Will Meet Next Week, Set Date

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers announced Thursday its International Executive Board will meet at 10 a.m. next Wednesday to select a strike target and set a strike deadline if no "fair" offer is made by the "Big Three" auto companies by that time.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther and five other top officers of the union made a joint statement saying they will recommend that the executive board take the two pre-strike steps "if there is no offer from the companies which can provide the basis for a fair and honorable settlement".

The union has been working without a contract at Ford, General Motors and Chrysler since the end of May when the old three-year pacts with those companies ran out.

Reuther has charged the companies with refusing to bargain in good faith. . .making a "farce" out of negotiations.

Only Wednesday he announced he would present the union's side of the story to panels of public officials and community leaders from key automotive centers in Michigan and Ohio next Tuesday.

A series of scattered strikes have beset the industry this month prompting charges from GM Vice President in Charge of Personnel Louis G. Seaton that the walkouts came on orders from Solidarity House (the UAW headquarters in Detroit) in an obvious attempt to stall early output of 1959 models.

Strike Wave Spreads

DETROIT (UPI)—The auto industry, faced with its lowest weekly car output in a dozen years, was hit by a new wave of strikes today which idled more than 6,200 workers.

Walkouts at the Fisher Body Division of General Motors in Marion, Ind., the Chevrolet frame and stamping plant in Flint, Mich., and Chrysler's Amplex plant in Detroit ended a brief "truce" period that existed over the holiday week end.

The Fisher Body walkout idled 3,500 workers, the Chevrolet walkout 2,500 workers, and the Amplex walkout 215 workers.

Continuing strike by 2,300 workers at the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac plant at Kansas City and by 2,150 workers at two Chrysler plants in Detroit boosted to 10,665 the number of workers idled by walkouts.

British Report Ramming Try By Iceland Ship

LONDON (UPI) — Britain charged Thursday night that an Icelandic coast guard vessel tried unsuccessfully to ram a British frigate protecting British trawlers inside Iceland's disputed new 12-mile fishing limit.

An admiralty announcement said the 500-ton Icelandic cutter Aegir attempted to slam into the 1,100-ton British naval fisheries protection frigate Russell as the two ships followed a parallel course in waters around Iceland.

It was the latest attempt by Iceland to hamper British fishing inside the new 12-mile territorial waters limit which Britain does not recognize. On Tuesday, British ilors and fishermen repelled two Icelandic coast guard boarding arties in the first show of force since the "fish war" started last Sunday at midnight.

The admiralty said the skipper of the Russell radioed that "the Aegir plainly tried to ram me." The attempt failed, the admiralty said.

The ramming attempt was the only incident reported today as fog settled over the disputed waters and curbed Iceland's actions against the fishing vessels.

Youth, 16, Captured After Killing Mother

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A mother was shot and killed Thursday by her 16-year-old son, authorities reported, and the boy was apprehended after a pursuit of 50 miles.

Chief Tulsa County Prosecutor Robert D. Simmons identified the youth as Billy J. Killion, a senior at Tulsa's Daniel Webster High School. Victim of the shooting was Mrs. Agnes Killion.

Officers could provide no motive for the shooting, but a sister, Inez Terrell, 21, of Jenks, said her brother had a "quick temper."

Striking Students Resist Integration At Van Buren, Ark.

Group Appeals To Faubus For Aid

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP)—White high school students Thursday banded together to physically oppose racial integration and appealed to Gov. Orval E. Faubus for support.

"In behalf of Van Buren High School we are on stike here," a telegram to Faubus said. "In order to stay integration we need your help."

Faubus, just back in his Little Rock office from a two-day fishing trip, shook his head after reading the message signed, "Roger Williams."

"I don't know what to do about the Van Buren situation; I will have to check into it," said the governor.

A slowly swelling crowd of white boys milled about the high school throughout the morning and into mid-afternoon. They left at the end of the school day, making no outward demonstration — even when two Negro girls walked down side steps from the building and boarded a school bus along with white students.

"We will be back outside the school tomorrow and every other day for six days until the Negroes are removed," a leader said. "At the end of those six days, if the Negroes are not out, then we will put them out for good."

The youthful leader said more than 100 "strikers" would be on hand Friday.

Thirteen Negro boys and girls entered Van Buren High Tuesday when the school began its second year of court-ordered integration. They marched past jeering white youths and derisive inscriptions painted on the sidewalks and brick walls of the building.

One of the Negro students, Freddy Bell, 16, said Wednesday night that he and several of his Negro classmates would not return to Van Buren High because of threats and insults from white students. The school has a total enrollment of 635.

A group of about 50 white boys gathered outside the high school building early Thursday. They belligerently proclaimed that they would block entrances and take other, unspecified, measures to keep Negroes out.

A spokesman said 41 boys had organized a strike to resist integration. He indicated the group would not return to class until Negroes were permanently ousted.

Tax Red Tape Cut For Millions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Thursday eased the pain of paying taxes for 31 million Americans who earn up to $10,000 a year.

The Internal Revenue Service announced that persons in this bracket could pay their income taxes simply by filling out a small card instead of laboring through a long four-page form.

But taking the easy way out could cost some taxpayers money.

The service said that if taxpayers wanted to take deductions for business expenses, dividend credits, sick pay and credit for estimated tax payments, they'll have to use the long form.

Prior to the ruling, which is applicable to 1958 incomes, only persons with incomes under $5,000 could use the card form, a punch card about the size of a bank check with 15 questions to be answered.

Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington said the new card may be used by any taxpayer who has a total income of less than $10,000 consisting of wages as reported by the person's employer, or has received no more than $200 in dividends, interests and wages not subject to witholding during the year.

Husband and wife can make joint returns in this simple manner provided their joint income is under the limit.

Strike Leaves Detroit Without Newspapers

DETROIT (UPI)—A strike by pressmen at the morning Detroit Free Press left the nation's fifth largest city without daily newspapers Thursday.

The Free Press and Detroit's two afternoon papers, the News and Times, are all represented by the Detroit Newspaper Publishers Assn. in negotiations with various newspaper craft unions.

Thus, the News and Times did not publish their editions Thursday even though the dispute involved the firing of a union official at the Free Press.

DeGaulle Offers Constitution; Red Riot Erupts

PARIS (UPI)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle offered his new constitution for a strongly governed Fifth Republic to the French people Thursday night in a mammoth street rally marred by the worst outbreak of Communist rioting since he came to power.

De Gaulle, invading the working quarter to speak in the Place de la Republique, warned an estimated throng of 100,000 that France could "perish" unless the state is given sufficient strength and prestige.

He declared that his proposed constitution, to be voted on in a popular referendum Sept. 28, would give France a "government which is made to govern."

De Gaulle, however, said that what his government had in mind was a Republican regime for France and not a dictatorship as claimed by leftists.

But the powerful big French Communist Party countered with its first show of force since De Gaulle rode to the premiership June 1 on the crest of the right-wing Algiers revolt.

Thirty minutes before De Gaulle began speaking Thursday evening thousands of Communist shock troops charged into police on the north side of the giant square on the east end of Paris.

The Communist mob, estimated at about 10,000, clashed with a force of 10,000 riot police specially mobilized for the occasion.

The Reds, holding cards saying "no to the constitution", crashed their way through a first line of police ringing the giant square. It took reinforcements of tough republican security guards to push them back.

The rioting started and ended quickly. By the time De Gaulle started speaking, quiet had been restored.

One group of Communist demonstrators was badly mauled by De Gaulle supporters in the crowd before they were taken into custody by police and whisked off to jail.

Will Defend Islands Vital To Formosa

Use Of American Force Might Include Mainland Bombing

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The United States warned Red China Thursday this country will move in with "timely and effective" military force—including possible bombing of the Red Chinese mainland—if necessary to save the islands essential to Formosa's defense.

A top-level statement likewise said this country's acquiescence to the use of "naked force" would threaten peace everywhere.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles issued the statement following an hour and 45 minute conference at the summer White House. It said Eisenhower would not hesitate to order U.S. fighting forces into action if Red China makes an all-out effort to conquer Formosa and offshore islands.

Dulles, who flew here from Washington to discuss what he called a serious situation in the Far East, at the same time said the Communist bombardment of offshore Quemoy is not necessarily a prelude to invasion.

Face-Saving Opportunity

He also gave Peiping a chance to back off by saying: "The President and I earnestly hope that the Chinese Communist regime will not again, as in the case of Korea, defy the basic principle upon which world order depends, namely that armed force should not be used to achieve territorial ambitions."

He also urged that the Communists pursue their territorial claims, "however ill-founded," by peaceful means.

Thursday's Eisenhower- Dulles meeting, the first ever held here, went the farthest this country has gone in expressing U.S. intentions to halt Communist aggression in the Formosa Strait.

The statement which Eisenhower authorized Dulles to make did not mention specifically that U.S. planes might bomb the Chinese mainland. But a top official who had a leading role in composing it said, when asked if the bombing of concentrations on the mainland might be a part of the defense of Formosa: "It might become so, if Formosa was attacked or imminently threatened from those airfields."

Russia Is Question Mark

This same spokesman, asked if Russia wouldn't come to the aid of the Chinese Communists if this country intervened in the strait, replied: "They might or might not think it was expedient to come to the aid of China under those circumstances."

Dulles arrived by helicopter from the nearby Quonset naval base at 10:27 a.m. — three minutes before the scheduled start of the conference — and left immediately after reading his statement to newsmen.

About 70 reporters and radio-TV representatives crowded into a conference room a few feet from Eisenhower's office to hear the secretary — grave in manner, but indicating confidence in this country's ability to meet the situation — read the statement.

The Eisenhower- Dulles statement stressed the U. S. government believes the Chinese Nationalists can handle any present threat to their territory and that this country would step in only if the Nationalist defenses—already well supported by this country—proved inadequate.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy arrived here by plane Thursday for a 10-day official visit.

Ella, Seven Dead In Wake, Moves Toward Gulf Coast

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Tropical storm Ella, with at least seven dead and a shipwreck in its wake, moved slowly over the Gulf of Mexico Thursday toward the west Louisiana and Texas coast.

But the nation's fifth tropical disturbance of the season remained a juvenile by the hurricane standards of her sisters in destruction.

The 4 p.m. c.s.t. weather bureau advisory said Ella had changed little from its earlier 12-14 m.p.h. speed and 40-70 m.p.h. winds. It still had a "poorly defined center," the mark of an immature hurricane.

The latest weather advisory gave its position near latitude 24, longitude 89 about 450 statute south of Biloxi, Miss., moving west northwest.

Weather forecasters warned, however, that while Ella was expected to progress at the same speed and direction, "conditions are favorable" for the storm to regain hurricane force Thursday night.

The outer fringe of the storm swept over the Louisiana coast with heavy squalls and gusty winds reported at 40 and 50 miles an hour Thursday morning.

Early Friday, two large freighters, anchored in the Mississippi River in St. Bernard Parish near New Orleans, collided when heavy squalls and high fringe winds from the storm area swept inland.

No injuries were reported when the two ships, the S. S. Tontine and the S. S. Ocean Deborah, slammed together. Damage was slight.

Artillery Lull Continues As China Reds Declare 12-Mile Territorial Sea Limit

U.S. Indicates It Will Ignore Peiping's New "Keep Out" Signs

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Red China pushed out its sea border to 12 miles Thursday and warned the United States against crossing it to reinforce Quemoy. But a curious lull in Red artillery shelling of Quemoy continued early Friday.

The Nationalist Chinese Defense Ministry at 1:30 a.m. had put out no further reports here of artillery action against the islands since an announcement that the Communists had fired 144 shells in a bombardment that ended at 3:48 a.m. Thursday.

If there has been no further firing since then, it would be the longest lull since the crisis started Aug. 23, spelling out at least 22 hours of quiet.

The Peiping regime set its new territorial limit by decree at 12 miles out to sea along the coastline, and also declared the new limits apply to the waters around Formosa, 100 miles off the cost, and the Pescadores, 30 miles west of Formosa.

(But the United States indicated it would ignore the limits announced by Peiping.

(The Defense Department in Washington, asked specifically if 7th Fleet units would remain outside the 12 mile limit announced by the Communists, said:

("The United States does not recognize any claims to a territorial sea of 12 miles. It is the United States view that under international law the limit of the territorial sea is three miles, and that states adhering to the three-mile limit have no obligation under international law to recognize claims to a greater area.")

The new challenge to the United States came as an American Sabre-jet unit flew in to help President Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists on Formosa who already are equipped with American weapons.

The planes and three American warships steaming here to join the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Formosa Strait presumably represent the American aid promised to the Nationalists Wednesday by Vice Adm. Roland M. Smoot, chief U.S. commander here.

Walkouts at the Fisher Body Division of General Motors in Marion, Ind., the Chevrolet frame and stamping plant in Flint, Mich., and Chrysler's Amplex plant in Detroit ended a brief "truce" period that existed over the holiday week end.

The Fisher Body walkout idled 3,500 workers, the Chevrolet walkout 2,500 workers, and the Amplex walkout 215 workers.

Continuing strike by 2,300 workers at the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac plant at Kansas City and by 2,150 workers at two Chrysler plants in Detroit boosted to 10,665 the number of workers idled by walkouts.

British Report Ramming Try By Iceland Ship

LONDON (UPI) — Britain charged Thursday night that an Icelandic coast guard vessel tried unsuccessfully to ram a British frigate protecting British trawlers inside Iceland's disputed new 12-mile fishing limit.

An admiralty announcement said the 500-ton Icelandic cutter Aegir attempted to slam into the 1,100-ton British naval fisheries protection frigate Russell as the two ships followed a parallel course in waters around Iceland.

It was the latest attempt by Iceland to hamper British fishing inside the new 12-mile territorial waters limit which Britain does not recognize. On Tuesday, British ...llors and fishermen repelled two Icelandic coast guard boarding ...arties in the first show of force since the "fish war" started last Sunday at midnight.

The admiralty said the skipper of the Russell radioed that "the Aegir plainly tried to ram me." The attempt failed, the admiralty said.

The ramming attempt was the only incident reported today as fog settled over the disputed waters and curbed Iceland's actions against the fishing vessels.

Youth, 16, Captured After Killing Mother

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A mother was shot and killed Thursday by her 16-year-old son, authorities reported, and the boy was apprehended after a pursuit of 50 miles.

Chief Tulsa County Prosecutor Robert D. Simmons identified the youth as Billy J. Killion, a senior at Tulsa's Daniel Webster High School. Victim of the shooting was Mrs. Agnes Killion.

Officers could provide no motive for the shooting, but a sister, Inez Terrell, 21, of Jenks, said her brother had a "quick temper."

Striking Students Resist Integration At Van Buren, Ark.

Group Appeals To Faubus For Aid

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP)—White high school students Thursday banded together to physically oppose racial integration and appealed to Gov. Orval E. Faubus for support.

"In behalf of Van Buren High School we are on stike here," a telegram to Faubus said. "In order to stay integration we need your help."

Faubus, just back in his Little Rock office from a two-day fishing trip, shook his head after reading the message signed, "Roger Williams."

"I don't know what to do about the Van Buren situation; I will have to check into it," said the governor.

A slowly swelling crowd of white boys milled about the high school throughout the morning and into mid-afternoon. They left at the end of the school day, making no outward demonstration — even when two Negro girls walked down side steps from the building and boarded a school bus along with white students.

"We will be back outside the school tomorrow and every other day for six days until the Negroes are removed," a leader said. "At the end of those six days, if the Negroes are not out, then we will put them out for good."

The youthful leader said more than 100 "strikers" would be on hand Friday.

Thirteen Negro boys and girls entered Van Buren High Tuesday when the school began its second year of court-ordered integration. They marched past jeering white youths and derisive inscriptions painted on the sidewalks and brick walls of the building.

One of the Negro students, Freddy Bell, 16, said Wednesday night that he and several of his Negro classmates would not return to Van Buren High because of threats and insults from white students. The school has a total enrollment of 635.

A group of about 50 white boys gathered outside the high school building early Thursday. They belligerently proclaimed that they would block entrances and take other, unspecified, measures to keep Negroes out.

A spokesman said 41 boys had organized a strike to resist integration. He indicated the group would not return to class until Negroes were permanently ousted.

Tax Red Tape Cut For Millions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Thursday eased the pain of paying taxes for 31 million Americans who earn up to $10,000 a year.

The Internal Revenue Service announced that persons in this bracket could pay their income taxes simply by filling out a small card instead of laboring through a long four-page form.

But taking the easy way out could cost some taxpayers money.

The service said that if taxpayers wanted to take deductions for business expenses, dividend credits, sick pay and credit for estimated tax payments, they'll have to use the long form.

Prior to the ruling, which is applicable to 1958 incomes, only persons with incomes under $5,000 could use the card form, a punch card about the size of a bank check with 15 questions to be answered.

Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington said the new card may be used by any taxpayer who has a total income of less than $10,000 consisting of wages as reported by the person's employer, or has received no more than $200 in dividends, interests and wages not subject to witholding during the year.

Husband and wife can make joint returns in this simple manner provided their joint income is under the limit.

Strike Leaves Detroit Without Newspapers

The Free Press and Detroit's two afternoon papers, the News and Times, are all represented by the Detroit Newspaper Publishers Assn. in negotiations with various newspaper craft unions.

Thus, the News and Times did not publish their editions Thursday even though the dispute involved the firing of a union official at the Free Press.

DeGaulle Offers Constitution; Red Riot Erupts

PARIS (UPI)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle offered his new constitution for a strongly governed Fifth Republic to the French people Thursday night in a mammoth street rally marred by the worst outbreak of Communist rioting since he came to power.

De Gaulle, invading the working quarter to speak in the Place de la Republique, warned an estimated throng of 100,000 that France could "perish" unless the state is given sufficient strength and prestige.

He declared that his proposed constitution, to be voted on in a popular referendum Sept. 28, would give France a "government which is made to govern."

De Gaulle, however, said that what his government had in mind was a Republican regime for France and not a dictatorship as claimed by leftists.

But the powerful big French Communist Party countered with its first show of force since De Gaulle rode to the premiership June 1 on the crest of the right-wing Algiers revolt.

Thirty minutes before De Gaulle began speaking Thursday evening thousands of Communist shock troops charged into police on the north side of the giant square on the east end of Paris.

The Communist mob, estimated at about 10,000, clashed with a force of 10,000 riot police specially mobilized for the occasion.

The Reds, holding cards saying "no to the constitution", crashed their way through a first line of police ringing the giant square. It took reinforcements of tough republican security guards to push them back.

The rioting started and ended quickly. By the time De Gaulle started speaking, quiet had been restored.

One group of Communist demonstrators was badly mauled by De Gaulle supporters in the crowd before they were taken into custody by police and whisked off to jail.

Will Defend Islands Vital To Formosa

Use Of American Force Might Include Mainland Bombing

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The United States warned Red China Thursday this country will move in with "timely and effective" military force—including possible bombing of the Red Chinese mainland—if necessary to save the islands essential to Formosa's defense.

A top-level statement likewise said this country's acquiescence to the use of "naked force" would threaten peace everywhere.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles issued the statement following an hour and 45 minute conference at the summer White House. It said Eisenhower would not hesitate to order U.S. fighting forces into action if Red China makes an all-out effort to conquer Formosa and offshore islands.

Dulles, who flew here from Washington to discuss what he called a serious situation in the Far East, at the same time said the Communist bombardment of offshore Quemoy is not necessarily a prelude to invasion.

Face-Saving Opportunity

He also gave Peiping a chance to back off by saying: "The President and I earnestly hope that the Chinese Communist regime will not again, as in the case of Korea, defy the basic principle upon which world order depends, namely that armed force should not be used to achieve territorial ambitions."

He also urged that the Communists pursue their territorial claims, "however ill-founded," by peaceful means.

Thursday's Eisenhower- Dulles meeting, the first ever held here, went the farthest this country has gone in expressing U.S. intentions to halt Communist aggression in the Formosa Strait.

The statement which Eisenhower authorized Dulles to make did not mention specifically that U.S. planes might bomb the Chinese mainland. But a top official who had a leading role in composing it said, when asked if the bombing of concentrations on the mainland might be a part of the defense of Formosa: "It might become so, if Formosa was attacked or imminently threatened from those airfields."

Russia Is Question Mark

This same spokesman, asked if Russia wouldn't come to the aid of the Chinese Communists if this country intervened in the strait, replied: "They might or might not think it was expedient to come to the aid of China under those circumstances."

Dulles arrived by helicopter from the nearby Quonset naval base at 10:27 a.m. — three minutes before the scheduled start of the conference — and left immediately after reading his statement to newsmen.

About 70 reporters and radio-TV representatives crowded into a conference room a few feet from Eisenhower's office to hear the secretary — grave in manner, but indicating confidence in this country's ability to meet the situation — read the statement.

The Eisenhower- Dulles statement stressed the U. S. government believes the Chinese Nationalists can handle any present threat to their territory and that this country would step in only if the Nationalist defenses—already well supported by this country—proved inadequate.

Ella, Seven Dead In Wake, Moves Toward Gulf Coast

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Tropical storm Ella, with at least seven dead and a shipwreck in its wake, moved slowly over the Gulf of Mexico Thursday toward the west Louisiana and Texas coast.

But the nation's fifth tropical disturbance of the season remained a juvenile by the hurricane standards of her sisters in destruction.

The 4 p.m. c.s.t. weather bureau advisory said Ella had changed little from its earlier 12-14 m.p.h. speed and 40-70 m.p.h. winds. It still had a "poorly defined center," the mark of an immature hurricane.

The latest weather advisory gave its position near latitude 24, longitude 89 about 450 statute south of Biloxi, Miss., moving west northwest.

Weather forecasters warned, however, that while Ella was expected to progress at the same speed and direction, "conditions are favorable" for the storm to regain hurricane force Thursday night.

The outer fringe of the storm swept over the Louisiana coast with heavy squalls and gusty winds reported at 40 and 50 miles an hour Thursday morning.

Early Friday, two large freighters, anchored in the Mississippi River in St. Bernard Parish near New Orleans, collided when heavy squalls and high fringe winds from the storm area swept inland.

No injuries were reported when the two ships, the S. S. Tontine and the S. S. Ocean Deborah, slammed together. Damage was slight.

Artillery Lull Continues As China Reds Declare 12-Mile Territorial Sea Limit

U.S. Indicates It Will Ignore Peiping's New "Keep Out" Signs

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Red China pushed out its sea border to 12 miles Thursday and warned the United States against crossing it to reinforce Quemoy. But a curious lull in Red artillery shelling of Quemoy continued early Friday.

The Nationalist Chinese Defense Ministry at 1:30 a.m. had put out no further reports here of artillery action against the islands since an announcement that the Communists had fired 144 shells in a bombardment that ended at 3:48 a.m. Thursday.

If there has been no further firing since then, it would be the longest lull since the crisis started Aug. 23, spelling out at least 22 hours of quiet.

The Peiping regime set its new territorial limit by decree at 12 miles out to sea along the coastline, and also declared the new limits apply to the waters around Formosa, 100 miles off the cost, and the Pescadores, 30 miles west of Formosa.

(But the United States indicated it would ignore the limits announced by Peiping.

(The Defense Department in Washington, asked specifically if 7th Fleet units would remain outside the 12 mile limit announced by the Communists, said:

("The United States does not recognize any claims to a territorial sea of 12 miles. It is the United States view that under international law the limit of the territorial sea is three miles, and that states adhering to the three-mile limit have no obligation under international law to recognize claims to a greater area.")

The new challenge to the United States came as an American Sabre-jet unit flew in to help President Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists on Formosa who already are equipped with American weapons.

The planes and three American warships steaming here to join the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Formosa Strait presumably represent the American aid promised to the Nationalists Wednesday by Vice Adm. Roland M. Smoot, chief U.S. commander here.

Legislative Council Studies Plan To End Grand Jury System

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Maryland legislative group is considering a recommendation that the state abandon its grand jury system in criminal cases.

Under study by the Legislative Council, interim screening arm of the General Assembly, is a proposal to replace the system with a procedure placing greater importance on the preliminary magistrate's hearing.

The recommendation came from R. Lee Benson, assistant director of research for the council.

Benson emphasized that such a change would require qualified, fulltime magistrates. It could not work under the present system of magistrates serving partime by gubernatorial appointment.

Legislation calling for creation of fulltime judgeships to replace the present magistrate system in Baltimore City failed to pass the 1957 Legislature after the six city members of the State Senate split evenly on the issue.

"By custom and the common law of England, its grand jury system has become fixed here (in Maryland)," said Benson in a comprehensive report on the history and operation of the system.

"The common law never apparently required indictment for all classes of crimes and consequently such extensive use of the grand jury as is found in Baltimore City. Simply by custom, Maryland has fallen into the habit of sending most criminal cases through the grand jury. The result of this is to become stagnant because of tradition.

"England, which created the grand jury and gave it to Maryland, began to find that it was a cumbersome process that could be replaced without any loss of fundamental freedom and liberty. Since 1933 England has prosecuted by means of an information system, the germ of which is the hearing before the magistrate where probable cause that the accused committed a crime must be found. This preliminary hearing supplants the grand jury."

Benson said in the 42-page printed report there is strong evidence that the information system has "worked successfully in England," but to be efficient "it depends on the presence of a magistrate who is a full-time judge, not a part-time lay political appointee."

There are about 25,000 such full-time magistrates in England, said the report. They are lifetime appointees by the Crown on advice of the Lord Chancellor.

". . .Maryland cannot entrust the preliminary hearing to magistrates under the present system of partisan, short-term lay appointees and expect to preserve the fundamental freedoms that the grand jury now protects," Benson added.

He noted that Maryland is one of 27 states and jurisdictions using the grand jury method of initiating criminal prosecutions. About 23 other jurisdictions use the information as an almost complete substitute for the grand jury and the jury itself is seldom called for any purpose.

Benson recommended that the jury system be retained in Maryland for certain types of investigation, particularly those involving political or governmental matters.

One disadvantage of the grand jury system, said Benson, is "the possibility of abuse of the grand jury by an unscrupulous state's attorney." He cited, for example, one grand jury report that the state's attorney conducted the examination of witnesses.

"Naturally the state's attorney is desirous by a line of questioning to elicit only those facts that will convince the jury that probable cause of a crime exists," said the report.

Mennonites Balk At TV, Quit Public Schools

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—The Mennonites of Washington County have withdrawn their children from public schools and are establishing schools of their own.

Their parents object to the use of television in the scholastic program.

Mennonites belong to a strict Protestant sect, somewhat like the Amish, who are opposed to taking oaths, to military service and television and radios.

Washington County schools have served as a pilot group in an experiment to determine how effective the use of closed circuit television is in a public school system. Authorities have called the program a complete success.

The withdrawal by the Mennonites was with the approval of the county Board of Education.

Schools Superintendent William Brish said the sect has leased from the Board of Education an empty building owned by the board and will renovate it at its own expense. He said the church group has agreed to supply its own teachers who will meet all requirements of the state Department of Education.

Brish said the school system was familiar with the beliefs of the Mennonites and never had required the Mennonite children to attend classes which used television sets for instruction or to watch educational movies.

Racket Probers Delve Into Union Fund Loan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate rackets investigators said Thursday that Teamster attorney George S. Fitzgerald received a $15,750 "finder's fee" for helping a Detroit real estate firm land a million dollar loan from the union's welfare fund.

The union stands to lose $600,000 to $700,000 on the deal, according to testimony by Walter H. Henson, accountant - investigator for the Senate Rackets Committee.

"A fine way to borrow a million dollars," committee chairman John L. McClellan commented after Henson traced details of the transaction.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy accused the Winchester Development Co., the company involved, of using "phony invoices" to perpetrate "a deal within a deal" in connection with a suburban project for which the money had been lent.

Fitzgerald denied the union would lose as much as Henson said. He told newsmen that at least $600,000 would be recovered. He complained that the committee, by recessing until Tuesday, left him "hanging over the week end" without an opportunity to explain the October, 1955, loan.

Henson testified that the $15,750 was Fitzgerald's cut of a $35,000 payment, the balance of which went to his law partner, Max Klayman, and to a George Stone, who was not identified by the committee.

Henson said that on the basis of 350 acres of land already sold in the suburban Winchester Village project at Flint, Mich., the Teamsters should have been repaid their million dollars, plus about $200,000 interest.

But he said only $104,000 in interest and nothing on the principal had been repaid. He said the Teamsters, after granting four extensions on the loan, had started foreclosure proceedings.

Five Treated By Quack Died

CHICAGO (UPI) — Seventeen persons Thursday filed complaints against a young, hollow-cheeked ex-mental patient who posed as a doctor and treated dozens of patients.

Police said Peter J. Frank, 31, posing as "Dr. Edwin Galler" and using a pizza restuarant as an office, treated at least five persons who later died. Two of the bodies have been exhumed and an inquest into one of the deaths is scheduled for Friday.

Some of the complaints charging practice of medicine without a license were signed by relatives of the quack's "patients" who died, Police Capt. Edward J. McNamara said. Others were filed by ex-"patients."

Frank's exploits have also started investigations by the Chicago Medical Society and the State Department of Registration and Education into the operations of doctors' referral agencies in Chicago.

It was by hoodwinking a reputable physician last month that Frank was able to get his name placed on the lists of a referral agency. His name was then given to patients whose doctors were out of town or were not available for emergency calls. Police believe he treated at least 30 persons and possibly more.

Search For Plane Spreads Into Canada

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI) — The search for a Fish and Wildlife Service plane that has been missing for 14 days with three persons aboard spread into Canada Thursday after a second search of "critical mountain areas" failed to turn up any sign of the missing craft.

Urban Nelson, chief of the division of restoration for the FWS, said the search area also had moved west of the Brooks Mountain range.

23 Arrested In New London Race Rioting

LONDON (UPI) — White and colored groups clashed Thursday in the fifth day of racial violence in London. Fighting began in the early morning hours and broke out again during the day.

Twenty-three persons were arrested in a riot outside a club frequented by colored men near Edgware Road. The battle started when a group of white men and "Teddy boys," British juvenile delinquents, marched to the club and were met by Negroes who rushed out of the building.

The two groups, many of the combatants armed with broken bottles, fought until police arrived.

Nine white men and two colored men were ordered to trial for "unlawfully fighting and making an affray." Ten of them were released in bail.

Arlington Co. Schools Will Open On Segregated Basis

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Federal District Judge Albert V. Bryan Thursday authorized Arlington County to open its schools next Monday on a segregated basis.

Bryan stressed, however, that this was without prejudice to 30 Negro pupils' right to be shifted to white schools later should he find they are entitled to such transfers. The 30 have asked to be admitted to white schools.

The judge said he would not make his final ruling in the Arlington case until after the Supreme Court has ruled in the Little Rock case now pending before it.

The Supreme Court will hear arguments in the Little Rock case a week from Thursday.

Bryan, at the conclusion of three days of testimony and legal arguments, said he would have to give "meticulous and tedious study of the evidence in each of these cases."

In the end, he said, the present assignments of the Negroes by the school board to Negro schools may stand in full, all may be reassigned to the white schools they are seeking to enter, or some of the transfers may be granted and others denied.

Earlier, Judge Bryan mentioned from the bench that the Supreme Court in its next Little Rock decision may further clarify its ruling, that "all deliberate speed" shall be used in carrying out public school desegregation.

Racket Probers Delve Into Union Fund Loan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate rackets investigators said Thursday that Teamster attorney George S. Fitzgerald received a $15,750 "finder's fee" for helping a Detroit real estate firm land a million dollar loan from the union's welfare fund.

The union stands to lose $600,000 to $700,000 on the deal, according to testimony by Walter H. Henson, accountant - investigator for the Senate Rackets Committee.

"A fine way to borrow a million dollars," committee chairman John L. McClellan commented after Henson traced details of the transaction.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy accused the Winchester Development Co., the company involved, of using "phony invoices" to perpetrate "a deal within a deal" in connection with a suburban project for which the money had been lent.

Fitzgerald denied the union would lose as much as Henson said. He told newsmen that at least $600,000 would be recovered. He complained that the committee, by recessing until Tuesday, left him "hanging over the week end" without an opportunity to explain the October, 1955, loan.

Henson testified that the $15,750 was Fitzgerald's cut of a $35,000 payment, the balance of which went to his law partner, Max Klayman, and to a George Stone, who was not identified by the committee.

Henson said that on the basis of 350 acres of land already sold in the suburban Winchester Village project at Flint, Mich., the Teamsters should have been repaid their million dollars, plus about $200,000 interest.

But he said only $104,000 in interest and nothing on the principal had been repaid. He said the Teamsters, after granting four extensions on the loan, had started foreclosure proceedings.

Five Treated By Quack Died

CHICAGO (UPI) — Seventeen persons Thursday filed complaints against a young, hollow-cheeked ex-mental patient who posed as a doctor and treated dozens of patients.

Police said Peter J. Frank, 31, posing as "Dr. Edwin Galler" and using a pizza restuarant as an office, treated at least five persons who later died. Two of the bodies have been exhumed and an inquest into one of the deaths is scheduled for Friday.

Some of the complaints charging practice of medicine without a license were signed by relatives of the quack's "patients" who died, Police Capt. Edward J. McNamara said. Others were filed by ex-"patients."

Frank's exploits have also started investigations by the Chicago Medical Society and the State Department of Registration and Education into the operations of doctors' referral agencies in Chicago.

It was by hoodwinking a reputable physician last month that Frank was able to get his name placed on the lists of a referral agency. His name was then given to patients whose doctors were out of town or were not available for emergency calls. Police believe he treated at least 30 persons and possibly more.

Nine Condemned

TOKYO (UPI) — The New China News Agency said Thursday that the Kwangtung Provincial High People's Court and the Canton Middle People's Court had sentenced to death nine Nationalist secret agents sent into Communist China to execute acts of sabotage.

Search For Plane Spreads Into Canada

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI) — The search for a Fish and Wildlife Service plane that has been missing for 14 days with three persons aboard spread into Canada Thursday after a second search of "critical mountain areas" failed to turn up any sign of the missing craft.

Urban Nelson, chief of the division of restoration for the FWS, said the search area also had moved west of the Brooks Mountain range.

Shells Fail To Halt Quemoy Everyday Life

By CHARLES SMITH

KUMINTOU, Big Quemoy (UPI) — Across a narrow neck of water stand the big Red guns. This village is one of the worst hit on this major island of the Quemoy group off the China coast.

The Communist Chinese artillery is pounding for the 12th straight day. Broken bodies and bewildered faces of the villagers tell how even a "vest pocket war" touches the lives of the humble, the farmers and the fishermen.

Great holes grimace in the tiny brick houses that stand on soil where the folk of Quemoy live little differently from the way of their ancestors. Old men and women tug at your sleeves, trying to show you their houses are hit. Few are standing that have not been scarred.

Men, bewhiskered and wrinkled, and their women have stories of death to tell. A visit to a hospital bears them out. In a small room lies a young girl, unconscious. Next to her is a middle-aged farmer with only a stump remaining for a left leg.

These are the living. In nearby hillsides that rumble night and day with explosions, 37 civilians have been buried.

Yet work goes on throughout the island. Farmers still till the dry and rocky fields despite the daily shellings. Grunting pigs roam freely through village streets. In areas protected from bombardment, you see groups of civilians sitting in semicircles with Army men teaching them how to throw grenades.

Everyone must be prepared to fight, in case of invasion.

You can hear the rumblings of artillery duels as you go about the island. But in the two days I have spent here, only four shells have landed in dirty, fly-infested Quemoy City, the major city. Some shops there keep their shutters up during the day, but business goes on as usual. Barefoot children play in the narrow, cobbled streets.

Gen. Hu Lien, the defender of Quemoy, who repelled a Communist invasion attempt in 1949, says the Communists are attempting to isolate the Quemoys from Formosa and then invade at least one island — probably tiny Tatan at the mouth of the Amoy harbor.

Hu, the Quemoy commander, replied Tuesday to a Communist surrender demand issued to his garrison last week. Nationalist loudspeakers and artillery-borne leaflets declared to the enemy: "Do not sacrifice your lives for Mao Tze-tung and his bandits."

Great Mills High School Opens Door To Negro Girl

Integration Is Swift And Orderly

GREAT MILLS, Md. (AP) — Great Mills High School rolled aside its racial barriers swiftly and orderly Thursday to admit a 16-year-old Negro girl to the student body.

Joan Elaine Groves became a senior at the previously all-white school under orders of a federal district judge whose ruling is being appealed by the school board.

Her 14-year-old brother, Conrad, entered junior high school as a ninth-grader in the same building. Since St. Marys County has officially integrated its public schools through junior high, his enrollment was not contested.

The Groves children are the only two Negro pupils attending previously all-white schools in this southernmost county on Maryland's western shore of Chesapeake Bay.

School officials were prepared for any eventuality. There were no disturbances.

The school grounds was clear of pupils when the Groves children arrived at 9 a.m. aboard a Negro bus.

They had transferred to the bus at a Negro high school four miles from their home and were its lone passengers.

A faculty member met them at the door and escorted them inside. When the half-day school opening was over, they left the building with other pupils, boarded their special bus and departed.

In the 3½ intervening hours, Great Mills High had been racially integrated. The Groves children were assigned to homerooms, joined their white classmates in recess activities, and generally got settled for the school year.

"They were very nice to me," said Joan, whose fate as a student there is still to be determined by the three-judge U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

"Most of the students seemed indifferent to my being there," Joan said, "and some I talked to were very friendly."

There are 49 in her 12th grade homeroom.

Conrad said a few older boys in the student body taunted him at recess but did not molest him.

"Some of them were trying to get me to fight, but, shoot, I'm not going to do anything like that."

The integration was accomplished under the stern and watchful eye of Miss Jane Mattingly, who has been principal at Great Mills for more than 25 years. She is a sister of State Sen. Joseph A. Mattingly (D-St. Marys).

"I thought it went very well—about as I expected," Miss Mattingly told newsmen after the day was over.

"We had taken precautions for any trouble and the teachers were all on the alert. I think everything will work out all right."

Miss Mattingly's first act was to make certain there was no loitering on the school grounds by anyone. She shooed away reporters and photographers waiting at the building for the arrival of the Negro children. The only other adults in the area were a few parents who drove up to the school dropped off their children, and departed.

When school opened Miss Mattingly called the student body of 670 into assembly—with the two Negro children excluded—and laid down the law.

She said she told them there would be Negro children in the school for the first time and that both were "well behaved, intelligent children" and she expected good behavior toward them. The principal had personally registered the Groves children yesterday.

As an added precaution, a state police car cruised past the building several times, but no officers were seen on the grounds.

Joan and Conrad are children of Mr. and Mrs. William Groves of nearby California, Md. Their father is an electrical contractor who moved to this community eight years ago from New York, where Joan had been in an integrated school.

Services For Pilot

ATSUGI, Japan (UPI) — The U.S. Marine Air Wing here held memorial services Thursday for 1st Lt. Clarence W. Jenkins, of Stamford, Conn., who died Sunday in the crash of his FJ-4 fury jet in Yokohama. His plane crashed into a residential section shortly after take off on a training mission, demolishing two houses and injuring nine Japanese.

Sailor Facing Murder Charge

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—The Cecil County grand jury will be asked Monday to return murder indictments against a Bainbridge sailor who beat his wife and baby daughter to death with an auto jack.

State's Atty. J. Albert Roney Jr. said Thursday that copies of murder warrants for the arrest of Machinist's Mate 1.C. Harry E. Dunn Jr. were sent to New York City police.

Dunn is recovering in Bellevue Hospital after an attempt at suicide in a Manhattan hotel Wednesday.

Dunn is charged with slaying his wife, Betty Mary Dunn, 29, and their 14-month-old daughter Joann, while they slept in their home on a farm near North East Wednesday. The bodies were found buried nearby in a shallow grave.

Roney said he understood that the sailor is expected to be hospitalized for several days. He slashed his wrist and swallowed 90 aspirin tablets in his hotel room, then called for help.

Md. State Fair Begins Folding Up

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The 1958 Maryland State Fair begins folding up Friday and after Saturday it will be limited to horse and pony events and horse racing.

Cattle, livestock and other exhibits start to move out of the fairgrounds Friday afternoon.

Late Saturday night, midway concessionaires pack up their tents and rides and move on. The last grandstand show will be Saturday night. The exhibition hall closes the same night.

The last of the cattle judging—Ayrshire, Milking Shorthorns and Aberdeen-Angus—was Thursday.

More than 20,000 persons turned out, up about 2,500 from last year on the same day.

The fair closes and horse racing ends September 13th. There will be no racing Sunday.

A Carroll County dairy farm, Wauwatosa of Woodbine, almost swept the field in the major events in the Ayrshire competition.

Wauwatosa had the grand champion female, plus the junior and senior champs and the junior champion bull. The grand champion Ayrshire bull was shown by Samuel V. Diehl of Bedford, Pa.

In the other final dairy cattle event, Z. R. Lewis of Monkton took both top Milking Shorthorn honors, having the grand champion bull and female. It also showed the senior champion female.

Great Mills High School Opens Door To Negro Girl

Integration Is Swift And Orderly

GREAT MILLS, Md. (AP) — Great Mills High School rolled aside its racial barriers swiftly and orderly Thursday to admit a 16-year-old Negro girl to the student body.

Joan Elaine Groves became a senior at the previously all-white school under orders of a federal district judge whose ruling is being appealed by the school board.

Her 14-year-old brother, Conrad, entered junior high school as a ninth-grader in the same building. Since St. Marys County has officially integrated its public schools through junior high, his enrollment was not contested.

The Groves children are the only two Negro pupils attending previously all-white schools in this southernmost county on Maryland's western shore of Chesapeake Bay.

School officials were prepared for any eventuality. There were no disturbances.

The school grounds was clear of pupils when the Groves children arrived at 9 a.m. aboard a Negro bus.

They had transferred to the bus at a Negro high school four miles from their home and were its lone passengers.

A faculty member met them at the door and escorted them inside. When the half-day school opening was over, they left the building with other pupils, boarded their special bus and departed.

In the 3½ intervening hours, Great Mills High had been racially integrated. The Groves children were assigned to homerooms, joined their white classmates in recess activities, and generally got settled for the school year.

"They were very nice to me," said Joan, whose fate as a student there is still to be determined by the three-judge U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

"Most of the students seemed indifferent to my being there," Joan said, "and some I talked to were very friendly."

There are 49 in her 12th grade homeroom.

Conrad said a few older boys in the student body taunted him at recess but did not molest him.

"Some of them were trying to get me to fight, but, shoot, I'm not going to do anything like that."

The integration was accomplished under the stern and watchful eye of Miss Jane Mattingly, who has been principal at Great Mills for more than 25 years. She is a sister of State Sen. Joseph A. Mattingly (D-St. Marys).

"I thought it went very well—about as I expected," Miss Mattingly told newsmen after the day was over.

"We had taken precautions for any trouble and the teachers were all on the alert. I think everything will work out all right."

Miss Mattingly's first act was to make certain there was no loitering on the school grounds by anyone. She shooed away reporters and photographers waiting at the building for the arrival of the Negro children. The only other adults in the area were a few parents who drove up to the school dropped off their children, and departed.

When school opened Miss Mattingly called the student body of 670 into assembly—with the two Negro children excluded—and laid down the law.

She said she told them there would be Negro children in the school for the first time and that both were "well behaved, intelligent children" and she expected good behavior toward them. The principal had personally registered the Groves children yesterday.

As an added precaution, a state police car cruised past the building several times, but no officers were seen on the grounds.

Joan and Conrad are children of Mr. and Mrs. William Groves of nearby California, Md. Their father is an electrical contractor who moved to this community eight years ago from New York, where Joan had been in an integrated school.

Sailor Facing Murder Charge

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—The Cecil County grand jury will be asked Monday to return murder indictments against a Bainbridge sailor who beat his wife and baby daughter to death with an auto jack.

State's Atty. J. Albert Roney Jr. said Thursday that copies of murder warrants for the arrest of Machinist's Mate 1.C. Harry E. Dunn Jr. were sent to New York City police.

Dunn is recovering in Bellevue Hospital after an attempt at suicide in a Manhattan hotel Wednesday.

Dunn is charged with slaying his wife, Betty Mary Dunn, 29, and their 14-month-old daughter Joann, while they slept in their home on a farm near North East Wednesday. The bodies were found buried nearby in a shallow grave.

Roney said he understood that the sailor is expected to be hospitalized for several days. He slashed his wrist and swallowed 90 aspirin tablets in his hotel room, then called for help.

Md. State Fair Begins Folding Up

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The 1958 Maryland State Fair begins folding up Friday and after Saturday it will be limited to horse and pony events and horse racing.

Cattle, livestock and other exhibits start to move out of the fairgrounds Friday afternoon.

Late Saturday night, midway concessionaires pack up their tents and rides and move on. The last grandstand show will be Saturday night. The exhibition hall closes the same night.

The last of the cattle judging—Ayrshire, Milking Shorthorns and Aberdeen-Angus—was Thursday.

More than 20,000 persons turned out, up about 2,500 from last year on the same day.

The fair closes and horse racing ends September 13th. There will be no racing Sunday.

A Carroll County dairy farm, Wauwatosa of Woodbine, almost swept the field in the major events in the Ayrshire competition.

Wauwatosa had the grand champion female, plus the junior and senior champs and the junior champion bull. The grand champion Ayrshire bull was shown by Samuel V. Diehl of Bedford, Pa.

In the other final dairy cattle event, Z. R. Lewis of Monkton took both top Milking Shorthorn honors, having the grand champion bull and female. It also showed the senior champion female.

NEW YORK — It must be exciting living in the neighborhood of the Soviet Union's Park Avenue town house. For protection, several neighbors display the American flag in their windows. They need a sign of identity. Neighbor Thomas E. Murray, former A.E.C. commissioner, once bought an American flag and pole large enough to block the view of the hammer and sickle (from the north, at least) when the Reds hung out their colors.

The handsome residence of Russia's top UN people and visiting brass is under 24-hour guard by the New York Police. Unquestionably, the FBI and Russian secret police are also detailed there, acting, of course, under separate orders. When Andrei Gromyko was in residence recently the rooftops of nearby homes and apartment houses also were manned by police spotters. Ground floor lights at the residence burned brightly through the night.

Double - parked Russian limousines, aloof to police ticket because of the diplomatic license plates, occasionally block the properly parked vehicles of other tenants of the block. Getting some body to move the offending car becomes a diplomatic feat. First there is the problem of gaining entrance to the mansion, to make the request. Then the problem of getting to speak to someone who admits being able to speak English.

The showing of the flag in windows and from the fronts of other homes on the block became imperative after the Hungarian revolt. Hungarian refugees, and other slave state exiles, began their sometimes vehement picketing two years ago. Their lines were sometimes so long that they overlapped the pavements in front of other homes along the block. Members of the deeply religious and anti-Communist Murray family were heckled as they left or entered their home, the picketers believing that the whole block was infested with Russians.

The Soviet citadel itself is all but impregnable. But it was notably reached one morning by three curious emissaries from another world entirely. Three Catholic nuns, invited to attend 9 o'clock mass in the chapel of the Murray home, arrived 15 minutes early and — to kill time — decided to pay a visit to the nearby atheists. A startled door-keeper admitted them. They looked around the downstairs foyer for a bit, thanked the bewildered man, and left for their mass.

Neighbors who knew the big house before the Reds came there 10 years ago are certain they would not recognize its interior now. For a long time after the Russians took possession the sound of air-hammers from inside the building rattled nearby windows. One thing the neighbors are sure the Russians weren't building were more bedrooms. Each morning, during busier times, attaches emerge from the swank residence carrying the mattresses on which they must have slept. They put them in the trunks of their waiting cars and go to work, presumably clearing the floors for whatever receptions or meetings that are to follow.

J. Edgar Hoover's breath-taking warning: In the postwar years, crime has grown from 1,685,000 major offenses in 1946 to an all-time record of nearly 2,800,000 in 1957. Each year, our nation pays a shocking ransom to the underworld. The estimated annual cost of crime now totals a staggering 22 billions of dollars, or $128 for every man, woman and child in the U.S. Even though there have been vast increases in our expenditures for education to meet our growing needs, the amounts we spent are more than matched by the cost of crime. Crime costs $1.11 each year for every $1 spent on education. For every dollar we contribute to churches, crime costs us $12.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold reported Wednesday the role of the U.N. Emergency Force in Palestine is being threatened by failure of some nations to pay their assessments.

In a report to the General Assembly, which convenes in less than two weeks, Hammarskjold said unpaid balances on 1957 and 1958 assessments total nearly 20 million dollars.

Market's Drive To New 1958 Peaks Interrupted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Routine profit - taking brought irregularity into the market, cutting stocks from their highs of the year late in the session.

The major groups closed lower on average, but upside features nevertheless were numerous. The losses appeared chiefly in recent strong spots such as Artloom Carpet which backed off more than 2 points, American Telephone, down ¾, some of the steels and motors.

Firestone ran up over 4 points, Goodyear nearly 3. United Board & Carton rose over 3, Johnson & Johnson more than 4, Kroger and Eastern Corp. around 2 points. On the other hand, International Salt fell 4½, Litton Industries 1⅞.

Studebaker Packard continued in demand, rising ⅜ to 8⅛ on the day's heaviest turnover. Fruehauf Trailer, up ⅛ to 15, followed in the active list and Artloom Carpet, Loew's and Penn - Texas followed. The last eased as the company announced plans to issue additional stock to raise funds for purchase of Fairbanks, Morse stock. Loew's rose nearly a point.

In oils, Amerada gained close to 2 points, Texas Co. nearly a point. Vick added a point, American Home Products close to 2 in the drugs. In steels there were losses ranging around a point in Jones & Laughlin and National Steel. Motors were narrowly mixed.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Grain futures prices closed on a generally easy level Thursday at the Chicago Board of Trade, with weaker prices evident in new crop contracts.

Wheat closed up ¼ cent to off ⅜ cent; corn (old) up ⅝ to off ⅛ cent; (new) off ¼ cent; soy beans off ¾ to ⅞ cent; lard futures off 3 to 8 points.

A private crop estimate had a bearish effect on the market as expected yield figures showed a marked increase.

International tension restrained selling in wheat and prices were easier in a quiet trade. Traders were less inclined to buy, although some northwest interests purchased in the September delivery.

Declines of nearly one cent were noticed in corn prices. Commission house activity was mixed and buyers showed little interest in the market.

Oats prices remained below Wednesday's closing, and attempted rallies never picked up much momentum. There was scattered local and commission house selling.

Reflecting the other grains, soybean trade was quiet and slumped into heavier price ranges. Some houses with northwest connections sold the November option.

At outside markets, grains also were easy.

Market's Drive To New 1958 Peaks Interrupted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Routine profit - taking brought irregularity into the market, cutting stocks from their highs of the year late in the session.

The major groups closed lower on average, but upside features nevertheless were numerous. The losses appeared chiefly in recent strong spots such as Artloom Carpet which backed off more than 2 points, American Telephone, down ¾, some of the steels and motors.

Firestone ran up over 4 points, Goodyear nearly 3. United Board & Carton rose over 3, Johnson & Johnson more than 4, Kroger and Eastern Corp. around 2 points. On the other hand, International Salt fell 4½, Litton Industries 1⅞.

Studebaker Packard continued in demand, rising ⅜ to 8⅛ on the day's heaviest turnover. Fruehauf Trailer, up ⅛ to 15, followed in the active list and Artloom Carpet, Loew's and Penn - Texas followed. The last eased as the company announced plans to issue additional stock to raise funds for purchase of Fairbanks, Morse stock. Loew's rose nearly a point.

In oils, Amerada gained close to 2 points, Texas Co. nearly a point. Vick added a point, American Home Products close to 2 in the drugs. In steels there were losses ranging around a point in Jones & Laughlin and National Steel. Motors were narrowly mixed.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Grain futures prices closed on a generally easy level Thursday at the Chicago Board of Trade, with weaker prices evident in new crop contracts.

Wheat closed up ¼ cent to off ⅛ cent; corn (old) up ⅝ to off ⅛ cent; (new) off ¼ cent; soy beans off ¾ to ⅜ cent; lard futures off 3 to 8 points.

A private crop estimate had a bearish effect on the market as expected yield figures showed a marked increase.

International tension restrained selling in wheat and prices were easier in a quiet trade. Traders were less inclined to buy, although some northwest interests purchased in the September delivery.

Declines of nearly one cent were noticed in corn prices. Commission house activity was mixed and buyers showed little interest in the market.

Oats prices remained below Wednesday's closing, and attempted rallies never picked up much momentum. There was scattered local and commission house selling.

Reflecting the other grains, soybean trade was quiet and slumped into heavier price ranges. Some houses with northwest connections sold the November option.

At outside markets, grains also were easy.

Second Annual CUF Drive Will Begin On October 1

Captain Daniel K. Biggs, campaign chairman, yesterday announced that the second annual Mighty United campaign of the County United Fund will be held from October 1 to October 21 this year.

County United Fund covers the health, welfare, youth and community needs of 31 affiliated agencies in the area roughly marked off by Cumberland, Frostburg, Georges Creek, Tri-Towns and Keyser.

"All units of the 1958 campaign are organizing," Biggs said, "and the Golden Gifts sections throughout the CUF area have set a remarkable example for the general campaign."

This year's United goal has been set at $339,622, and the campaign chairman pointed out that one-third of this amount—over $100,000—has already been collected by Golden Gifts.

Biggs said that the budgets of the 31 agencies affiliated with CUF have been scrutinized and "cut to a bare minimum" by the allociations committee. When the first United drive kicked off last year there were 24 affiliated agencies, for which a total of $334,000 was collected in the biggest single charity drive ever attempted here.

The 1958 campaign organization includes the following: William R. Carscaden and Woodward D. Pealer, assistants to the campaign chairman; James L. Weber, Chauncey M. Sanner and William A. Douglas, campaign co-chairmen; William C. Walsh and George B. Newman, golden gifts; T. J. Klauenberg and Robert M. Hainsfurther, heavy industry; Robert Garner and Garland Johnston, classified; C. William Seasnoltz and W. D. Smith, national firms; William Cowherd and Glenn K. Davis, business.

Earl K. Hess is county chairman. The following vice-presidents represent various geographical areas: William Walsh, east county; E. E. Church, Keyser; Raymond C. Hudson, Tri-Towns; Edward McPartland, central Georges Creek; and Robert Prichard, Frostburg-Mt. Savage.

The Eiffel Tower has a hydralic press in each of its foundation piers so that if it ever tilts it can be righted.

Man, Teenagers Sentenced To Prison Terms

A local man and two teen-agers were sentenced to the Maryland House of Correction yesterday for their part in an attempt to free a young girl from the Allegany County Infirmary on August 26 and the theft of a car.

The man, James Edward Parsons, 26, was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction in Juvenile Court after being found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was sentenced by Magistrate Fred H. Anderson.

Parsons was then taken before Trial Magistrate Morris Baron along with the two teen-agers Harold Wickard, 15, and Robert Bonnett, 16, where they were charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Magistrate Baron sentenced each to six months in the House of Correction, and pointed out that Parsons' sentence would be served after he had completed the 12 months given him in Juvenile Court.

The three, along with two young girls, were apprehended by Officer R. L. Maiers after a "wild" automobile chase on Valley Street. The chase came to an end when the car in which the youths were riding crashed into a utility pole. Wickard was hospitalized following the accident.

Magistrate Baron pointed out yesterday that the "age of chivalry" is past, and their "King Arthur" attempt to free the young lady held in the detention quarters was entirely wrong.

The girl was being held in the Detention Quarters after being sentenced to the House of Good Shepherd in Juvenile Court.

After the group had been arrested, Officer Maiers and Lt. Det. James E. Van learned that the car in which the teen-agers were riding had been stolen from the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company's parking lot.

Following the mishap, Parsons fled, but later surrendered to authorities and was lodged in the Allegany County Jail until today's hearing.

SS. Peter And Paul Enrollment Increases

A total of 690 students have enrolled in SS. Peter and Paul Parochial School and Ursuline Academy, according to Sister Hilda, principal.

Sister Hilda said 566 pupils enrolled in the grade school, while 124 enrolled in the Academy. This is an increase of 15 over last year's enrollment.

Knives Are Thrown At Boys' Feet

An unusual case was reported to City Police Wednesday by a local father.

The man informed authorities that his 10-year-old son and a nine-year-old boy were walking home when two teenage youths stopped them along the street.

The youths forced the boys into a wooded area in the Johnson Heights section and made them disrobe. The youths then threw hunting knives at the boys' feet and legs.

Police said the nine-year-old boy had a small piece of his heel cut off by the knife.

UCT Meets Tomorrow

Cumberland Council 179, United Commercial Travelers, will meet Saturday at 6 p. m. in the IOOF Temple on South Mechanic Street.

Joseph Soethe, senior counselor, said plans for the fall and winter activities of the council will be discussed. A report of the council's recent picnic will be submitted.

Soethe said a promotional campaign and dinner will be discussed at Saturday's meeting, and plans for the annual Ladies Night program will be aired.

Soethe said the presentation of a 50-year plaque is scheduled for the October meeting.

Fire Damages Cement Plant

ROWLESBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—Fire caused extensive damage yesterday to the Alpha Cement Co. plant at nearby Manheim, Preston County, forcing closure of the community's principal industry for an estimated three months.

The fire started in an electrical circuit control panel. Rowlesburg firemen brought the blaze under control after about three and a half hours.

The plant is the principal source of employment at Manheim. There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

The Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company and its auxiliary will hold a festival at the Fire Hall on Saturday, September 13, beginning at 5 p.m.

Hunting Law Amendment Is Proposed Here

State's Attorney James S. Getty said yesterday that he is preparing a bill which he will ask the Allegany County delegation introduce at the next session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Getty said the bill would eliminate a problem which has arisen at various times when game wardens attempt to obtain identification from hunters in autos or in cases when these persons resist arrest or flee to avoid interrogation.

On August 16, Getty said, several men were accosted by a game warden in the eastern part of Allegany County and when he attempted to obtain identification the men allegedly drove off and almost ran the warden down.

Getty said the game wardens are powerless in such situations, as the law does not provide for them to give identification and does not prohibit them from driving off. There is an added danger in that the game wardens could be run over by some hunters anxious to flee from the scene.

The state's attorney wrote to Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the State Game and Inland Fish Commision, outlining the situation and pointing up the inadequacy of Maryland game and fish laws with reference to the motor vehicle laws. Getty said Pennsylvania and a number of other states have laws which govern such contingencies as he cites.

Vaughn told Getty that he concurs with his recommendation that the law be amended to provide that it is unlawful to refuse to give proper identification upon request of a game warden, or resist arrest or unlawful flight.

Vaughn said he will seek support for the bill from members of the Legislature from other sections of the state where this problem also exists.

Firemen Answer Hospital Alarm

Firemen from three stations responded yesterday when a false alarm was reported at Memorial Hospital.

Firemen report that the alarm system at the hospital was being checked by personnel of the department and one of the boxes must have been bumped accidentally, setting off the alarm.

Crossing Guards Get Instructions

Cumberland's 11 school crossing guards yesterday met with top police officials in City Hall for organizational purposes.

Philmore F. Fleming, police and fire commissioner, said the women were briefed on their duties and given reminders on ways to improve operations.

Police Chief R. E. Flynn reminded the guards to be alert, display confidence and composure, act without evidence of indecision; execute signals and maneuvers in a precise military manner.

He said they should provide assistance and information in a willing manner, keep informed on first aid.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech also spoke to the guards concerning the solving of any problems that may arise in each one's section.

The women were urged to present short talks before assemblies of children, making them safety conscious.

They were reminded that Officer John H. Stitcher is in charge of the guards. It is his duty to keep in contact with them during the times they are working, filling in for any who may be absent.

The school crossing guards were originally slated to be cut due to sharp economy measures enacted by the new administration, but the combined efforts of Commissioner Fleming, Chief Flynn and Mayor Keech succeeded in having them retained.

Youth For Christ Leader Will Speak Here Today

Dr. Ted W. Engstrom, Wheaton, Ill., president of the Youth for Christ International, will deliver several talks in Cumberland this weekend.

He will speak at the president's dinner today at 6:45 p. m., in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, and meet with the Tri-State YFC Board on Saturday at 9:30 a. m.

Dr. Engstrom will meet the YFC Clubbers Saturday from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m. in Sheehe's Restaurant, and speak at the Youth for Christ Rally on Saturday at 7:45 p. m., in the Salvation Army Citadel.

Dr. Engstrom served as executive director of Youth for Christ International for five years before being elected to the presidency in 1957. During this time he helped Youth Congresses on Evangelism in Ireland, Japan, Brazil and Venezula in addition to addressing scores of rallies in the United States and Canada.

DR. TED ENGSTROM

Dr. Engstrom has written 19 books, and was editor of the world-circulated Christian Digest during his 11 years as editorial director and book editor of the Zondervon Publishing House in Grand Rapids, Mich. He also directed Grand Rapids Youth for Christ for three and one-half years and was the director of the first American citywide crusade held by evangelist Billy Graham, in 1947 in Grand Rapids.

A journalism graduate of Taylor University at Upland, Ind., he now serves as chairman of its board of directors. His Alma Mater conferred an honorary doctor of humane letters on him in 1955.

Music at the rally will be presented by the Youth Choir, YFC ladies' ensemble, brass ensemble and Rev. Louis Emerick, vocal soloist, and pastor of the Bedford Road Charge of the Methodist Church.

Office Building Is Remodeled By Railway

The three-story office building of the Western Division of the Western Maryland Railway has been the center of much remodeling this summer.

The purpose of the work is to move offices on the third floor to the first floor, Sidney George, division engineer, reported.

Space being utilized on the first floor is the unused passenger waiting room and accompanying baggage room and a baggage elevator.

The Western Maryland no longer has passenger service and since last fall the quarters have laid idle.

The elevator has been removed and the floor made solid. The baggage room has been opened up, what was the elevator shaft will be a spare office.

The former conductors' room and the baggage room will be used as offices and three others will be partitioned off in the south end of the waiting room.

Moving into these quarters from the third floor will be the offices of the signal department, supervisor of tracks and supervisor of bridges and buildings.

The former lunch room will be for the telephone operator. The women's lounge will become a dial equipment center.

The railroad's division office will change from the manual type telephone operation to dial as soon as the equipment is installed.

Moving into the telephone exchange on the second floor adjacent to the engineer's office will be the blue print room.

The blue print machine is currently being operated on the main floor.

Prior to the changes in the building, the railroad installed an automatic gas furnace in the basement.

The alterations are the first since 1913 when the three-story brick structure was opened for use.

Through the windows of its ticket office at the peak of the passenger trade, one could obtain passage to Elkins on the south and Baltimore in the east.

From the opening of the Connellsville extension in 1912 to World War I days one could travel to Pittsburgh over the Western Maryland and connecting lines.

Ernest Kimball opened what was the first cafeteria in the United States in Chicago in 1895.

Annual Fund Drive Set In LaVale

The annual drive for funds to operate and maintain the equipment and facilities of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will be held September 15 through September 20.

Cromwell C. Zembower, president, emphasized that the contributions go toward keeping the company's two pumpers and one equipment truck in first class operation.

LaVale will be divided into 23 zones, each of which will have a captain. These captains, who will be selected at the fire company's meeting Tuesday, will choose their own teams.

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary will, as in past years, assist the fire company in the campaign.

The committee on arrangements for the drive is comprised of Zembower, chairman; James Loar, James Schell, Waverly Rice and Lloyd Rice.

Other details will be worked out at the next meeting Tuesday night.

Zembower said the firemen wanted to make clear to residents of the community that the company's engagement in a contract to build a new post office will not take one cent of the operating or maintenance funds.

The 15-year non-cancellable lease taken by the Post Office Department and the General Services Administration will pay off the $75,000 building at no cost to the fire company.

After that, the property will belong to the company.

Boy Sentenced To Training School

A local boy was sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys and two others were placed on probation yesterday in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson sentenced a 15-year-old boy to the training school after finding him guilty of being a delinquent minor. The youth along with a 14-year-old boy, was arrested for tampering with equipment at a local stone quarry.

Magistrate Anderson noted that the older boy had a previous record in Juvenile Court.

In another case yesterday, a 17-year-old youth was paroled after being found a delinquent minor. The boy was apprehended by City Police in connection with a breaking and entering at McIntyre's Store on Cumberland Street.

Town Buys Property

A property on Railroad Street in Barton has been purchased by the town from Arthur P. Hoffa and his wife, Estella. A deed for the property was filed for record at the Court House yesterday. The purchase price was $2,000.

U.S. Still Seeks Answer To What Is Proper Role For Ex-President

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two Black Crows, a vaudeville team of a generation ago, had a routine in which one of them decided not to hire out as U.S. president.

"No future in it," he said gloomily.

The line was delivered for laughs, but like many a laugh-getter, it also was true.

After all these years, the country still hasn't found a satisfactory answer to this question: What should we do with our former presidents?

Only in one of Congress' final gasps of this session did it even make much of an attempt to find a solution. Congress voted, and President Eisenhower signed, a bill that would give each president a $25,000-a-year pension, plus money for a clerical staff.

Herbert Hoover, who has been a former president longer than any man in our history, made a point often overlooked. As a wealthy man, Hoover said he did not need the pension, and would turn it over to charity.

But, he said, "former presidents have deserved, and they have often badly needed, such a pension. No man can make any substantial savings from being a president."

Hoover didn't cite any for instances, but many a former president has had serious financial problems.

The most pitiful was U.S. Grant. Unfortunate in business ventures, dying of cancer, Grant wrote his memoirs to satisfy his creditors. It was a grim race, and Grant barely won. He finished four days before his death.

The most surprising was Thomas Jefferson. Despite the splendor of Monticello, or possibly because of it, Jefferson was in constant fiscal trouble, selling his beloved library, dreaming of a lottery that would make his old age secure.

Or take this description of former President James Monroe: "A stooped old man, clothed in a shiny suit and battered beaver hat, giving every evidence in his facial expression of deep-seated unhappiness."

Or these words of Andrew Jackson's: "Poverty stares us in the face."

Well, pensions will take care of situations like that, but we still have no answer as to what is a proper role for a former president.

Both our living ex-presidents have been active, alert men. Hoover and Harry S. Truman have written articles and books, made speeches, kept up a voluminous correspondence; and, in Hoover's case, served in various governmental advisory posts.

Other former presidents have followed other pursuits, all the way from William Howard Taft, who became chief justice; to Monroe, who for a time was a justice of the peace.

It's always interesting to read what a president says he may do when his heavy chores are finished. Once, after making a tough decision, Woodrow Wilson said he didn't care about the consequences.

"As for myself," he said, "I can go down in a cyclone cellar and write poetry for the rest of my days, if necessary."

Fortunately for Wilson, the country and maybe for poetry, it wasn't necessary.

U.S., China Talk Selves Into Toe-To-Toe Position

By J. M. ROBERTS

The United States and Red China are rapidly talking themselves into a toe - to - toe position over some little islands which are more a matter of prestige than of military importance.

The whole thing has developed in rather strange fashion.

The Reds have always talked, as Chiang Kai-shek talked before them, of bringing all the islands, including the Pescadores and Formosa, back into China.

They would also like to destroy military installations which help interdict important ports. But how much shipping would brave the Nationalist gunboats in Formosa Strait, even without the guns on Quemoy and Matsu, is an open question.

The Nationalist garrison on Quemoy totaled about 50,000 men before the reinforcements which may have added about 10,000. There may be 15,000 more on Matsu. The buildup has not been as large as reports in Washington have indicated. The overwhelming Nationalist strength still is on Formosa under the policy of keeping a strong counterrevolutionary force in being.

But the Reds have marched so far up the hill and become so active that well-informed Chinese in America fear they cannot march back down again.

On the other side of the coin, the United States, in statements by Secretary Dulles and President Eisenhower, by Army Secretary Brucker and the U.S. commander on Formosa, Adm. Smoot, has been emphasizing the importance of the islands to the defense of Formosa.

They have done everything except say outright that the United States will fight with the Nationalists to defend the offshore islands the same as Formosa. Some new statement is expectable any time.

Short of an outright promise to fight, the Nationalists would very much like to have more planes, and to be turned loose against the mainland installations from which the Reds threaten air attack. Up to now the Nationalist fliers, despite some Eisenhower talk a few years ago about "unleashing" Chi-to dropping pamphlets and comang Kai-shek, have been restricted municating with anti-Communist guerrillas on the mainland.

Youth Is Reported To Be Missing Again

James Norris, a former resident of Cumberland who now resides in Salt Lake City, Utah, is among the missing again, city police said last night.

The boy was picked up here as a runaway from his home last week. He was taken to Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was to have boarded a plane to return home.

However, authorities yesterday received a call from the boy's mother that the lad has not returned home and police have once again been alerted to be on the lookout for him.

New Parking Fine Plan Proposed

Red Line Penalty May Jump To $3

A new schedule of fines for parking violations will be recommended to the Mayor and Council this morning by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

The plan will be presented as city officials meet at 9:30 a.m. in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech for a discussion on long-range planning.

The parking fine recommendations will include the elimination of 25 cent courtesy meters at Police Headquarters and South End Fire Station.

For meter violations, the department will recommend a fine of $1 if paid within an hour and $2 after one hour.

The fine for yellow line violations would be set at $2. Mr. Fleming said the department will try to indicate the time limits on such lines.

Parking on red lines, a more serious violation, would call for a fine of $3.

Mr. Fleming said action on an ordinance revising parking violation fines is planned at Monday's regular Council meeting.

Police officials yesterday discussed the operation of Baltimore Street traffic lights.

At issue is whether traffic is moved better by automatic lights or by traffic officers on the street.

Mr. Fleming said the department will keep working on the problem until a policy is established.

Mineral County School Census Slated Monday

A school census will be conducted in public schools of Mineral County on Monday for the purpose of determining the needs of the future in the education field.

Schools Superintendent S. T. McGee said last night that there will be no school for the students as the teachers and bus drivers will be busy canvassing the homes throughout the county.

Similar census figures will be gathered every five years. Parents are being requested to have available the name and age of their children as well as other pertinent information which will be sought by the canvassers.

The census will include those persons from one day to 21 years of age, according to Mr. McGee, who said that all physical and mental handicaps will be recorded.

The census program will be conducted throughout the State of West Virginia for the purpose of determining future educational needs and what can be done to alleviate the problem.

crises that has frightened our friends of the free nations abroad far more than it has deterred our enemies.

"Peace, we are told, like that old Republican slogan about prosperity, is just around the corner. But every time Secretary Dulles reaches that corner, a new crisis erupts.

"Look at what lack of leadership has meant to us here in the United States—

"We have a Republican recession with five million men and women looking for work and millions more working only part-time.

"The cost of living is at a record high, and so are business bankruptcies.

"Farmers are being pushed off the land to join the unemployed city workers. The Republicans don't believe in the family farm.

"We have neglected our schools.

"We have inadequate programs for our senior citizens.

"These failures affect every county and every state."

Mr. Butler warmly endorsed all members of the Harmony Ticket and predicted victory for John R. Foley who, he said, threw a real scare into Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde during the 1956 election.

He said this year "there are no Eisenhower coattails to help Mr. Hyde. He has a choice of Beall's coattail or his own shirt sleeves. Either way he runs, John Foley is going to beat him."

The Baltimore mayor invaded this Western Maryland area along with the other three members of the Democrats' statewide ticket.

D'Alesandro said voters were fed up with what he termed the Republicans' failures to keep their promises.

When asked whom he thought Beall did represent, D'Alesandro referred to his opponent's acceptance of campaign gifts from out-of-state interests.

"Efficient Operation"

State Senator Louis L. Goldstein, the Democratic candidate for State Comptroller, promised the Allegany County Democrats that, if elected, he would continue the operation of the office in the same efficient manner established by Mr. Tawes, the incumbent.

"As President of the State Senate, as chairman of the finance committee and as chairman of the Legislative Council, I have been intimately involved and acquainted with the budgetary problems of the state," Senator Goldstein said.

"As comptroller, I will serve as chairman of the Board of Revenue Estimates and will be one of the three members of the Board of Public Works, as well as having jurisdiction over the collection and disbursements of the state's revenues.

"During the incumbency of my predecessor, Mr. Tawes, great strides were made and many changes effected in the State Comptroller's office. The amount of funds handled has greatly increased and the newest and most modern and efficient accounting methods have been installed to see that these funds are handled efficiently and rapidly. The change to the pay-as-you-go system was also brought about during the term of office of Mr. Tawes.

"Should I be elected comptroller, I will make it my important task to see to it that the efficiency of the office continues to be improved and to make sure that the State takes advantage of all of the newest electronic work-savers and time-savers as they come along.

"It is also my intention to see that the comptroller's office retains the same friendly atmosphere which it has had under Mr. Tawes, so that all citizens of Maryland will feel free to come in at any time and discuss their problems with me or with any of the other experienced and capable personnel of the various offices."

Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert, who with Senator Goldstein spent much of yesterday touring Allegany County, asserted that even the average Republican voters are fed up with the ineptitudes of GOP administrations on national, state and local levels.

"Many, many times during this campaign, in every part of the state, Republicans have approached us and volunteered the information that they intend to vote Democratic this year. They want no part of the Republicans this time."

Finan Is Toastmaster

Julius E. Schindler served as chairman of the dinner arrangements committee and presented the toastmaster, Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee and chairman of all the counties for the state campaign.

Local candidates presented include Howard P. Loughrie for sheriff; William J. Brode, John Tucker Mason and John J. Rowan, candidates for county commissioners; George A. Boch, Thomas F. Conlon Jr., Graydon Dunlap, Edward P. Flanigan and William Walsh, candidates for the House of Delegates.

Members of the state central committee besides Mr. Finan include John R. Kelly, this city; William P. Kelly, Lonaconing; C. William McDermott, this city; F. Allan Weatherholt, this city, and Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg.

Serving on the committee with Mr. Schindler were Joseph Burke, Mrs. Anne B. Everline, Louis Fatkin, DeSales Maher, Mrs. James McQueon, Raymond Miller, Matthew J. Mullaney, William B. Orndorff, James O'Rourke, Mrs. Jewell Peer, Mrs. Edward J. Ryan, Marvin Sheetz, Thomas Stephens, William Walsh, William L. Wilson and Edward V. Welsh.

The invocation was given by Rev. Marius Elsener, O.F.M. Cap., of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, and the benediction by Rev. Emil G. Teyssier, assistant pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

New Parking Fine Plan Proposed

Red Line Penalty May Jump To $3

A new schedule of fines for parking violations will be recommended to the Mayor and Council this morning by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

The plan will be presented as city officials meet at 9:30 a.m. in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech for a discussion on long-range planning.

The parking fine recommendations will include the elimination of 25 cent courtesy meters at Police Headquarters and South End Fire Station.

For meter violations, the department will recommend a fine of $1 if paid within an hour and $2 after one hour.

The fine for yellow line violations would be set at $2. Mr. Fleming said the department will try to indicate the time limits on such lines.

Parking on red lines, a more serious violation, would call for a fine of $3.

Mr. Fleming said action on an ordinance revising parking violation fines is planned at Monday's regular Council meeting.

Police officials yesterday discussed the operation of Baltimore Street traffic lights.

At issue is whether traffic is moved better by automatic lights or by traffic officers on the street.

Mr. Fleming said the department will keep working on the problem until a policy is established.

Mineral County School Census Slated Monday

A school census will be conducted in public schools of Mineral County on Monday for the purpose of determining the needs of the future in the education field.

Schools Superintendent S. T. McGee said last night that there will be no school for the students as the teachers and bus drivers will be busy canvassing the homes throughout the county.

Similar census figures will be gathered every five years. Parents are being requested to have available the name and age of their children as well as other pertinent information which will be sought by the canvassers.

The census will include those persons from one day to 21 years of age, according to Mr. McGee, who said that all physical and mental handicaps will be recorded.

The census program will be conducted throughout the State of West Virginia for the purpose of determining future educational needs and what can be done to alleviate the problem.

Randolph Wins By 24,646

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The official tally of ballots cast in West Virginia's Aug. 5 primary elections showed Thursday that Jennings Randolph defeated William C. Marland by 24,646 votes for the Democratic short-term senatorial nomination.

The official results were tabulated by the secretary of state's office following receipt of the last tallies from the state's 55 counties.

When United Press International halted its unofficial tabulations on Aug. 6, its figures gave Randolph a plurality of 23,719 over Marland with about 99 per cent of the 2,785 precincts in the state reported.

By far the leading vote - getter on either the Democratic or Republican side was Rep. Robert C. Byrd who polled 170,686 votes in a runaway race for the long-term Democratic Senate race.

In the only close congressional race, the official tally for the Democratic 4th District primary gave Ken Hechler 12,948 votes to 11,096 for second-place Tom Harvey.

In the two closest State Senate races, the tabulations showed Arch Riley defeated Cecil Hedrick by 467 votes in the Democratic 1st District and Dayton Stemple defeated Richard Young by 603 votes.

The unofficial UPI tallies had given Hechler a margin of 1,773, Riley a 494-vote edge and Stemple a 600-vote margin.

Russians Working Hard To Make Moscow Science Capital Of The World

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

A foreign newsman returned to his post in Moscow after a holiday in his homeland.

"How was the weather?" asked the waiter in his hotel.

"Better than here."

"But we have a Sputnik," the waiter said defensively.

Sputniks were a great morale tonic for the Russian people, who often seem to display a colossal inferiority complex.

They were also a pay-off in Soviet emphasis on science. Seizing the world's imagination, Sputniks focussed attention on Soviet scientific exploits and progress.

The Soviets are secretive about what comes next on any razzle-dazzle scientific stage. It might be a shot for the moon, or the first manned flight into space.

It's clear the Russians are working hard to make Moscow the science capital of the world, in name if not in actual fact.

One step is inviting a parade of scientific international groups to meet in Moscow, and the invitations have been accepted in the last few years. This summer, top scientists came for sessions of the International Geophysical Year and International Astronomical Union.

Some scientists regard it as a clever move for propaganda.

Moscow can tell the world: Look, the best scientists come here to confer with our scientists, because we are good.

Moscow faces some problems in making the city a world science capital to which visitors will continue to want to come.

Westerners are not happy that their hotel rooms and even their own embassies are bugged with microphones taping their conversations. Old Moscow hands swear this is so.

And they don't want to be a party to censorship of outgoing news, particularly science news presented by the visitors.

This blew up into an embarrassment for Soviet scientists at the outset of the IGY sessions.

A formal report from Japanese weathermen said Japan got a sharper and quicker rise in radioactive fallout from Soviet nuclear tests than from American. Reason: The radioactive cloud had less distance to travel, so was hotter when it arrived. Their report also blamed Soviet tests for some recent increases in total recorded fallout.

Soviet censorship throttled news correspondents' stories reporting these statements, presented objectively by the Japanese, and by the news accounts.

Foreign correspondents protested to Dr. Sidney Chapman of England, president of the special Committee of IGY.

Dr. Chapman brought up the protest in a formal meeting of the IGY governing bureau. Dr. V. V. Beloussov, the Soviet member, appeared stunned. It "was as though he had never considered such a possibility," said one informant.

He swung quickly into action. The Soviet Academy of Sciences took up the matter and later at least some of the accounts were permitted to go through the cable office.

Russian students may learn more than science from visiting scientists. They will at least find the visitors haven't got horns. They will learn something about ways of life in democracies, and freedoms, and research which may go counter to Soviet views.

At the mammoth new Moscow University, guards — usually a trio of women — stand at every entrance, checking identification papers. The student who forgets his papers, we were told, doesn't get into class. Western scientists remark to students not only about such apparent differences in university life, but deeper ones.

There can only be guesses as to what effects these contacts have on students — who are tomorrow's influential Soviet citizens.

New Material Converts Heat Into Electricity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. have discovered a new tile-like material capable of converting heat directly into electricity, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Westinghose officials said the device has no moving parts and is smaller and more compact than conventional electric generators and storage batteries.

It was understood that Westinghouse plans to build a "thermo-electric" unit for use in future U.S. satellites. The company declined to comment on this prospect for security reasons.

Because of its light weight, it will enable the radio in the man-made moons to transmit signals to earth for a longer period than the transmitters powered by heavier storage batteries.

Some scientists said the radio could last as long as six months.

The new process was disclosed by Westinghosse scientists to a technical symposium conducted here by the Navy.

Officials said scientists had known for yerrs that heat could be converted directly into electricity. But the problem had been to find a substance capable of withstanding high temperatures.

The Westinghouse scientists said they found such a substance in the ceramics family. They said it could be obtained as easily as the materials in a common dinner plate.

Heat generated by conventional fuels or atomic energy is turned into direct current by simply passing through the material. There is no need for any moving parts such as those in a regular generator.

The scientists cautioned that their research was still in its early stages. But they said thermoelectric units should be available in the not too distant future.

Westinghouse officials said that their new device would supplement rather than replace convention power plants.

Moscow faces some problems in making the city a world science capital to which visitors will continue to want to come.

Westerners are not happy that their hotel rooms and even their own embassies are bugged with microphones taping their conversations. Old Moscow hands swear this is so.

And they don't want to be a party to censorship of outgoing news, particularly science news presented by the visitors.

This blew up into an embarrassment for Soviet scientists at the outset of the IGY sessions.

A formal report from Japanese weathermen said Japan got a sharper and quicker rise in radioactive fallout from Soviet nuclear tests than from American. Reason: The radioactive cloud had less distance to travel, so was hotter when it arrived. Their report also blamed Soviet tests for some recent increases in total recorded fallout.

Soviet censorship throttled news correspondents' stories reporting these statements, presented objectively by the Japanese, and by the news accounts.

Foreign correspondents protested to Dr. Sidney Chapman of England, president of the special Committee of IGY.

Dr. Chapman brought up the protest in a formal meeting of the IGY governing bureau. Dr. V. V. Beloussov, the Soviet member, appeared stunned. It "was as though he had never considered such a possibility," said one informant.

He swung quickly into action. The Soviet Academy of Sciences took up the matter and later at least some of the accounts were permitted to go through the cable office.

Russian students may learn more than science from visiting scientists. They will at least find the visitors haven't got horns. They will learn something about ways of life in democracies, and freedoms, and research which may go counter to Soviet views.

At the mammoth new Moscow University, guards — usually a trio of women — stand at every entrance, checking identification papers. The student who forgets his papers, we were told, doesn't get into class. Western scientists remark to students not only about such apparent differences in university life, but deeper ones.

There can only be guesses as to what effects these contacts have on students — who are tomorrow's influential Soviet citizens.

New Material Converts Heat Into Electricity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. have discovered a new tile-like material capable of converting heat directly into electricity, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Westinghose officials said the device has no moving parts and is smaller and more compact than conventional electric generators and storage batteries.

It was understood that Westinghouse plans to build a "thermo-electric" unit for use in future U.S. satellites. The company declined to comment on this prospect for security reasons.

Because of its light weight, it will enable the radio in the man-made moons to transmit signals to earth for a longer period than the transmitters powered by heavier storage batteries.

Some scientists said the radio could last as long as six months.

The new process was disclosed by Westinghosse scientists to a technical symposium conducted here by the Navy.

Officials said scientists had known for yerrs that heat could be converted directly into electricity. But the problem had been to find a substance capable of withstanding high temperatures.

The Westinghouse scientists said they found such a substance in the ceramics family. They said it could be obtained as easily as the materials in a common dinner plate.

Heat generated by conventional fuels or atomic energy is turned into direct current by simply passing through the material. There is no need for any moving parts such as those in a regular generator.

The scientists cautioned that their research was still in its early stages. But they said thermoelectric units should be available in the not too distant future.

Westinghouse officials said that their new device would supplement rather than replace convention power plants.

New Techniques Of Education

With the reopening of schools for the current term, parents and pupils alike are experiencing many new techniques of instruction in the U. S. Many school boards, determined not to experience another year like so many in recent memory, with over-crowded classrooms, insufficient top quality instructors and mounting costs at every turn, have initiated various systems of teaching modifications which—they hope—will solve at least some of the problems.

Traditional concepts of teaching may be disappearing as reluctantly but as surely as the little red school house. One program alone—financed by a $350,000 grant from the Ford Foundation—has undertaken 26 different experimental projects in teaching, six of them carried forward from last year.

One which is well under way and has received broad attention in educational circles is at Newton, Mass. There, the size of classes is regulated according to subject material. For those subjects which can best be covered with lectures or by audio-visual means, classes are large, averaging 90 to 225 pupils. For technical subjects which require recitation or individual teacher guidance, classes are as small as 8 to 12 pupils.

For the larger classes teacher teams are used; that is, an instructor with several assistants to help supervise and arrange the instruction. Under this system it is contended the pupil receives individual guidance where it is needed and relieves unneeded teachers for work elsewhere. Use of classroom assistants was also found to allow larger classes where individual instruction could be eliminated.

From these and other experiments undoubtedly many good ideas will emerge on the techniques of instruction.

These Days

Surrender Psychology

The principal achievement of propaganda, public relations and advertising is to make a person believe what somebody else wants him to believe. "Nine out of ten," shrieks a girl on television and you are therefore supposed to believe that nine out of ten doctors prescribe a certain drug for a headache. It is not true in the first place because the way the medical profession is organized, doctors specialize and therefore no such ratio has anything to do with headaches. Furthermore, my own doctor warned me that as a cardiac patient if I took this or a remedy of the same ingredient, it would do me damage. It might kill me.

It is the same in politics. In order to justify a budget and to continue high taxes, the government propagandists took advantage of the Sputnik to scream that if we did not do something drastic, we would be licked, all our cities would be wiped out, and our population destroyed. Therefore the "educators" got into a tizzy by demanding more schools and colleges to turn out more engineers and scientists, even though by such acute specilization the engineers, scientists and all others would come out of colleges and universities ignorant, uneducated specialists, slide-rule pushers who could not think for themselves. The principal task of all learning, after all, is to train the mind to think for itself.

Then the free lancers for magazines and newspapers began to sell articles on how we are going to surrender. Editors bought such articles in the hope that people like to read about the worst. Of these articles, the most unbelievable and therefore the one that attracted most attention was by Brigadier General Thomas R. Phillips, U.S. Army (Retired). The dateline is Washington, August 5. Brigadier General Phillips has had an interesting administrative career in the Army, is the author or editor of a number of books and is the military analyst for the "St. Louis Post-Dispatch."

This particular article has the following headlines and subheads, all bunched together in the "Congressional Record" in which I read it:

"Question of When United States Should Surrender in All-Out Nuclear Attack Studied for Pentagon — Scientists Are Proceeding on Assumption Russia Has Achieved, or Is Rapidly Gaining, Intercontinental Military Superiority with Missiles."

The article deals mainly with a book, "Strategic Surrender," by Paul Kecskemeti, published by the Stanford University Press for the Rand Corporation which is an Air Force agency. Who Kecskemeti is, I cannot discover in usual works of reference. The Brigadier gives no biographical sketch; neither does Senator Symington who calls attention to the article.

Senator Symington said that he called attention to the otherwise obscure article and book for the following reason:

". . . the article has prompted considerable correspondence from disturbed constituents who asked whether the article has any basis of truth. They want to know whether it is a fact that the United States is in mortal danger, as General Gavin stated, according to an article which was published last week in Life magazine. They want to know whether General Phillips is correct when he says:

" 'The United States will be in mortal danger until bombers, fast enough to limit the effectiveness of hostile air defenses, and thousands of intercontinental missiles are ready to respond to the opponent, who has trumped our ace by jumping over the phase of intercontinental warfare represented by long-range bombers as a means of delivery.' "

The phrase, "mortal danger," is a most serious one and cannot be used lightly. I have read General James M. Gavin's book, "War and Peace in the Space Age," and came away from it disturbed but without any feeling that we are in "mortal danger." In fact, my own reaction was that as long as General Gavin could write such a book for general circulation and state his criticisms in freedom, we are not in "mortal danger." Admiral Hyman Rickover does it better, I think: he criticizes but stays on the job as long as he will be permitted to stay on the job and do a man's work.

There is no use minimizing the peril of having such an enemy as Soviet Russia, but it is really dangerous to shriek "mortal danger," to get a budget through Congress. There ought to be a more mature way of getting things done.

Eisenhower Has Always Opposed Involvement On China Mainland

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—General Eisenhower, in Paris in the spring of 1952, told me: "It is inconceivable that we should ever let American boys get bogged down on the mainland of China. It's a swamp with no bottom." General Eisenhower spoke with conviction and I am sure he meant what he said.

But as President he has now got himself in a position where either American boys get bogged down on the mainland of China or American troops, plus our Chinese Nationalist allies, retreat from a series of islands along the Chinese mainland with great loss of face to ourselves and weakening of our links with Japan, South Korea, the Philippines, Thailand, and other Far East allies.

How the President got himself in a predicament which he as a general knew was to be avoided is a story with many ramifications. Actually it dates back to pre-Eisenhower days when the Republican party, which he now heads, made Formosa a great political issue. Most people have forgotten it, but it was Formosa which broke up the bipartisan foreign policy which had pretty well kept Republicans and Democrats united during and after World War II.

One of the most interesting aspects of current American history is why the Republican party, with many other issues available, chose this above all others to do battle with the Democrats. Why?

China Lobby

The basic backstage reason probably is that which guides so many others, but which the public doesn't know about — money. Money in the form of campaign funds was plentifully siphoned into the elections of various Senators. Usually it didn't show up in the list of campaign contributions. But sometimes telltale clues appeared, such as the trip of Louey Kung, nephew of China Kai-shek, to the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles during the Nixon campaign for the Senate in 1950 when witnesses saw him hand over a large roll of cash to help Nixon defeat Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas.

There was also Senator McCarthy's affiliation with the China lobby, which he never denied while alive; and the friendship between Senator Bridges of New Hampshire and the Soong-Kung dynasty. Dr. T. V. Soong and Dr. H. H. Kung, both brothers-in-law of Chiang Kai-shek, and among the wealthiest men in the world, have directed the operation of the China lobby. They have hired lobbyists, retained lawyers, offered bountiful gifts to newspapermen to pound home to the American people the idea that Chiang Kai-shek could retake the Chinese mainland if sufficient American dollars were funneled to Formosa.

For a long time the American people believed this. And in speech after speech on the Senate floor certain Senators, who knew better, helped to keep alive this myth.

The potent, generous influence of this lobby was one of the main reasons why the Republican party found itself pushed into picking Formosa as the issue on which to break the bipartisan foreign policy.

Dynamic Doug

Another reason was the persuasive, dynamic personality of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then commander in Tokyo, who told visiting delegations of American Senators that American troops must take over Formosa and hold it in the name of its former conqueror, Japan.

MacArthur even went so far as to put a special plane at the disposal of Republican Senators Ferguson of Michigan and Smith of New Jersey so they could fly to Formosa after the State Department had refused air transportation.

Leashing Chiang Kai-Shek

Acheson argued that it might even be necessary to have American naval forces around Formosa to protect Chiang Kai-shek from Chinese Red attack. Gen. Omar Bradley, then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, backed him up, and Truman adopted this policy. The U. S. Seventh Fleet was kept in Formosa waters to make sure that no operations started between the Nationalist and Communist Chinese which might eventually involve the USA.

In the presidential campaign of 1952, this became one of the chief political targets of Republican orators. The Truman administration, it was charged, was preventing Chiang Kai-shek from retaking the Chinese mainland. Some even accused Dean Acheson of being pro-Communist, because he had hamstrung Chiang. There were vociferous demands that Chiang be unleashed.

After the election, General Eisenhower flew to Korea, and en route his plane stopped to refuel at Iwo Jima. During that hour Eisenhower stretched his legs in a walk with Adm. Arthur Radford. That hour completely reversed the policy of the United States in the Orient and placed the new President in exactly the opposite position to what his judgment as a military man had previously dictated. It also placed the United States in the embarrassing predicament we find ourselves today. The rest of the story will follow in an early column.

Ten States "Control" Their Public Schools

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — No more convincing proof of the intent of Congress that the Federal Government should never interfere with the operation of the public schools by the states is needed that the language used in the "enabling acts" which, respectively, created at least ten states of the union.

Research by this correspondent reveals that the identical words of a brief section in the law passed by congress in July, giving statehood to Alaska, are to be found also in the statutes that gave statehood to New Mexico, Arizona, Idaho, South Dakota, Montana, Washington, Utah, Wyoming and Oklahoma.

One reason probably why the clause — which says that the public schools and colleges "shall forever remain under the exclusive control of the state, or its governmental subdivisions" — attracted little attention when inserted in the law creating Alaska, was that this language was copied from the "enabling acts" of the other states. The important difference today, however, is that when every one of the states that preceded Alaska into the union was admitted, there was no question in anybody's mind about the fact that the public schools were "forever" to remain "under the exclusive control" of those states.

No decision of the Supreme Court upsetting state control had been handed down prior to 1954. Now, four years later, federal judges, as in Virginia, are actually examining the applications of students seeking admission to public schools and scrutinizing their qualifications to determine whether a school board has discriminated against a Negro applicant. Certainly it was not assumed heretofore that the public schools of any states would ever be subject to control by the federal judiciary or by the military forces of the Federal Government. Just a year ago, for instance, federal troops were stationed inside Central High School at Little Rock, Arkansas, to maintain discipline.

Even the Supreme Court of the United States has become a super-school board these days, as testimony about the misbehavior of students and the influence of their parents in the home and the state of public sentiment is being reviewed this week to determine whether there is reason to delay temporarily the entrance of negro students into Central High School at Little Rock.

Certainly the grant by the Federal Government of authority to at least ten states to maintain "exclusive control" of their own public schools, emphasizes that powers have apparently been delegated to some states which other states are not permitted to enjoy. May the Congress itself discriminate between states? Must it not respect eventually the rights of all states to maintain "exclusive control" of their public schools as a power "reserved" to them under the tenth amendment of the constitution?

None of the states which enjoys immunity from Federal interference under an "enabling act" needs to pass or invoke any segregation laws now, for to do so might be held to violate the fourteenth amendment as the Supreme Court has construed it. But if, in the normal course of school operation, pupils are assigned to one school instead of another by county or city school boards, it would be a manifest interference by the Supreme Court or any Federal Court to say that the words "exclusive control" do not mean what they say and that this phrase now is amended by the 1954 decision of the Supreme Court. The fact that Congress only two months ago still used the phrase, "under the exclusive control of the state, or its governmental subdivisions," can be taken to mean that Congress felt the Supreme Court's ruling of 1954 did not apply to acts of Congress confirming the complete power of a state over its own public schools.

Almost all the states that have the immunity clause in their "enabling acts" do not have segregation problems. The only exception is Oklahoma, which has maintained segregated schools in the past and lately has been introducing "integration" in some school districts.

The State of Oklahoma can, of course, today choose to ignore the "exclusive control" clause granted when it was admitted as the 46th state in 1907, or it can test the effectiveness of the pledge given to it by the Federal Government. To make such a test now, it would not be necessary to invoke any state law but simply, by the routine operation of a school board, to assign pupils to certain schools in whatever way the local authorities stipulated. Negro applicants could then bring suit, and the Supreme Court would have to decide whether a solemn pledge given by the Congress to a sovereign state can be repudiated by the Federal judiciary. If this can be done, then no provision of the "enabling act" of any state is safe from legal attack, and hosts of suits hitherto decided and involving the disposal of property, especially public lands, can be reopened and set aside whenever the whim of the Federal judiciary may so decide.

Plainly, Congress, wihch recently has been studying whether to amend the "appellate jurisdiction" of the Supreme Court of the United States, may find it necessary to take away from the Federal courts the right to pass on the validity of certain sections of the "enabling acts" under which states have been admitted to the union. The Constitution specifically grants to Congress the power to limit by law the "appellate jurisdiction" of the Federal courts.

Baering Down On The News

George Washington's advice and other good medicine must be shaken up once in a while.

He warned us to keep plenty of resin on our shoes between rounds.

His actual words were, "In times of peace prepare for war." George never heard of nuclear re-action, but we bet he wouldn't paint it with iodine and put it up in curl papers.

We seem to be scrapping our atomic gains in parliamentary debates and talking points.

Why not learn from the fretful porcupine? Every quill is a talking point.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

He loved the dog. There was a deep communion between them. The boy was 12. At night, he wrote his homework at the dining room table with his right hand; his left was under the table, absentmindedly stroking Brownie's head. Brownie was a mutt. He wasn't worth a dollar.

On Saturdays, they roamed the woods and the sand dunes on the edge of the big silvery bay. They pretended that they were explorers, rooting the underbrush for wild animals, playing Robinson Crusoe on the windy dunes, ambushing the head-hunters.

The dog weighed about 30 pounds. He was lean, and he had a pink tongue that vibrated on his lower teeth on hot days. He was alert, and he loved the boy Lonnie, and could pick up the boys whistle three blocks away. At night, Lonnie sneaked him into his bed, putting him far down under the bedclothes, and whispering for him not to make a sound.

Lonnie's mother came in, as she always did, and she always said the same thing: "Did you say your prayers? Do you feel all right? Where is the dog?" To these questions, the boy said: "Yes." "Fine." "He must be somewhere around."

When she left, Lonnie would call the dog out on top of the bedclothes. They would wrestle for a while. Then the boy would fall off to sleep, and the dog would lay on the bedspread, his shiny eyes wide open, his floppy ears up a little, listening to the breathing. He would yawn and stretch, and sometimes he would sneak off the bed and sleep underneath.

He took Brownie to school. If he took his lunch, the dog carried the sandwiches by a string. He never tried to eat them. He usually sniffed the package, wagged his long ragged tail, and caught the string across his teeth.

At school, Lonnie took the sandwiches and said: "Go on home." The dog stopped. There was hurt in his eyes. "Gwan. Beat it." The dog turned in slow motion and trotted a few steps and stopped and looked back. Lonnie always ached a little. But he had to do it. "Home," he would say, taking a menacing step forward. The dog trotted home, the body on a slight bias, the head turning now and then for forgiveness.

"Mail these for me," his mother said one afternoon. Lonnie took the letters. One was a postcard. It said: "Please pick up one brown dog at 573 Bramhall Avenue. He growls at my son and I am afraid he may bite." Lonnie knew that if he did not mail the letter, he would get in trouble.

So he mailed it. And, each morning, he hid Brownie in the woodshed. Lonnie refused to take his lunch to school. He said he wanted a hot lunch. So he ran home every noontime, and down into the cellar. Brownie was good. He didn't mind the confinement as long as the kid hugged him close and patted him. He didn't need anything else.

One noon Lonnie went to the woodshed and it was open. Brownie was gone. Lonnie ran upstairs and his lower lip was trembling and he asked his mother where the dog was. "That was a nice trick," she said. "Hiding the poor dog in the woodshed. It's lucky he barked when he heard the man from the S.P.C.A."

Lonnie ran from the house. He made the stairs two at a time. In the street, he ran all the way down to Ocean Avenue. He stood white-faced on the curb, watching the trucks. One went by with a big double rope across the back. He ran with the truck, hopped up, and grabbed the rope.

He held on until he reached Johnson Avenue. Then he ran to the S.P.C.A. office and said to the man behind the counter: "I want my Brownie. I want my Brownie. Give him back." The man studied the boy.

"Easy," he said. "What does your dog look like, son?" The boy told him. The man said "Ahh. A woman asked us to pick him up. We don't keep that kind. Two minutes ago, he was put in the gas tank. But don't worry, son. I'll get you a good dog. A pedigreed dog."

Lonnie stood there. And then it happened. He was a little boy again. The tears came and came and came and he could feel the sob in the bottom of his stomach. . .

Scaling And Cracking At Corners Of Mouth

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons—especially oldsters—are bothered with redness, scaling, and cracking at the corners of the mouth. The condition is so irritating it becomes painful to chew, smile, or talk. A bacterial or yeast infection usually is responsible.

Dermatitis has its origin in the deep folds that form at the angles of the mouth when the lips come closer together. An extreme example is the person with no teeth whose lower jaw protrudes and is pulled up higher than usual. The same occurs when many teeth have been lost or the muscles surrounding the mouth lack tone as a result of old age.

Drooling saliva collects between the folds and the moist tissues become irritated. Bacteria are present in this area and other organisms move in from the mouth. As a result, the skin cracks and becomes rough and chapped.

The majority of victims are helped by correction of the causative condition. A good set of dentures, for example, improves the bite and separates the lips. There are a variety of salves and ointments containing antibiotics that kill bacteria and fungi. A small amount is placed on the end of the little finger and applied to the affected area.

Vitamin B is an old remedy but the results are disappointing. The use of this product for these lesions stems from a common misconception. When a person develops a vitamin B deficiency, particularly of riboflavin, many symptoms appear, including changes at the corners of the mouth.

But the reverse is not necessarily true in that not all lesions at the corners of the mouth are due to vitamin B deficiency. Persons who eat well do not have a deficiency and there is no reason why vitamin B should help irritation at the angles of the lips.

FIBROIDS AND SURGERY

Mrs. E. writes: Is hysterectomy necessary for fibroids of the uterus?

REPLY

Only if the tumor is large or several exist, causing symptoms such as pressure or bleeding. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on fibroids of the uterus.

ALCOHOL AND VITAMINS

M. L. writes: What vitamin is good to take when going to a cocktail party?

REPLY

Vitamin B sensible.

MEDICAL SCHOOL

W. H. writes: Why is it so many young college graduates cannot get into a medical school? My son always wanted to be a doctor, and after graduating from college with a B.S., applied to a dozen or more medical schools but could not gain entrance to any.

REPLY

Your son was not admitted to a medical school either because his grades were too low or tests showed he did not have an aptitude for this kind of work. It is much better to be disappointed by nonadmittance than to flunk out later.

READING WHILE EATING

M. V. writes: Is the health affected by reading while eating?

REPLY

No. There is no objection to this habit—when eating alone.

BABY GETS POP

G. O. writes: My stepmother gives soda pop to my 10 month old stepsister. Isn't she too young to drink pop?

REPLY

The beverage is not harmful and is objectionable only when substituted for more basic foods.

SPINAL SURGERY

M. C. writes: What is a laminectomy and why is this operation done?

REPLY

Laminectomy is a surgical procedure in which part of a vertebra is removed, to operate on the spinal cord. It is done frequently for the relief of sciatica due to a slipped or protruding disk.

TOMORROW: Sciatica from protruding disk.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The language of one classified ad in a newspaper brooked of no misinterpretation. "Air-conditioned, fully equipped Cadillac," it read, "in perfect condition, for sale at $50." A bargain hunter hsstened to the address given, and demanded of the lady who opened the door. "You the one offering that Cadillac?" "I am," she said, and led him to the automobile—a beautiful thing in every respect. "Here's the fifty," said the man hastily. "Now what's the catch?"

"No catch at all," explained the lady patiently. "I'm simply carrying out the provisions of my late husband's will. He provided that his new Cadillac be sold at once—and the entire proceeds be turned over to his secretary."

A well-known playwright's new drama was about to open on Broadway, and his bitterest rival wired him, "I can't be there in spirit so I'm coming in person."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

With all the controversy about the police guards in every edition of the News and Times, I'm tired of reading them. They have done nothing for me but filled me with more fear of the traffic. Last year I accepted it, that we just didn't have the service of a school guard at Greene and Allegany Streets for St. Peter and Paul.

Tuesday's Times stated the guards would be working at the crossings for the opening of the parochial schools. We didn't even have the courtesy of the caution light turned on Wednesday morning. I called Mr. Fleming and asked if it could be turned on at 12:00 for the closing of the school. I went to meet my child at the hazardous crossing and the light wasn't on.

New Techniques Of Education

With the reopening of schools for the current term, parents and pupils alike are experiencing many new techniques of instruction in the U. S. Many school boards, determined not to experience another year like so many in recent memory, with over-crowded classrooms, insufficient top quality instructors and mounting costs at every turn, have initiated various systems of teaching modifications which—they hope—will solve at least some of the problems.

Traditional concepts of teaching may be disappearing as reluctantly but as surely as the little red school house. One program alone—financed by a $350,000 grant from the Ford Foundation—has undertaken 26 different experimental projects in teaching, six of them carried forward from last year.

One which is well under way and has received broad attention in educational circles is at Newton, Mass. There, the size of classes is regulated according to subject material. For those subjects which can best be covered with lectures or by audio-visual means, classes are large, averaging 90 to 225 pupils. For technical subjects which require recitation or individual teacher guidance, classes are as small as 8 to 12 pupils.

For the larger classes teacher teams are used; that is, an instructor with several assistants to help supervise and arrange the instruction. Under this system it is contended the pupil receives individual guidance where it is needed and relieves unneeded teachers for work elsewhere. Use of classroom assistants was also found to allow larger classes where individual instruction could be eliminated.

From these and other experiments undoubtedly many good ideas will emerge on the techniques of instruction.

These Days

Surrender Psychology

The principal achievement of propaganda, public relations and advertising is to make a person believe what somebody else wants him to believe. "Nine out of ten," shrieks a girl on television and you are therefore supposed to believe that nine out of ten doctors prescribe a certain drug for a headache. It is not true in the first place because the way the medical profession is organized, doctors specialize and therefore no such ratio has anything to do with headaches. Furthermore, my own doctor warned me that as a cardiac patient if I took this or a remedy of the same ingredient, it would do me damage. It might kill me.

It is the same in politics. In order to justify a budget and to continue high taxes, the government propagandists took advantage of the Sputnik to scream that if we did not do something drastic, we would be licked, all our cities would be wiped out, and our population destroyed. Therefore the "educators" got into a tizzy by demanding more schools and colleges to turn out more engineers and scientists, even though by such acute specilization the engineers, scientists and all others would come out of colleges and universities ignorant, uneducated specialists, slide-rule pushers who could not think for themselves. The principal task of all learning, after all, is to train the mind to think for itself.

Then the free lancers for magazines and newspapers began to sell articles on how we are going to surrender. Editors bought such articles in the hope that people like to read about the worst. Of these articles, the most unbelievable and therefore the one that attracted most attention was by Brigadier General Thomas R. Phillips, U.S. Army (Retired). The dateline is Washington, August 5. Brigadier General Phillips has had an interesting administrative career in the Army, is the author or editor of a number of books and is the military analyst for the "St. Louis Post-Dispatch."

This particular article has the following headlines and subheads, all bunched together in the "Congressional Record" in which I read it:

"Question of When United States Should Surrender in All-Out Nuclear Attack Studied for Pentagon — Scientists Are Proceeding on Assumption Russia Has Achieved, or Is Rapidly Gaining, Intercontinental Military Superiority with Missiles."

The article deals mainly with a book, "Strategic Surrender," by Paul Kecskemeti, published by the Stanford University Press for the Rand Corporation which is an Air Force agency. Who Kecskemeti is, I cannot discover in usual works of reference. The Brigadier gives no biographical sketch; neither does Senator Symington who calls attention to the article.

Senator Symington said that he called attention to the otherwise obscure article and book for the following reason:

". . . the article has prompted considerable correspondence from disturbed constituents who asked whether the article has any basis of truth. They want to know whether it is a fact that the United States is in mortal danger, as General Gavin stated, according to an article which was published last week in Life magazine. They want to know whether General Phillips is correct when he says:

" 'The United States will be in mortal danger until bombers, fast enough to limit the effectiveness of hostile air defenses, and thousands of intercontinental missiles are ready to respond to the opponent, who has trumped our ace by jumping over the phase of intercontinental warfare represented by long-range bombers as a means of delivery.' "

The phrase, "mortal danger," is a most serious one and cannot be used lightly. I have read General James M. Gavin's book, "War and Peace in the Space Age," and came away from it disturbed but without any feeling that we are in "mortal danger." In fact, my own reaction was that as long as General Gavin could write such a book for general circulation and state his criticisms in freedom, we are not in "mortal danger." Admiral Hyman Rickover does it better, I think: he criticizes but stays on the job as long as he will be permitted to stay on the job and do a man's work.

There is no use minimizing the peril of having such an enemy as Soviet Russia, but it is really dangerous to shriek "mortal danger," to get a budget through Congress. There ought to be a more mature way of getting things done.

Eisenhower Has Always Opposed Involvement On China Mainland

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—General Eisenhower, in Paris in the spring of 1952, told me: "It is inconceivable that we should ever let American boys get bogged down on the mainland of China. It's a swamp with no bottom." General Eisenhower spoke with conviction and I am sure he meant what he said.

But as President he has now got himself in a position where either American boys get bogged down on the mainland of China or American troops, plus our Chinese Nationalist allies, retreat from a series of islands along the Chinese mainland with great loss of face to ourselves and weakening of our links with Japan, South Korea, the Philippines, Thailand, and other Far East allies.

How the President got himself in a predicament which he as a general knew was to be avoided is a story with many ramifications. Actually it dates back to pre-Eisenhower days when the Republican party, which he now heads, made Formosa a great political issue. Most people have forgotten it, but it was Formosa which broke up the bipartisan foreign policy which had pretty well kept Republicans and Democrats united during and after World War II.

One of the most interesting aspects of current American history is why the Republican party, with many other issues available, chose this above all others to do battle with the Democrats. Why?

China Lobby

The basic backstage reason probably is that which guides so many others, but which the public doesn't know about — money. Money in the form of campaign funds was plentifully siphoned into the elections of various Senators. Usually it didn't show up in the list of campaign contributions. But sometimes telltale clues appeared, such as the trip of Louey Kung, nephew of China Kai-shek, to the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles during the Nixon campaign for the Senate in 1950 when witnesses saw him hand over a large roll of cash to help Nixon defeat Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas.

There was also Senator McCarthy's affiliation with the China lobby, which he never denied while alive; and the friendship between Senator Bridges of New Hampshire and the Soong-Kung dynasty. Dr. T. V. Soong and Dr. H. H. Kung, both brothers-in-law of Chiang Kai-shek, and among the wealthiest men in the world, have directed the operation of the China lobby. They have hired lobbyists, retained lawyers, offered bountiful gifts to newspapermen to pound home to the American people the idea that Chiang Kai-shek could retake the Chinese mainland if sufficient American dollars were funneled to Formosa.

For a long time the American people believed this. And in speech after speech on the Senate floor certain Senators, who knew better, helped to keep alive this myth.

The potent, generous influence of this lobby was one of the main reasons why the Republican party found itself pushed into picking Formosa as the issue on which to break the bipartisan foreign policy.

Dynamic Doug

Another reason was the persuasive, dynamic personality of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then commander in Tokyo, who told visiting delegations of American Senators that American troops must take over Formosa and hold it in the name of its former conqueror, Japan.

MacArthur even went so far as to put a special plane at the disposal of Republican Senators Ferguson of Michigan and Smith of New Jersey so they could fly to Formosa after the State Department had refused air transportation.

Leashing Chiang Kai-Shek

Acheson argued that it might even be necessary to have American naval forces around Formosa to protect Chiang Kai-shek from Chinese Red attack. Gen. Omar Bradley, then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, backed him up, and Truman adopted this policy. The U. S. Seventh Fleet was kept in Formosa waters to make sure that no operations started between the Nationalist and Communist Chinese which might eventually involve the USA.

In the presidential campaign of 1952, this became one of the chief political targets of Republican orators. The Truman administration, it was charged, was preventing Chiang Kai-shek from retaking the Chinese mainland. Some even accused Dean Acheson of being pro-Communist, because he had hamstrung Chiang. There were vociferous demands that Chiang be unleashed.

After the election, General Eisenhower flew to Korea, and en route his plane stopped to refuel at Iwo Jima. During that hour Eisenhower stretched his legs in a walk with Adm. Arthur Radford. That hour completely reversed the policy of the United States in the Orient and placed the new President in exactly the opposite position to what his judgment as a military man had previously dictated. It also placed the United States in the embarrassing predicament we find ourselves today. The rest of the story will follow in an early column.

Ten States "Control" Their Public Schools

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — No more convincing proof of the intent of Congress that the Federal Government should never interfere with the operation of the public schools by the states is needed that the language used in the "enabling acts" which, respectively, created at least ten states of the union.

Research by this correspondent reveals that the identical words of a brief section in the law passed by congress in July, giving statehood to Alaska, are to be found also in the statutes that gave statehood to New Mexico, Arizona, Idaho, South Dakota, Montana, Washington, Utah, Wyoming and Oklahoma.

One reason probably why the clause — which says that the public schools and colleges "shall forever remain under the exclusive control of the state, or its governmental subdivisions" — attracted little attention when inserted in the law creating Alaska, was that this language was copied from the "enabling acts" of the other states. The important difference today, however, is that when every one of the states that preceded Alaska into the union was admitted, there was no question in anybody's mind about the fact that the public schools were "forever" to remain "under the exclusive control" of those states.

No decision of the Supreme Court upsetting state control had been handed down prior to 1954. Now, four years later, federal judges, as in Virginia, are actually examining the applications of students seeking admission to public schools and scrutinizing their qualifications to determine whether a school board has discriminated against a Negro applicant. Certainly it was not assumed heretofore that the public schools of any states would ever be subject to control by the federal judiciary or by the military forces of the Federal Government. Just a year ago, for instance, federal troops were stationed inside Central High School at Little Rock, Arkansas, to maintain discipline.

Even the Supreme Court of the United States has become a super-school board these days, as testimony about the misbehavior of students and the influence of their parents in the home and the state of public sentiment is being reviewed this week to determine whether there is reason to delay temporarily the entrance of negro students into Central High School at Little Rock.

Certainly the grant by the Federal Government of authority to at least ten states to maintain "exclusive control" of their own public schools, emphasizes that powers have apparently been delegated to some states which other states are not permitted to enjoy. May the Congress itself discriminate between states? Must it not respect eventually the rights of all states to maintain "exclusive control" of their public schools as a power "reserved" to them under the tenth amendment of the constitution?

None of the states which enjoys immunity from Federal interference under an "enabling act" needs to pass or invoke any segregation laws now, for to do so might be held to violate the fourteenth amendment as the Supreme Court has construed it. But if, in the normal course of school operation, pupils are assigned to one school instead of another by county or city school boards, it would be a manifest interference by the Supreme Court or any Federal Court to say that the words "exclusive control" do not mean what they say and that this phrase now is amended by the 1954 decision of the Supreme Court. The fact that Congress only two months ago still used the phrase, "under the exclusive control of the state, or its governmental subdivisions," can be taken to mean that Congress felt the Supreme Court's ruling of 1954 did not apply to acts of Congress confirming the complete power of a state over its own public schools.

Almost all the states that have the immunity clause in their "enabling acts" do not have segregation problems. The only exception is Oklahoma, which has maintained segregated schools in the past and lately has been introducing "integration" in some school districts.

The State of Oklahoma can, of course, today choose to ignore the "exclusive control" clause granted when it was admitted as the 46th state in 1907, or it can test the effectiveness of the pledge given to it by the Federal Government. To make such a test now, it would not be necessary to invoke any state law but simply, by the routine operation of a school board, to assign pupils to certain schools in whatever way the local authorities stipulated. Negro applicants could then bring suit, and the Supreme Court would have to decide whether a solemn pledge given by the Congress to a sovereign state can be repudiated by the Federal judiciary. If this can be done, then no provision of the "enabling act" of any state is safe from legal attack, and hosts of suits hitherto decided and involving the disposal of property, especially public lands, can be reopened and set aside whenever the whim of the Federal judiciary may so decide.

Plainly, Congress, wihch recently has been studying whether to amend the "appellate jurisdiction" of the Supreme Court of the United States, may find it necessary to take away from the Federal courts the right to pass on the validity of certain sections of the "enabling acts" under which states have been admitted to the union. The Constitution specifically grants to Congress the power to limit by law the "appellate jurisdiction" of the Federal courts.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

George Washington's advice and other good medicine must be shaken up once in a while.

He warned us to keep plenty of resin on our shoes between rounds.

His actual words were, "In times of peace prepare for war." George never heard of nuclear re-action, but we bet he wouldn't paint it with iodine and put it up in curl papers.

We seem to be scrapping our atomic gains in parliamentary debates and talking points.

Why not learn from the fretful porcupine? Every quill is a talking point.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

He loved the dog. There was a deep communion between them. The boy was 12. At night, he wrote his homework at the dining room table with his right hand; his left was under the table, absentmindedly stroking Brownie's head. Brownie was a mutt. He wasn't worth a dollar.

On Saturdays, they roamed the woods and the sand dunes on the edge of the big silvery bay. They pretended that they were explorers, rooting the underbrush for wild animals, playing Robinson Crusoe on the windy dunes, ambushing the head-hunters.

The dog weighed about 30 pounds. He was lean, and he had a pink tongue that vibrated on his lower teeth on hot days. He was alert, and he loved the boy Lonnie, and could pick up the boys whistle three blocks away. At night, Lonnie sneaked him into his bed, putting him far down under the bedclothes, and whispering for him not to make a sound.

Lonnie's mother came in, as she always did, and she always said the same thing: "Did you say your prayers? Do you feel all right? Where is the dog?" To these questions, the boy said: "Yes." "Fine." "He must be somewhere around."

When she left, Lonnie would call the dog out on top of the bedclothes. They would wrestle for a while. Then the boy would fall off to sleep, and the dog would lay on the bedspread, his shiny eyes wide open, his floppy ears up a little, listening to the breathing. He would yawn and stretch, and sometimes he would sneak off the bed and sleep underneath.

He took Brownie to school. If he took his lunch, the dog carried the sandwiches by a string. He never tried to eat them. He usually sniffed the package, wagged his long ragged tail, and caught the string across his teeth.

At school, Lonnie took the sandwiches and said: "Go on home." The dog stopped. There was hurt in his eyes. "Gwan. Beat it." The dog turned in slow motion and trotted a few steps and stopped and looked back. Lonnie always ached a little. But he had to do it. "Home," he would say, taking a menacing step forward. The dog trotted home, the body on a slight bias, the head turning now and then for forgiveness.

"Mail these for me," his mother said one afternoon. Lonnie took the letters. One was a postcard. It said: "Please pick up one brown dog at 573 Bramhall Avenue. He growls at my son and I am afraid he may bite." Lonnie knew that if he did not mail the letter, he would get in trouble.

So he mailed it. And, each morning, he hid Brownie in the woodshed. Lonnie refused to take his lunch to school. He said he wanted a hot lunch. So he ran home every noontime, and down into the cellar. Brownie was good. He didn't mind the confinement as long as the kid hugged him close and patted him. He didn't need anything else.

One noon Lonnie went to the woodshed and it was open. Brownie was gone. Lonnie ran upstairs and his lower lip was trembling and he asked his mother where the dog was. "That was a nice trick," she said. "Hiding the poor dog in the woodshed. It's lucky he barked when he heard the man from the S.P.C.A."

Lonnie ran from the house. He made the stairs two at a time. In the street, he ran all the way down to Ocean Avenue. He stood white-faced on the curb, watching the trucks. One went by with a big double rope across the back. He ran with the truck, hopped up, and grabbed the rope.

He held on until he reached Johnson Avenue. Then he ran to the S.P.C.A. office and said to the man behind the counter: "I want my Brownie. I want my Brownie. Give him back." The man studied the boy.

"Easy," he said. "What does your dog look like, son?" The boy told him. The man said "Ahh. A woman asked us to pick him up. We don't keep that kind. Two minutes ago, he was put in the gas tank. But don't worry, son. I'll get you a good dog. A pedigreed dog."

Lonnie stood there. And then it happened. He was a little boy again. The tears came and came and came and he could feel the sob in the bottom of his stomach. . .

Scaling And Cracking At Corners Of Mouth

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons—especially oldsters—are bothered with redness, scaling, and cracking at the corners of the mouth. The condition is so irritating it becomes painful to chew, smile, or talk. A bacterial or yeast infection usually is responsible.

Dermatitis has its origin in the deep folds that form at the angles of the mouth when the lips come closer together. An extreme example is the person with no teeth whose lower jaw protrudes and is pulled up higher than usual. The same occurs when many teeth have been lost or the muscles surrounding the mouth lack tone as a result of old age.

Drooling saliva collects between the folds and the moist tissues become irritated. Bacteria are present in this area and other organisms move in from the mouth. As a result, the skin cracks and becomes rough and chapped.

The majority of victims are helped by correction of the causative condition. A good set of dentures, for example, improves the bite and separates the lips. There are a variety of salves and ointments containing antibiotics that kill bacteria and fungi. A small amount is placed on the end of the little finger and applied to the affected area.

Vitamin B is an old remedy but the results are disappointing. The use of this product for these lesions stems from a common misconception. When a person develops a vitamin B deficiency, particularly of riboflavin, many symptoms appear, including changes at the corners of the mouth.

But the reverse is not necessarily true in that not all lesions at the corners of the mouth are due to vitamin B deficiency. Persons who eat well do not have a deficiency and there is no reason why vitamin B should help irritation at the angles of the lips.

MEDICAL SCHOOL

W. H. writes: Why is it so many young college graduates cannot get into a medical school? My son always wanted to be a doctor, and after graduating from college with a B.S., applied to a dozen or more medical schools but could not gain entrance to any.

REPLY

Your son was not admitted to a medical school either because his grades were too low or tests showed he did not have an aptitude for this kind of work. It is much better to be disappointed by nonadmittance than to flunk out later.

READING WHILE EATING

M. V. writes: Is the health affected by reading while eating?

REPLY

No. There is no objection to this habit—when eating alone.

BABY GETS POP

REPLY

The beverage is not harmful and is objectionable only when substituted for more basic foods.

SPINAL SURGERY

M. C. writes: What is a laminectomy and why is this operation done?

REPLY

Laminectomy is a surgical procedure in which part of a vertebra is removed, to operate on the spinal cord. It is done frequently for the relief of sciatica due to a slipped or protruding disk.

TOMORROW: Sciatica from protruding disk.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The language of one classified ad in a newspaper brooked of no misinterpretation. "Air-conditioned, fully equipped Cadillac," it read, "in perfect condition, for sale at $50." A bargain hunter hsstened to the address given, and demanded of the lady who opened the door. "You the one offering that Cadillac?" "I am," she said, and led him to the automobile—a beautiful thing in every respect. "Here's the fifty," said the man hastily. "Now what's the catch?"

"No catch at all," explained the lady patiently. "I'm simply carrying out the provisions of my late husband's will. He provided that his new Cadillac be sold at once—and the entire proceeds be turned over to his secretary."

A well-known playwright's new drama was about to open on Broadway, and his bitterest rival wired him, "I can't be there in spirit so I'm coming in person."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

With all the controversy about the police guards in every edition of the News and Times, I'm tired of reading them. They have done nothing for me but filled me with more fear of the traffic. Last year I accepted it, that we just didn't have the service of a school guard at Greene and Allegany Streets for St. Peter and Paul.

Tuesday's Times stated the guards would be working at the crossings for the opening of the parochial schools. We didn't even have the courtesy of the caution light turned on Wednesday morning. I called Mr. Fleming and asked if it could be turned on at 12:00 for the closing of the school. I went to meet my child at the hazardous crossing and the light wasn't on.

Westernport Water Rates Being Revised

Ordinance Passes First Reading

WESTERNPORT — The first reading of the ordinance revising municipal water rates was passed unanimously by Mayor Ray L. Wilt and the Town Council last night.

The new schedule includes 50 cents per thousand gallons for the first 15,000 gallons; next 25,000, 45 cents per thousand; next 60,000, 30 cents per thousand; next 100,000, 25 cents per thousand, and for the next 200,000 gallons, 20 cents per thousand.

Whether to make the ordinance retroactive to August 1 resulted in a tie vote and Mayor Wilt broke the tie by voting against it. Only three large consumers at present are affected by the lower rate for a high consumption of water.

The second and final reading will be held at the September 15 Council meeting.

Mayor Wilt reported that Max Mathias, Frostburg, civil engineer, will make a survey on Roosevelt Street and Central Avenue to the Bruce High School and all of McKinley Street.

A 30-inch reinforced concrete sewer line for 201 feet will be laid on Central Avenue, between McKinley and Roosevelt Street. The cost for material and labor was set at approximately $2,500.

Earlie Cosner was made a regular member of the police force, following the recommendation of Leo Herbert, police commissioner, who stated his probationary period had expired. It was ordered a new uniform be purchased for him.

Speaks Sunday

BERYL — George Robertson, Westernport, will deliver the sermon at the worship service of Beryl Presbyterian Church Chapel Sunday at 8:30 a.m. His theme will be, "How An Angel's Voice Saved a Boy's Life."

Westernport Water Rates Being Revised

Ordinance Passes First Reading

WESTERNPORT — The first reading of the ordinance revising municipal water rates was passed unanimously by Mayor Ray L. Wilt and the Town Council last night.

The new schedule includes 50 cents per thousand gallons for the first 15,000 gallons; next 25,000, 45 cents per thousand; next 60,000, 30 cents per thousand; next 100,000, 25 cents per thousand, and for the next 200,000 gallons, 20 cents per thousand.

Whether to make the ordinance retroactive to August 1 resulted in a tie vote and Mayor Wilt broke the tie by voting against it. Only three large consumers at present are affected by the lower rate for a high consumption of water.

The second and final reading will be held at the September 15 Council meeting.

Mayor Wilt reported that Max Mathias, Frostburg, civil engineer, will make a survey on Roosevelt Street and Central Avenue to the Bruce High School and all of McKinley Street.

A 30-inch reinforced concrete sewer line for 201 feet will be laid on Central Avenue, between McKinley and Roosevelt Street. The cost for material and labor was set at approximately $2,500.

Earlie Cosner was made a regular member of the police force, following the recommendation of Leo Herbert, police commissioner, who stated his probationary period had expired. It was ordered a new uniform be purchased for him.

Piedmont Takes Action On New Traffic Laws

PIEDMONT—A drunken driving ordinance to conform with the state law was enacted into law at the regular meeting of Mayor Rodney Baker and the City Council Tuesday evening, at the Council Chamber. At the third and final reading by Mayor Baker it became law.

The ordinance provides that for the first conviction of any person for driving while intoxicated, the driver must be confined into jail not less than 24 hours and not more than six months, and fined not less than $50 nor more than $100.

For the second offense, within a period of one year, the person shall be jailed for not less than six months, plus the revocation for ten years of his driver's license unless reversed.

Any person apprehended shall have the right to demand a blood or urine test for the purpose of a chemical analysis.

Parking violators will be cracked down on, according to Mayor Baker. They will be subjected to arrest for ignoring parking tickets.

Also cars illegally parked on the number three parking lot, which is rented on a weekly basis, will be towed to a garage.

The town has received $1,600 for its share of taxes for 1957-1958 as the share from Sheriff Earl Kemp, Ormond Ledlow, city clerk, announced.

Mayor Baker called attention to some minor repairs needed at the Piedmont Swimming Pool before it is reopened next summer. These repairs should not cost a great deal of money as they could be done by the town employes.

It was ordered that the room adjoining the city clerk's office have a pair of steps placed on side of building and a door be placed in it for the room to be used by the town police.

A discussion of improvements to the city clerk's office, including a new tile floor, repainting the room and caulking the windows were discussd.

Following a motion by councilman James Bissett it was dedecided not to take any action until there is a full council present.

Mayor Baker reported that a number of the streets are being patched with blacktop.

A request from the American Red Cross for the Johnstown Bloodmobile Unit to be given free parking space in front of the Presbyterian Church next Tuesday from noon to 6 p. m. was granted.

Councilman W. Garland Cheshire was authorized to purchase fire plug and fittings to be placed on East Hampshire Street and for a four-inch valve to be placed on Second Street in the vicinity of the Piedmont Ice Plant.

Due to having numerous complaints about dogs, Mayor Baker stated that he had investigated the situation. He has been informed that persons annoyed by a dog should notify the sheriff, giving the owner's name and address. The sheriff would turn the complaint over to the county dog catcher for investigation.

Heart Fund Aids Research On Hardening Of Arteries

Seeking to develop and perfect practical tests for the early diagnosis of hardening of the arteries, Dr. Milton Lansdowne is working at the Levindale Infirmary at Baltimore.

His work is supported by a grant-in-aid from the American Heart Association and Heart Association of Maryland.

The doctor is most interested in so-called "peripheral" arteriosclerosis, that is, hardening of the arteries which carry blood to the limbs of the body.

Hardening of the arteries is one of the three major heart diseases which together account for more than half of all deaths in Maryland. The others are high blood pressure and rheumatic fever.

The research programs of the American and Maryland Heart Association are made possible by the Heart Fund contributions in all parts of the state. Nine affiliated chapters in Maryland comprise the state association.

F. Allan Weatherholt, president of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, has pointed out here that contributions given in Allegany and Garrett counties help support such work as Dr. Lansdowne's, directed to the conquest of heart disease.

Piedmont Takes Action On New Traffic Laws

PIEDMONT—A drunken driving ordinance to conform with the state law was enacted into law at the regular meeting of Mayor Rodney Baker and the City Council Tuesday evening, at the Council Chamber. At the third and final reading by Mayor Baker it became law.

The ordinance provides that for the first conviction of any person for driving while intoxicated, the driver must be confined into jail not less than 24 hours and not more than six months, and fined not less than $50 nor more than $100.

For the second offense, within a period of one year, the person shall be jailed for not less than six months, plus the revocation for ten years of his driver's license unless reversed.

Any person apprehended shall have the right to demand a blood or urine test for the purpose of a chemical analysis.

Parking violators will be cracked down on, according to Mayor Baker. They will be subjected to arrest for ignoring parking tickets.

Also cars illegally parked on the number three parking lot, which is rented on a weekly basis, will be towed to a garage.

The town has received $1,600 for its share of taxes for 1957-1958 as the share from Sheriff Earl Kemp, Ormond Ledlow, city clerk, announced.

Mayor Baker called attention to some minor repairs needed at the Piedmont Swimming Pool before it is reopened next summer. These repairs should not cost a great deal of money as they could be done by the town employes.

It was ordered that the room adjoining the city clerk's office have a pair of steps placed on side of building and a door be placed in it for the room to be used by the town police.

A discussion of improvements to the city clerk's office, including a new tile floor, repainting the room and caulking the windows were discussd.

Following a motion by councilman James Bissett it was dedecided not to take any action until there is a full council present.

Mayor Baker reported that a number of the streets are being patched with blacktop.

A request from the American Red Cross for the Johnstown Bloodmobile Unit to be given free parking space in front of the Presbyterian Church next Tuesday from noon to 6 p. m. was granted.

Councilman W. Garland Cheshire was authorized to purchase fire plug and fittings to be placed on East Hampshire Street and for a four-inch valve to be placed on Second Street in the vicinity of the Piedmont Ice Plant.

Due to having numerous complaints about dogs, Mayor Baker stated that he had investigated the situation. He has been informed that persons annoyed by a dog should notify the sheriff, giving the owner's name and address. The sheriff would turn the complaint over to the county dog catcher for investigation.

Open the "first quarter" of your victory supper with soup. It's a warmer-upper for cool weather, filling for husky athletes, and a boon to the cook . . . who often doesn't know just how many to plan for.

'Kick Off' Fall Meals With Hot, Hearty Soup

It's kick-off time once again! Crisp fall days revive energy and increase appetites. The stadium becomes the scene of playing and cheering, while the home sets the scene for the victory party. The latter calls for food . . . hot and hearty . . . like this menu:

Pom Pom Parade Supper

Pea Soup with Frankfurter
Bread Sticks
Cracker Basket
Favorite Cosserole
Individual Fruit Pies a la Mode

A tureen of piping hot green pea with ham soup . . . on the buffet table . . . extends a hero's welcome to all. Ladle it into bowls . . . or mugs . . . if your guests are inclined to stand around and chat. What ever your method of serving, make certain everyone has an "overflowing" cup.

To make the soup, take cans of frozen condensed green pea with ham soup from your freezer. Then follow this recipe:

Pea Soup With Frankfurter

4 frankfurters, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cans (10 ½ ounces each) frozen condensed green pea with ham soup
2 soup cans water

Brown frankfurter slices in butter. Add soup and water; heat. Stir often. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

For the third "quarter" of your supper serve individual (frozen) fruit pies . . . baked to a golden brown in less than one-half hour. Cool and top with ice cream for the best in a pie a la mode.

Frozen Broccoli, Cottage Cheese Salad

2 packages frozen broccoli spears
½ cup chopped radishes
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup finely minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon vinegar
2 tablespoon evaporated milk
1 cup cottage cheese

Cook broccoli in small amount of boiling salted water until just tender. Drain. (Reserve liquid for soups and sauces.) Cool and chill. Prepare chopped raw vegetables. Mix salt and pepper with mayonnaise, vinegar, and evaporated milk. Stir lightly together with cottage cheese and raw vegetables. At serving time, arrange chilled broccoli on greens on individual plates or large chop plate and spoon dressing generously over the spears. Serves six generously.

Pork Chops Cadiz

Brown pork chops (allowing 1 or 2 chops to a serving, depending on size) in heavy skillet. Sprinkle a little salt in the skillet before adding chops to draw out pork fat. When chops are browned on both sides, add ½ cup Spanish sherry of the amontillado type and cover pan, cooking over low heat about 15 minutes. Then add ½ can tomato paste and 1 cup water. Simmer 15 minutes longer. Salt may be added for taste, if desired, but no other seasoning is needed. Serve accompanied by rice or spaghetti and glasses of nutty amontillado sherry.

Saturday Sandwiches Are Hearty

Saturday lunch need not be a problem . . . for the whole family will go for this sandwich in a big way. It can also go on picnics, if you like. In a skillet brown 1 pound ground beef in 1 tablespoon shortening. Stir occasionally to break up meat particles. Stir in 1 can (11½ ounces) condensed bean with bacon soup, ½ cup ketchup, and ½ teaspoon chili powder. Simmer about 5 minutes to blend flavors. Serve on toasted buns to 6.

Lima-Celery Scallop

2 cups lima beans, or 1 package frozen lima beans
2 cups diced celery
¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2½ cups milk
1 cup shredded sharp American cheese
½ cup buttered crumbs

Cook frozen lima beans according to directions on the package; drain. Cook celery in boiling, salted water until tender; drain. Melt butter in saucepan; blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk stirring constantly, and cook until mixture is smooth and thickened. Stir in cheese Arrange vegetables and sauce in layers in a buttered 1½ quart casserole. Top with buttered crumbs. Heat in a moderate oven, 350°, until crumbs are lightly browned, about 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Barbecued Spareribs

For a spicily different taste to spareribs, marinate them for several hours in the following sauce: combine ½ teaspoon garlic powder, 1 teaspoon powdered ginger, ½ teaspoon cumin or curry powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, ½ cup Spanish sherry of the fino (very dry) type and ½ cup water. Broil or bake the spareribs in the usual way, basting with the marinade sauce. Perfect drink to serve with the spareribs is fino sherry on the rocks.

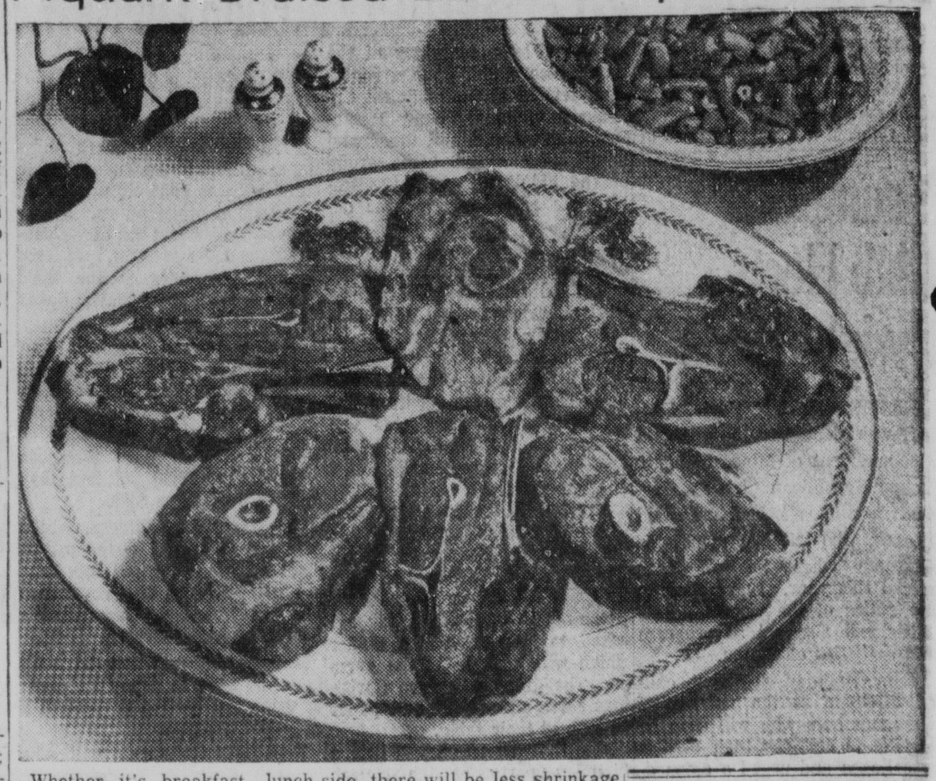
"Foods With A Flair"
Piquant Braised Lamb Chops



Whether it's breakfast, lunch or dinner, there's always a lamb cut to fit your needs.

Lamb is actually a year-round treat for year-round meals. Because it is such a popular companion for so many foods, it's an easy meat to incorporate into menus served from dawn to dusk.

For example, chops or patties are excellent fare at breakfast. Luncheon often finds lamb a major ingredient of tasty hot casseroles. And, elegant lamb roasts as well as many other lamb cuts often grace the dinner table. Party time is not left out, either, for this meat is frequently featured in hors d'oeuvres.

Lamb is excellent served either hot or cold. But, no matter which way you prefer it, low temperature cookery is the best method to achieve a juicy, tender and perfectly done cut of lamb as well as other meats.

The majority of people prefer lamb cooked medium to well-done. Actually, if you cook it until it is slightly pink on the inside, there will be less shrinkage and the meat will be extra flavorful as well as very juicy and tender.

Lamb shoulder chops are a popular item. Though they are good when broiled or pan-broiled, braising allows the introduction of new flavors which accent the goodness of the meat. These Spicy Lamb Chops initiate a new idea in braising liquid — you'll want to add this recipe to your collecton of lamb treats.

Purchase 4 to 6 lamb shoulder chops cut ¾ to 1 inch thick. Allow one to a serving. Brown the meat on both sides in 2 tablespoons of lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup apricot nectar, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons brown sugar and 1 cinnamon stick. Cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes or until the meat is tender. Remove cinnamon stick and thicken cooking liquid with flour, if gravy is desired. Buttered green beans are a good accompaniment.

SELF-SERVE GARLITZ BROS. FOOD MARKET
CORNER 2nd AND GRAND AVE. SOUTH CUMBERLAND

Open the "first quarter" of your victory supper with soup. It's a warmer-upper for cool weather, filling for husky athletes, and a boon to the cook . . . who often doesn't know just how many to plan for.

'Kick Off' Fall Meals With Hot, Hearty Soup

It's kick-off time once again! Crisp fall days revive energy and increase appetites. The stadium becomes the scene of playing and cheering, while the home sets the scene for the victory party. The latter calls for food . . . hot and hearty . . . like this menu:

Pom Pom Parade Supper

Pea Soup with Frankfurter
Bread Sticks
Cracker Basket
Favorite Casserole
Individual Fruit Pies a la Mode

A tureen of piping hot green pea with ham soup . . . on the buffet table . . . extends a hero's welcome to all. Ladle it into bowls . . . or mugs . . . if your guests are inclined to stand around and chat. What ever your method of serving, make certain everyone has an "overflowing" cup.

To make the soup, take cans of frozen condensed green pea with ham soup from your freezer. Then follow this recipe:

Pea Soup With Frankfurter

4 frankfurters, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cans (10 ½ ounces each) frozen condensed green pea with ham soup
2 soup cans water

Brown frankfurter slices in butter. Add soup and water; heat. Stir often. Makes 4 to to 6 servings.

For the third "quarter" of your supper serve individual (frozen) fruit pies . . . baked to a golden brown in less than one-half hour. Cool and top with ice cream for the best in a pie a la mode.

Frozen Broccoli, Cottage Cheese Salad

2 packages frozen broccoli spears
½ cup chopped radishes
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup finely minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon vinegar
2 tablespoon evaporated milk
1 cup cottage cheese

Cook broccoli in small amount of boiling salted water until just tender. Drain. (Reserve liquid for soups and sauces.) Cool and chill. Prepare chopped raw vegetables. Mix salt and pepper with mayonnaise, vinegar, and evaporated milk. Stir lightly together with cottage cheese and raw vegetables. At serving time, arrange chilled broccoli on greens on individual plates or large chop plate and spoon dressing generously over the spears. Serves six generously.

Why September Is Now Better Breakfast Month

"Food Comes First" in the day of this active school-age girl. A well-balanced breakfast of orange juice, oven-toasted rice cereal with milk, buttered toast, and milk for a beverage provides the quick and lasting energy that is necessary to meet the demands of an active morning at school.

Research at the State University of Iowa proved that a good breakfast is essential for maximum physical and mentl efficiency during the late morning hours. Teachers reported that good breakfast habits resulted in better attitudes toward school work and higher grades.

During September Better Breakfast Month check to see if your children go to school each day fortified with a good breakfast. Re-establish the good breakfast habit for your entire family for the school and work days ahead. A wide variety o wellbalanced, appetizing breakfasts can be prepared following a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter. This breakfast pattern is recommended by doctors and dietitians as an adequate breakfast for most people. It is easy to adjust this basic pattern to meet increased or decreased nutritional requirements.

To Dress Leftover Vegetables

Any leftover vegetables make a quick and easy salad. Just serve cold with a dressing of 2 tablespoons Spanish olice oil, a teaspoon of herb flavored vinegar, a sprinkling of salt and one of freshly-ground black pepper. Potatoes, green beans, broccoli, cauliflower and lima beans are all delicious when dressed this way.

Good Salad Eating

Here's an idea to add to your salad file. It uses the menfolks favorite, a can of pork and beans with tomato sauce. Mix 1 can (1 pound) pork and beans with tomato sauce, 1 cup diced cooked ham, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, and dash black pepper. Chill. Serve on crisp lettuce, garnished with mayonnaise if desired. Makes 4 generous servings.

Breakfast Is An Important Meal For School Children

Now that vacation days are over, and the school bell rings for thousands of children, breakfast and lunch menus should become part of each day's planning, states Virginia McLuckie, food economist at the Baltimore office of the University of Maryland's Department of Markets.

How well your children eat depends upon your ability as a planner and shopper for the family food. Breakfast can be an important meal from the standpoint of being a pacemaker for the day's activities. If breakfast is pleasant and enjoyable, children can enter into school and play with enthusiasm, homemakers and workers routine tasks seem easier and more interesting. Children having a well balanced, nutritious breakfast and lunch are more alert and better prepared for the days activities. The same holds true of adults.

When you shop take advantage of the best buys. Select fruit with an eye to serving it at meals and for eating in the carried lunch. Feature fruits in season at your table. Elberta peaches are in heavy supply and seasonally low priced. Summer apples make delicious applesauce for any meal. Rambos and Wealthy are the two early varieties to look for. A few red delicious are also available but also priced higher than summer apples. Watermelon is also in liberal supply and it is a delicious luncheon fruit. Round out your breakfast menu with cereal or protein or both. There are many kinds of cereal on the market. Protein includes eggs, meat, cheese and fish. Serve different kinds of bread with butter and always milk as a beverage even to coffee drinkers. Small eggs are the best buy.

In planning a packed lunch or one served at home for children or adults, keep the evening meal in mind. Most of us like lunch to be entirely different from dinner. It is important to that lunch be attractive in appearance and if packed, the sandwiches, cookies and other items should be individually wrapped. Serve milk as the beverage.

Your child may attend one of the schools participating in the school lunch program. If so, he may buy a wholesome, appetizing lunch every day at little cost. The Department of Agriculture provides funds to reimburse participating schools for part of the food purchased, in addition to distributing certain surplus commodities.

The vegetable counter and meat department offers good buys for lunch or dinner. The price of pork products has dropped slightly, particularly end roasts of loin and rib. Fryers are in heavy supply and attractively priced. Turkey prices have declined on smaller sized birds. Turkey makes excellent salads and sandwiches as well as a dinner meat.

Excellent quality cauliflower is reaching local markets from New York and New Jersey. Serve this vegetable raw as well as cooked. The local sweet corn season is approaching a decline in volume. Use fresh corn generously while prices are low. Green snap beans are in generous supply and of good quality. Red ripe tomatoes are available in volume and an excellent source of vitamin C. Now is the time to can tomatoes and make tomato juice for use later.

Dried Beef-Cheese Sandwich Spread

In double-boiler top, over direct heat, simmer 1 No. 2 can tomatoes and 1 tablespoon minced onion till cooked down to ½ cup. Grind ¼ pound process American Cheddar cheese and ¼ pound dried beef; add to tomato. Place over hot water; cook, stirring, till well blended. Stir in ¼ cup butter or margarine, salt and pepper to taste, and 1 lightly beaten egg. Cook, stirring, 1 minute. Pour into jar; cool; chill. Makes 8 to 10 sandwiches.

Dieter's Delight

Chicken has fewer calories to begin with than any other table meat, and here's a way to prepare it that is wonderfully flavorful: just marinate the cut up or quartered chicken in a very dry (fino) Spanish sherry. Add half a teaspoon of tarragon or chopped fresh dill to half a cup of the fino sherry, mixed with half a cup of water; pour mixture over chicken and let stand an hour or longer. Broil in the usual way, sprinkling with a little paprika to give the skin attractive color. No butter, oil or other fat is required. About 200 calories for a quarter of a chicken (3-pound purchased weight). For a perfect low calories drink before the meal, serve fino sherry on the rocks or with soda, adding a twist of lemon peel.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	Pass	2 hearts	3 hearts
Pass	4 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts
Pass	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Heart ace.

North resorted to an ingenious bit of strategy to ferret out the best contract in today's hand.

He decided that he was unwilling to play for less than game, and announced his intentions in the only manner available to a defender, by a cue bid of the suit adversely bid. There was a bit of a fly in the ointment in the form of a doubleton diamond, the suit in which partner was most likely to respond. But North decided to take his chances.

When South bid four diamonds North was unwilling to guess which one of his suits to bid so he contrived a means by which to determine the better of his partner's black suit holdings. He repeated the cue bid, calling four hearts.

South interpreted the message as follows: "Partner, I asked for your best suit and you mentioned diamonds. Unfortunately, that doesn't fit. Try again and naturally pick between spades and clubs." South chose spades, bidding four of that suit—the final contract.

West led the ace of hearts. Declarer ruffed in dummy and cashed the spade king. Although both defenders followed, he decided to play against a bad trump break. Since East obviously had length in hearts, South suspected him of being short in spades. He abandoned trumps for a moment and cashed the A-K of clubs. The next round of clubs was ruffed with the spade jack and West without the slightest trace of emotion discarded a heart, refusing to overruff. He hoped this would have the effect of inducing declarer to believe that East held the queen of spades and that he would, therefore, try to drop it on the next round.

Declarer, however, adhered to his original plan of playing West for the long spades and finessed the ten on the return, to bring home his contract.

The finesse of the ten provided complete safety. If it lost to the queen it would mean that trumps were 3-2 and all the defense could take was two diamonds and a spade.

Versatile Chipped Beef

Breakfast, lunch, dinner, supper—creamed chipped beef is one of those "anytime" dishes. We use new instant cream to make a smooth, nutritious sauce we defy you to spoil—it just never lumps. Here, we've served creamed chipped beef with fresh asparagus and hot buttered rolls for a fine supper menu.

Extra Easy Creamed Dried Beef

1¾ cups water
¼ pound dried beef, shredded
Salt & pepper
⅓ cup new instant cream
4 tablespoons flour

Combine instant cream, flour, water and dried beef in saucepan. Cook, stirring until thickened and smooth. Season to taste. Serve over toast, biscuits or mashed potatoes. Makes four servings.

Homemade Chicken Salad Is Simple And Tasty

The technique for making chicken salad with a bro-hen (broiler chicken) is this simple: You can simmer the bro-hen whole or cut up into pieces. Put it in a big kettle with about 3 cups of water. Simmer about two hours with salt, celery tops, bay leaves, onion and peppercorns. After it is cooked, immerse it in another pan of very cold water to chill the chicken quickly. You may then put the chicken in the refrigerator as it is and keep it safely cool until you're ready to make the salad, or you may make the salad and refrigerate it.

Simmered Chicken

1 4 to 5-pound (stewing chicken), whole or cut in pieces
3 cups water
1 medium onion, sliced
2 celery tops
2 bay leaves
2½ teaspoons salt
10 peppercorns

Place chicken in kettle with tight-fitting lid. Add water and remaining ingredients: cover. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 2 hours, or until tender. Remove from heat; pour broth through strainer. If chicken is cooked for later use in salads, sandwiches, a la king, etc., chill quickly by putting kettle in cold water with ice cubes. Strain broth and remove meat from bones. Leave in large pieces for chicken pie; dice for salads. If desired, skin may be removed. Refrigerate meat and broth at once.

YIELD: A 4½-pound bro-hen yields about 4 cups diced cooked chicken without skin, 5½ cups with skin, and approximately 3 cups broth and ¾ cup chicken fat.

Chicken Salad

4 to 5 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup diced celery
⅔ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon Tabasco
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine chicken with celery. Mix mayonnaise, lemon juice, Tabasco and Worcestershire sauce; add to chicken. Toss lightly. Refrigerate until served (flavor improves on standing). Serve on crisp greens, or use as a filling for tomatoes or avocado halves.

YIELD: 8 servings.

Variations:

Chicken Salad Oriental: Add 2 teaspoons soy sauce to mayonnaise: add ½ cup slivered toasted almonds to chicken.

California-Style Chicken Salad: Add 1 cup cut drained canned pineapple to chicken; add 1 teaspoon curry powder to mayonnaise.

Even sensitive, dry skins can take lathery brush scrubbing—and they're the kind that are likely to benefit most.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Brush Your Way To Healthier Skin

Probably more than half of all women believe that they have unusually sensitive skins. This belief has great advantages when it prompts extra care of the skin, and meticulous choice of skin preparations. But too often it means the omitting of the best of all body skin toners—the use of a bath brush or a loofah sponge.

Try a rousing scrub with a bath brush or a rough loofah sponge and see what it does for you. Don't hold off because your skin is dry—dry skin particularly needs this kind of stimulation to improve surface circulation. Make it a ten day trial, whipping up rich, soapy lather every time and attacking the skin vigorously. You can promise yourself that your skin will feel wonderfully cleaner than it does today, and that you'll enjoy a new-found sense of well-being after every bath. And you can also promise yourself that dry, scaly areas won't be drier, but softer instead.

Trouble spots on knees and elbows can be coaxed to repair themselves—as the scrubbing encourages a more normal flow of the natural oil in the skin, roughness and scaling disappears. Uncomfortable, sometimes itchy areas on the back—difficult to cleanse by other methods—are reached by the brush or strap-mounted sponge, and soothed with thorough and regular cleansing.

Body skin needs rougher treatment than it gets. Vigorous soapy brushing or sponging gives it the stimulation that comes from exercise, to make it healthier—and it's the healthy skin that is soft and fine-textured. The ten day trial will be only a starter. So much good comes from frequent brush or sponge scrubs that they become a habit.

Melon Cooler

Americans vacationing on the Spanish isle of Majorca in the Mediterranean, have invented a drink they call the Sisyphus, made with Spanish sherry of the fino type (very dry), shaved ice and slices of melon. The drink is named after the Greek hero who had to perform his labors over and over, which is what is done with the melon slices and the fino sherry.

Pack Cereal Cookies For Light Lunch

Snacks have become an accepted part of the American way of life. Too often in the opinion of leading nutrition authorities, snacks contain "empty calories" which interfere with good nutrition.

"An ounce of prevention . . ." the old adage holds true here for mothers who want to avoid arguments over the choice of a nutritious snack. Before starting on a trip, pack several "rounds" of wholesome cereal cookies to eat with fresh fruit or chilled milk. The milk can be kept cold in a thermal bag or vacuum bottle.

The ingredient use of breakfast cereals in recipes increases the food value by making additions of protein, B vitamins, minerals, and food energy.

The two recipes given below offer a pleasant contrast of textures and flavors. The texture and flavor of maple cereal cookies go well with cold milk. Cherry-Apricot cereal chews are a rather tart cooky that would go better with fresh fruit.

These are but two of the many cereal cooky recipes that make nutritious snacks for travel or at home.

Maple Cereal Cookies

1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
3 cups oven-toasted rice cereal, or pre-sweetened rice cereal
½ cup chopped nuts

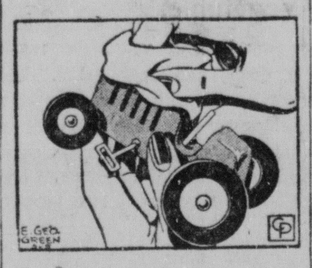
Sift flour, soda, salt, and cinnamon together. Combine egg, milk, and flavoring. Cream butter or margarine and sugar until fluffy. Add flour mixture and liquids alternately, one-half at a time, stirring just until dry ingredients are moistened after each addition. Carefully fold 1 cup of the cereal and the nuts into mixture. Shape rounded spoonfuls of cooky dough into balls and roll in remaining cereal. Place on greased cooky sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until done, about 15 minutes. Remove from cooky sheet, cool. Yield: About 40 cookies.

Cherry-Apricot Cereal Chews

1⅓ cups sweetened condensed milk
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
6 cups ready-to-eat oat cereal
1 cup finely chopped dried apricots
½ cup chopped candied cherries

Combine ingredients in mixing bowl and blend thoroughly. Drop scant tablespoonfuls 2 inches apart onto a greased and floured baking sheet. Bake in a slow oven (300° F.) until done and a light golden color, 18 to 22 minutes. Remove cookies from pan immediately upon taking from oven. Cool cookies on rack or flat surface. Yield: About 5 dozen 2-inch cookies.

Wife Preservers



Toys with mechanical insides should never be submerged for washing. Sponge them well with suds instead.

Spanish Dill Dip

At your next cocktail party, this easy dip is certain to make a hit. To soft cheddar cheese or cheese spread, add enough Spanish sherry of the oloroso (cream) type to give the cheese the consistency of sour cream, beating well until very smooth. Then stir in a little ground dill seed, using ½ teaspoon of the dill seed to a cup of cheese. Especially good served with Spanish sherry on the rocks or with a sherry martini, using fino (very dry) sherry instead of vermouth.

Now Is The Season For Luncheon In The Round

Don't let your late summer meals take on that last-rose-of-summer look. Instead, brighten your menus to match the day — here is a good suggestion:

Luncheon in the Round
Fruit Salad
Lemon Sherbet Oatmeal Cookies
Coffee Milk

Luncheon in the Round is made with a package of corn muffin mix. Add pieces of diced cooked ham to the batter for an extra touch of interest. Pour the batter into a round cake pan instead of muffin tins and bake. At the last minute arrange slices of tomato and cheese on top of the baked corn bread and heat in the oven until the cheese melts. What a delightful dish to set before the family and so nutritious, too!

You'll be glad to have this recipe for Luncheon in the Round on hand for a summer lunch, for a light evening meal or for any easy meal when speed and good eating are the order of the day.

LUNCHEON IN THE ROUND
Makes 6 servings

One 12-oz. pkg. corn muffin mix
1 egg
⅔ cup milk
½ cup diced cooked ham
4 slices sharp cheese
6 tomato slices

Heat oven to hot (400°F.). Empty contents of corn muffin mix package into bowl; add egg, milk and ham. Blend only until dry ingredients are thoroughly moistened, but not smooth.

Pour batter into greased 9-inch round pan. Bake in preheated oven (400°F.) 15 minutes to 20 minutes. Remove from oven; place cheese slices on corn bread; arrange tomato slices on cheese. Replace in oven until cheese melts, about 2 minutes.

Spanish Broccoli

An unusual recipe for broccoli comes from Spain. Cook broccoli in the usual way until just tender. Then place in a heavy pan with 2 tablespoons of Spanish olice oil, half a garlic clove, 1 or 2 chopped anchovy fillets and half a cup of chopped olives, black or green. Cook amout 1 minute, then sprinkle with lemon juice. Delicious hot or cold.

Versatile Chipped Beef

Breakfast, lunch, dinner, supper—creamed chipped beef is one of those "anytime" dishes. We use new instant cream to make a smooth, nutritious sauce we defy you to spoil—it just never lumps. Here, we've served creamed chipped beef with fresh asparagus and hot buttered rolls for a fine supper menu.

Extra Easy Creamed Dried Beef

1¾ cups water
¼ pound dried beef, shredded
Salt & pepper
½ cup new instant cream
4 tablespoons flour

Combine instant cream, flour, water and dried beef in saucepan. Cook, stirring until thickened and smooth. Season to taste. Serve over toast, biscuits or mashed potatoes. Makes four servings.

Homemade Chicken Salad Is Simple And Tasty

The technique for making chicken salad with a bro-hen (broiler chicken) is this simple: You can simmer the bro-hen whole or cut up into pieces. Put it in a big kettle with about 3 cups of water. Simmer about two hours with salt, celery tops, bay leaves, onion and peppercorns. After it is cooked, immerse it in another pan of very cold water to chill the chicken quickly. You may then put the chicken in the refrigerator as it is and keep it safely cool until you're ready to make the salad, or you may make the salad and refrigerate it.

Simmered Chicken

1 4 to 5-pound (stewing chicken), whole or cut in pieces
3 cups water
1 medium onion, sliced
2 celery tops
2 bay leaves
2½ teaspoons salt
10 peppercorns

Place chicken in kettle with tight-fitting lid. Add water and remaining ingredients: cover. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 2 hours, or until tender. Remove from heat; pour broth through strainer. If chicken is cooked for later use in salads, sandwiches, a la king, etc., chill quickly by putting kettle in cold water with ice cubes. Strain broth and remove meat from bones. Leave in large pieces for chicken pie; dice for salads. If desired, skin may be removed. Refrigerate meat and broth at once.

YIELD: A 4½-pound bro-hen yields about 4 cups diced cooked chicken without skin, 5½ cups with skin, and approximately 3 cups broth and ¾ cup chicken fat.

Chicken Salad

4 to 5 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup diced celery
⅔ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon Tabasco
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine chicken with celery. Mix mayonnaise, lemon juice, Tabasco and Worcestershire sauce; add to chicken. Toss lightly. Refrigerate until served (flavor improves on standing). Serve on crisp greens, or use as a filling for tomatoes or avocado halves.

YIELD: 8 servings.

Variations:

Chicken Salad Oriental: Add 2 teaspoons soy sauce to mayonnaise: add ½ cup slivered toasted almonds to chicken.

California-Style Chicken Salad: Add 1 cup cut drained canned pineapple to chicken; add 1 teaspoon curry powder to mayonnaise.

Even sensitive, dry skins can take lathery brush scrubbing—and they're the kind that are likely to benefit most.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Brush Your Way To Healthier Skin

Probably more than half of all women believe that they have unusually sensitive skins. This belief has great advantages when it prompts extra care of the skin, and meticulous choice of skin preparations. But too often it means the omitting of the best of all body skin toners—the use of a bath brush or a loofah sponge.

Try a rousing scrub with a bath brush or a rough loofah sponge and see what it does for you. Don't hold off because your skin is dry—dry skin particularly needs this kind of stimulation to improve surface circulation. Make it a ten day trial, whipping up rich, soapy lather every time and attacking the skin vigorously. You can promise yourself that your skin will feel wonderfully cleaner than it does today, and that you'll enjoy a new-found sense of well-being after every bath. And you can also promise yourself that dry, scaly areas won't be drier, but softer instead.

Trouble spots on knees and elbows can be coaxed to repair themselves—as the scrubbing encourages a more normal flow of the natural oil in the skin, roughness and scaling disappears. Uncomfortable, sometimes itchy areas on the back—difficult to cleanse by other methods—are reached by the brush or strap-mounted sponge, and soothed with thorough and regular cleansing.

Body skin needs rougher treatment than it gets. Vigorous soapy brushing or sponging gives it the stimulation that comes from exercise, to make it healthier—and it's the healthy skin that is soft and fine-textured. The ten day trial will be only a starter. So much good comes from frequent brush or sponge scrubs that they become a habit.

TOMORROW: Lighten Your Work Load.

Is yours a dry skin, oily skin, or a combination oily-dry? Now learn the right care for all types of skin. To get your copy of "Secrets of Skin Care," send 25c and a stamped, return envelope to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this paper.

Melon Cooler

Americans vacationing on the Spanish isle of Majorca in the Mediterranean, have invented a drink they call the Sisyphus, made with Spanish sherry of the fino type (very dry), shaved ice and slices of melon. The drink is named after the Greek hero who had to perform his labors over and over, which is what is done with the melon slices and the fino sherry.

Pack Cereal Cookies For Light Lunch

Snacks have become an accepted part of the American way of life. Too often in the opinion of leading nutrition authorities, snacks contain "empty calories" which interfere with good nutrition.

"An ounce of prevention . . ." the old adage holds true here for mothers who want to avoid arguments over the choice of a nutritious snack. Before starting on a trip, pack several "rounds" of wholesome cereal cookies to eat with fresh fruit or chilled milk. The milk can be kept cold in a thermal bag or vacuum bottle.

The ingredient use of breakfast cereals in recipes increases the food value by making additions of protein, B vitamins, minerals, and food energy.

The two recipes given below offer a pleasant contrast of textures and flavors. The texture and flavor of maple cereal cookies go well with cold milk. Cherry-Apricot cereal chews are a rather tart cooky that would go better with fresh fruit.

These are but two of the many cereal cooky recipes that make nutritious snacks for travel or at home.

Maple Cereal Cookies

1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
3 cups oven-toasted rice cereal, or pre-sweetened rice cereal
½ cup chopped nuts

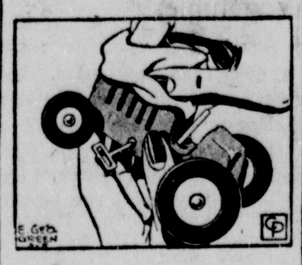
Sift flour, soda, salt, and cinnamon together. Combine egg, milk, and flavoring. Cream butter or margarine and sugar until fluffy. Add flour mixture and liquids alternately, one-half at a time, stirring just until dry ingredients are moistened after each addition. Carefully fold 1 cup of the cereal and the nuts into mixture. Shape rounded spoonfuls of cooky dough into balls and roll in remaining cereal. Place on greased cooky sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until done, about 15 minutes. Remove from cooky sheet, cool. Yield: About 40 cookies.

Cherry-Apricot Cereal Chews

1⅓ cups sweetened condensed milk
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
6 cups ready-to-eat oat cereal
1 cup finely chopped dried apricots
½ cup chopped candied cherries

Combine ingredients in mixing bowl and blend thoroughly. Drop scant tablespoonfuls 2 inches apart onto a greased and floured baking sheet. Bake in a slow oven (300° F.) until done and a light golden color, 18 to 22 minutes. Remove cookies from pan immediately upon taking from oven. Cool cookies on rack or flat surface. Yield: About 5 dozen 2-inch cookies.

Wife Preservers



Toys with mechanical insides should never be submerged for washing. Sponge them well with suds instead.

Spanish Dill Dip

At your next cocktail party, this easy dip is certain to make a hit. To soft cheddar cheese or cheese spread, add enough Spanish sherry of the oloroso (cream) type to give the cheese the consistency of sour cream, beating well until very smooth. Then stir in a little ground dill seed, using ½ teaspoon of the dill seed to a cup of cheese. Milwaukee's Four Runs In 10th Defeats Phillies, 9-5

Braves Hold 9-Game Lead Over Giants

Torre And Bruton Pound In All Runs In Extra Inning

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Frank Torre hit a bases-loaded single and Billy Bruton smashed a two-run triple as the Milwaukee Braves hopped on reliefer Dick Farrell for four runs in the 10th inning Thursday night to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 9-5.

The victory, second in a row for the Braves over the Phils, kept Milwaukee nine games in front of the San Francisco Giants. Juan Pizarro, who held the Phils scoreless in 5 2-3 innings in relief of starter Lew Burdette, gained the decision.

Wise Starts Rally

Farrell, who replaced starter Ray Semproch in the ninth, gave up a scratch single to Casey Wise to open the 10th. Ed Mathews fanned but Hank Aaron singled, and Wes Covington, with a three-run homer to his credit, was given an intentional pass, filling the bases.

Torre singled through the box for two runs and after Del Crandall flied out, Bruton lashed a triple to center, scoring two more. That was enough for Pizarro who throttled the Phils in their half.

The break came after a tie prevailed from the fifth when Covington hit his 24th homer with two on and the Phils rallied to chase Burdette in their half.

The Braves scored two off Semproch in the second on a triple by Torre, a double by Crandall and a single by Bruton. The Phils got a run back in the third on singles by Chico Fernandez, Carl Sawatski and Richie Ashburn.

Semproch, who hasn't won since Aug. 3, gave up a walk to Mathews with one out in the fifth, Aaron singled and Covington lined a smash over the right field wall to put the Braves in front, 5-1.

Burdette Is Kayoed

Burdette, with five straight victories and seven complete games behind him, couldn't get past the 5th inning. Ashburn got his third consecutive single, Solly Hemus singled and Ed Bouchee doubled both home. A double by Harry Anderson scored Bouchee and Willie Jones singled Anderson home.

That brought on Pizarro and marked the first time since Aug. 1 that Burdette failed to finish.

Braves shortstop Johnny Logan was put out of the game by Umpire Tony Venzon in the third for protesting a call at second base.

Sugar May Meet Tonight's Victor

NEW YORK (AP) — Truman Gibson, International Boxing Club president, conferred here Thursday with Sugar Ray Robinson and said if the middleweight champion decided to fight again it would be with the winner of the Carmen Basilio-Art Aragon bout.

Aragon and Basilio meet in a 12-round bout Friday night in Los Angeles.

Robinson and Gibson also discussed a proposal, not disclosed, on closed circuit television offered by theater network television. The champion said he had no obligations or commitments with anyone, an apparent reference to TelePrompTer.

TelePrompTer sponsored the recent Floyd Patterson-Ray Harris heavyweight title bout, as well as the closed circuit theater TV of the March fight in which Robinson regained the middleweight title from Basilio.

Umpires Assigned For Pen-Mar Tilts

Umpires were assigned last night for Pen-Mar Baseball League games on Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday, Bill Andrews (plate), Howard Northcraft (third base) and Kenneth Grimes (first base) will officiate in the Zihlman at Grantsville game. Al Martin (plate), George Schoenadel (third base) and Joe Geatz (first base) will handle the Barrelville at Hyndman contest.

The opening game of the final series on Sunday will find John Frank at the plate, Russ Minnicks, first base, and George Geatz at third base.

Caseys Beat Vets, Take Series Lead

Rhubarb Marks 2-1 R.C. Battle

The Knights of Columbus took a 2-1 lead in their Rocking Chair Softball League series with the Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday by winning at Stitcher Field by the score of 2-1.

Rain held up the game about 15 minutes in the last of the 7th inning with Vern Penner at bat, the count three-and-two and two out when Manager Cecil Grimes refused to finish out the inning because of the rain The Caseys put the field in the best condition possible after the rain stopped but the Vets refused to continue. The umpire then awarded the game to the Knights.

Manager Grimes then threatened to protest the game because the Caseys had used Jimmy "Tiger" Angelatta, who had not appeared in the required ten games during the regular season. Prior to Wednesday's game the K. of C. got permission from the V.F.W. to use Angellatta and the latter played in the second game of the series. The Vets claimed the Caseys used Angellatta yesterday when they had another player available.

No official action on the protest was announced last night.

The only earned run in the three games between the teams came in the second inning yesterday when Vern Penner hit a homer for the Vets. Mickey Clark's single, Al Martin's sacrifice and error and George Geatz's single enabled the Knights to tie the score in the fourth frame. The Knights sewed it up in the 5th when Al Sheetz was safe on an error, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored after Bob McGreevy's hit and an error by Ronnie Cage at the plate on a relay from the outfield.

The fourth game of the best-of-five final series is scheduled today at 6 p. m. at Stitcher Field. Score:

K. of C.	000	110	0—	2	6	0

Americas Cup Golf Matches Begin Today

Amateurs Of 28 Nations To Vie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Amateur golfers from Canada, Mexico and the United States will clash for the fourth time Friday and Saturday at the Olympic Country Club in a cozy little international match for the Americas Cup.

If the amateurs from any other American nation would like to try their skill with these three in the future, they'll be welcome. But at present it doesn't appear that the three-way competition will be expanded. The world team and individual championships, which will be played for the first time at St. Andrews, Scotland, in October, has taken the edge off this smaller competition.

Already 28 nations have entered the world matches.

The element of sociability rather overshadows that of competition in the Americas Cup. Each nation names seven players for its team but only six can play at one time.

Billy Joe Patton, the U.S. captain, indicated he will switch players and pairings as often as possible during the two days so that each can play with as many members of the visiting team as possible.

The United States has won all three previous cup matches with Canada second twice and Mexico once.

Marine Riflemen Set New Record

CAMP PERRY, O. (UPI) — A squad of six marines set new records to win both events at the National Rifle Association meet here Thursday.

In the afternoon they fired 591 of 600 to top the Rumbold Trophy record by six points.

Highest shooter of the team was T-Sgt. V. D. Mitchell of Cardiff, Calif. — the new national service rifle champion — who fired 248 of 250.

The stadium lights will be turned on at 7:30.

Red Sox Win At Baltimore By Score 5-2

Loss Drops Birds To 4th Place Tie

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Pete Runnels' single drove in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning tonight and the Boston Red Sox added another paid of runs to defeat Baltimore, 5-2, and drop the Orioles into a fourth-place deadlock.

Rookie Bill Monbouquette and relier Murray Wall combined to hold the Orioles to three hits, with Monbouquette picking up his second victory in six decisions. Both Oriole runs were unearned and scored after Monbouquette himself dropped a throw at first base.

The winning Red Sox rally came at the expense of Oriole starter Milt Pappas who suffered his eighth loss against nine wins. Jim Piersall walked to open the seventh and moved to second on a sacrifice by Pete Daley. After Bill Renna, batting for Monbouquette, grounded out and Don Buddin walked, Runnels lined a single to left field to score Piersall from second.

Buddin moved to third and Runnels to second on the throw to the plate and Buddin romped home when Pappas wild-pitched. Gene Stephens followed with a double to bring in Runnels with the third run of the inning.

Piersall scored Boston's first run, an unearned one, in the second inning when he was safe on an error by first baseman Bob Boyd, he stole second and third and came home on a single by Monbouquette. But the Orioles came back with a pair of runs in their half after two were out. Boyd was safe on Monbouquette's error, Gene Woodling and Bob Nieman walked to load the bases and Jim Busby singled to drive in Boyd and Woodling.

In the fifth the Red Sox tied the score on a double by Daley, a sacrifice and another double by Runnels. After the Red Sox regained the lead in the seventh, Wall pitched hitless ball while walking two over the last three innings.

Soph Ed Becker Stars In Drill Held By Terps

COLLEGE PARK (AP)—University of Maryland footballers ran through their first full speed intra-squad scrimmage Thursday and Coach Tommy Mont was particularly pleased with a glue-fingered sophomore from Quakertown, Pa.

Passing offense was the strategy of the day and Bob Rusevlyan's tosses to ends Ben Scotti and Don Shaffer looked mighty good. So did the passing of Dickie Lewis to end Al Beardsley.

But what really pleased the coach was the receiving of end Ed Becker who took five out of six from Dick Scarbath, listed as No. 4 quarterback at this stage of training. Scarbath - to - Becker passes seemed to be radar-guided and went for short distances as well as long, up to 55 yards on one touchdown heave.

After the hour-and-half scrimmage Saturday. It will be the evaluation test to determine which Terp will play where.

Olympic Site To Be Chosen For 1964 Games

Four United States Cities In Running

CHICAGO (AP) — United States Olympic officials will decide this weekend which of four American cities—Detroit, Los Angeles, Minneapolis or Chicago—will be certified to try landing the 1964 Olympic Games.

The 1960 games will be held in Rome Italy, and the U.S. Olymhic Executive Committee — at its meeting here Saturday and Sunday—will work out details for this country's participation.

The Olympic group's site selection committee will meet Friday night to consider bids of the four American cities for the 1964 games. A decision on a prospective host city may be made Saturday or Sunday.

However, no matter whether Low Angeles, site of the last U.S.-held Olympics in 1932, Detroit, Minneapolis or Chicago, gets the call, it is far from certain this country will land the 1964 games.

Next spring, at Munich, the International Olympic Committee of which Chicago's Avery Brundage is president, will select the site. Besides an American city, at least four foreign cities will make a pitch for the 1964 event — Tokyo, Moscow, Buenos Aires and Mexico City.

Tokyo made a favorable impression on some IOC officials with its efficient handling of the recent Asian Games. However, transportation costs for most major entries would be a problem, as they were for the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne, Australia.

U.S. Olympic Committee President K. L. (Tug) Wilson thinks "it's about time the pendulum swung in favor of America."

Wilson said civic leaders of the four American cities bidding for the 1964 games will be given upward of an hour each to elaborate on their bids.

Chicago's bid is based upon its preparations for the 1959 Pan-American Games, facilities of which would be expanded for the 1964 Olympics.

If the selection committee finds it difficult to make a decision this weekend, it may personally inspect facilities of the competing cities. This, of course, would prolong the selection date.

Various progress reports concerning the 1960 games at Rome will be made at the weekend meeting here.

County Series To Open Today

Kennell's Mill will play at Stringtown today at 6:15 p.m., in the first of a best-of-five final playoff series in the County Softball League, it was announced last night by Charles "Whip" Kreitzburg, president.

The second game is set for Tuesday at Kennell's Mill and the third at Stringtown a week from today.

Kretizburg said that the home team in each game must turn the diamond over to the visitors promptly at 6 p.m.

Roger Maris' Homer Sinks Indians, 2-1

Ralph Terry Bags 9th Win Of Season

CLEVELAND (AP) — Roger Maris hit a home run with a man on base in the sixth inning to give the Kansas City Athletics a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians before a crowd of only 1,667 at Municipal Stadium Thursday.

Ralph Terry, the A's 22-year-old right-hander, gave up nine scattered hits in winning his ninth victory against 11 defeats. The loss was charged to Cal McLish, the Indians' leading pitcher. It was his seventh defeat in 21 decisions.

Neither team had been able to get a man past second base until Maris hit his 24th homer of the season into the right field stands. Bill Tuttle, who had singled, scored ahead of him.

The Indians scored in the eighth. Vic Power tripled and scored when Minnie Minoso singled.

Leslie Combs Pays Near Record Sum For Gallant Man

NEW YORK (AP)—Leslie Combs II of Lexington, Ky., who headed a syndicate that bought Nashua for a world record price of $1,251,200 in 1955, paid $1,000,000 Thursday for a three-quarter interest in Gallant Man. It was the second-largest price ever paid for a thoroughbred.

The 4-year-old Gallant Man, owned by Ralph Lowe of Midland, Tex., is one of the top contenders for 1958 horse of the year honors.

In the announcement at Belmont Park, where the colt is stabled, Lowe said he would retain a one quarter interest and that Gallant Man would continue to race in his silks. His next start is the $25,000-added Sysonby Handicap at one mile Saturday at Belmont.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—U. S. junior champ Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, the only American who has tested a Russian on a tennis court, said Wednesday, "the one I played was darned good."

"He was nervous and you could see the pressure on him was real heavy," said the rangy high school senior from St. Louis. "But he had the soundest forehand I've ever seen and had the makings of a very fine player."

That's an American teenager—Buchholz is 17 — appraising a Russian, venturing outside the Iron Curtain for the very first time at the identical age of 17.

"We played in the junior final at Beckenham in England," said Buchholz, son of a St. Louis pro and better known as "Butch." "I won 6-0, 7-5. That second set was just as tough as you'd expect from the score."

His Russian foe — "he's a nice guy" — was Andrei Potannin, one of two young players sent to England this season by the Soviet Tennis Association. "Butch" went on his own but with the unofficial blessing of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association which officially regards him as the best young prospect "at least since Ham Richardson was that age."

Considered Top Prospect

More enthusiastic critics regard young Buchholz as a lead pipe cinch to wind up at the top of the heap in the near future.

"Andrei's serve could be better," said Buchholz. "And his backhand wasn't exceptionally strong except on return of service. But you couldn't find any real basic faults with his game. He had been coached in the proper way to hit the ball and there was nothing phony about his form."

As for "Butch," himself, the future looks bright. Since his dad has been a pro for years with four clubs under his wing in St. Louis, Butch and his younger brother, Cliff, have been playing almost since they were big enough to walk.

"Dad helped me the most," said Buchholz. "But Bill Talbert has been a great help since I came East with the Junior Davis Cup team. I can't say enough about Bill."

Whips Cranston

In his first match in the nationals, Butch knocked over John Cranston, a Californian with a victory this season over Wimbledon champ Ashley Cooper. He finally was beaten in the third round by the more experienced Ulf Schmidt of Sweden in four sets after blowing numerous opportunities to win the 1917 first set.

"Give me a big serve and I'll be all right," said Butch later in the locker room, "Anybody got a serve for sale?"

"I'll sell you mine cheap," said light-hitting Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif.

"Even yours," said Butch with a grin, "is better'n mine."

The big point is, Buchholz knows his weakness. And at 17, there's plenty of time to make repairs. He's not only the "best since Richardson" but in our book much the best American teenager since Pancho Gonzales blazed down the pike just a decade ago.

Milwaukee's Four Runs In 10th Defeats Phillies, 9-5

Braves Hold 9-Game Lead Over Giants

Torre And Bruton Pound In All Runs In Extra Inning

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Frank Torre hit a bases-loaded single and Billy Bruton smashed a two-run triple as the Milwaukee Braves hopped on reliefer Dick Farrell for four runs in the 10th inning Thursday night to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 9-5.

The victory, second in a row for the Braves over the Phils, kept Milwaukee nine games in front of the San Francisco Giants. Juan Pizarro, who held the Phils scoreless in 5 2-3 innings in relief of starter Lew Burdette, gained the decision.

Wise Starts Rally

Farrell, who replaced starter Ray Semproch in the ninth, gave up a scratch single to Casey Wise to open the 10th. Ed Mathews fanned but Hank Aaron singled, and Wes Covington, with a three-run homer to his credit, was given an intentional pass, filling the bases.

Torre singled through the box for two runs and after Del Crandall flied out, Bruton lashed a triple to center, scoring two more. That was enough for Pizarro who throttled the Phils in their half.

The break came after a tie prevailed from the fifth when Covington hit his 24th homer with two on and the Phils rallied to chase Burdette in their half.

The Braves scored two off Semproch in the second on a triple by Torre, a double by Crandall and a single by Bruton. The Phils got a run back in the third on singles by Chico Fernandez, Carl Sawatski and Richie Ashburn.

Semproch, who hasn't won since Aug. 3, gave up a walk to Mathews with one out in the fifth, Aaron singled and Covington lined a smash over the right field wall to put the Braves in front, 5-1.

Burdette Is Kayoed

Burdette, with five straight victories and seven complete games behind him, couldn't get past the 8th inning. Ashburn got his third consecutive single, Solly Hemus singled and Ed Bouchee doubled both home. A double by Harry Anderson scored Bouchee and Willie Jones singled Anderson home.

That brought on Pizarro and marked the first time since Aug. 1 that Burdette failed to finish.

Braves shortstop Johnny Logan was put out of the game by Umpire Tony Venzon in the third for protesting a call at second base.

Sugar May Meet Tonight's Victor

NEW YORK (AP) — Truman Gibson, International Boxing Club president, conferred here Thursday with Sugar Ray Robinson and said if the middleweight champion decided to fight again it would be with the winner of the Carmen Basilio-Art Aragon bout.

Aragon and Basilio meet in a 12-round bout Friday night in Los Angeles.

Robinson and Gibson also discussed a proposal, not disclosed, on closed circuit television offered by theater network television. The champion said he had no obligations or commitments with anyone, an apparent reference to TelePrompTer.

TelePrompTer sponsored the recent Floyd Patterson-Ray Harris heavyweight title bout, as well as the closed circuit theater TV of the March fight in which Robinson regained the middleweight title from Basilio.

Caseys Beat Vets, Take Series Lead

Rhubarb Marks 2-1 R.C. Battle

The Knights of Columbus took a 2-1 lead in their Rocking Chair Softball League series with the Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday by winning at Stitcher Field by the score of 2-1.

Rain held up the game about 15 minutes in the last of the 7th inning with Vern Penner at bat, the count three-and-two and two out when Manager Cecil Grimes refused to finish out the inning because of the rain The Caseys put the field in the best condition possible after the rain stopped but the Vets refused to continue. The umpire then awarded the game to the Knights.

Manager Grimes then threatened to protest the game because the Caseys had used Jimmy "Tiger" Angelatta, who had not appeared in the required ten games during the regular season. Prior to Wednesday's game the K. of C. got permission from the V.F.W. to use Angellatta and the latter played in the second game of the series. The Vets claimed the Caseys used Angellatta yesterday when they had another player available.

No official action on the protest was announced last night.

The only earned run in the three games between the teams came in the second inning yesterday when Vern Penner hit a homer for the Vets. Mickey Clark's single, Al Martin's sacrifice and error and George Geatz's single enabled the Knights to tie the score in the fourth frame. The Knights sewed it up in the 5th when Al Sheetz was safe on an error, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored after Bob McGreevy's hit and an error by Ronnie Cage at the plate on a relay from the outfield.

The fourth game of the best-of-five final series is scheduled today at 6 p. m. at Stitcher Field.

Americas Cup Golf Matches Begin Today

Amateurs Of 28 Nations To Vie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Amateur golfers from Canada, Mexico and the United States will clash for the fourth time Friday and Saturday at the Olympic Country Club in a cozy little international match for the Americas Cup.

If the amateurs from any other American nation would like to try their skill with these three in the future, they'll be welcome. But at present it doesn't appear that the three-way competition will be expanded. The world team and individual championships, which will be played for the first time at St. Andrews, Scotland, in October, has taken the edge off this smaller competition.

Already 28 nations have entered the world matches.

The element of sociability rather overshadows that of competition in the Americas Cup. Each nation names seven players for its team but only six can play at one time.

Billy Joe Patton, the U.S. captain, indicated he will switch players and pairings as often as possible during the two days so that each can play with as many members of the visiting team as possible.

The United States has won all three previous cup matches with Canada second twice and Mexico once.

Marine Riflemen Set New Record

CAMP PERRY, O. (UPI) — A squad of six marines set new records to win both events at the National Rifle Association meet here Thursday.

In the afternoon they fired 591 of 600 to top the Rumbold Trophy record by six points.

Highest shooter of the team was T-Sgt. V. D. Mitchell of Cardiff, Calif. — the new national service rifle champion — who fired 248 of 250.

Beall High School will observe "Meet The Squad Night" at the Beall High Stadium tonight, commencing at 8 o'clock.

The program is being staged to raise money for the football players' insurance fund and admission will be by donation at the gate.

There are 66 players on the grid squad and 12 are covered by family insurance. Money must be raised to cover the other players on the squad. The cost of insuring each player is about $9.

The program will include an intra-squad scrimmage and during intermission John Shelton and John Fox, officials, will explain the new high school football rules changes.

Cheerleaders, majorettes, twirlers and the band will participate in the exercises.

The stadium lights will be turned on at 7:30.

Red Sox Win At Baltimore By Score 5-2

Loss Drops Birds To 4th Place Tie

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Pete Runnels' single drove in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning tonight and the Boston Red Sox added another paid of runs to defeat Baltimore, 5-2, and drop the Orioles into a fourth-place deadlock.

Rookie Bill Monbouquette and relier Murray Wall combined to hold the Orioles to three hits, with Monbouquette picking up his second victory in six decisions. Both Oriole runs were unearned and scored after Monbouquette himself dropped a throw at first base.

The winning Red Sox rally came at the expense of Oriole starter Milt Pappas who suffered his eighth loss against nine wins. Jim Piersall walked to open the seventh and moved to second on a sacrifice by Pete Daley. After Bill Renna, batting for Monbouquette, grounded out and Don Buddin walked, Runnels lined a single to left field to score Piersall from second.

Buddin moved to third and Runnels to second on the throw to the plate and Buddin romped home when Pappas wild-pitched. Gene Stephens followed with a double to bring in Runnels with the third run of the inning.

Piersall scored Boston's first run, an unearned one, in the second inning when he was safe on an error by first baseman Bob Boyd, he stole second and third and came home on a single by Monbouquette. But the Orioles came back with a pair of runs in their half after two were out. Boyd was safe on Monbouquette's error, Gene Woodling and Bob Nieman walked to load the bases and Jim Busby singled to drive in Boyd and Woodling.

In the fifth the Red Sox tied the score on a double by Daley, a sacrifice and another double by Runnels. After the Red Sox regained the lead in the seventh, Wall pitched hitless ball while walking two over the last three innings.

Soph Ed Becker Stars In Drill Held By Terps

COLLEGE PARK (AP)—University of Maryland footballers ran through their first full speed intra-squad scrimmage Thursday and Coach Tommy Mont was particularly pleased with a glue-fingered sophomore from Quakertown, Pa.

Passing offense was the strategy of the day and Bob Rusevlyan's tosses to ends Ben Scotti and Don Shaffer looked mighty good. So did the passing of Dickie Lewis to end Al Beardsley.

But what really pleased the coach was the receiving of end Ed Becker who took five out of six from Dick Scarbath, listed as No. 4 quarterback at this stage of training. Scarbath - to - Becker passes seemed to be radar-guided and went for short distances as well as long, up to 55 yards on one touchdown heave.

After the hour-and-half scrimmage Saturday. It will be the evaluation test to determine which Terp will play where.

Olympic Site To Be Chosen For 1964 Games

Four United States Cities In Running

CHICAGO (AP) — United States Olympic officials will decide this weekend which of four American cities—Detroit, Los Angeles, Minneapolis or Chicago—will be certified to try landing the 1964 Olympic Games.

The 1960 games will be held in Rome Italy, and the U.S. Olymhic Executive Committee — at its meeting here Saturday and Sunday—will work out details for this country's participation.

The Olympic group's site selection committee will meet Friday night to consider bids of the four American cities for the 1964 games. A decision on a prospective host city may be made Saturday or Sunday.

However, no matter whether Low Angeles, site of the last U.S.-held Olympics in 1932, Detroit, Minneapolis or Chicago, gets the call, it is far from certain this country will land the 1964 games.

Next spring, at Munich, the International Olympic Committee of which Chicago's Avery Brundage is president, will select the site. Besides an American city, at least four foreign cities will make a pitch for the 1964 event — Tokyo, Moscow, Buenos Aires and Mexico City.

Tokyo made a favorable impression on some IOC officials with its efficient handling of the recent Asian Games. However, transportation costs for most major entries would be a problem, as they were for the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne, Australia.

U.S. Olympic Committee President K. L. (Tug) Wilson thinks "it's about time the pendulum swung in favor of America."

Wilson said civic leaders of the four American cities bidding for the 1964 games will be given upward of an hour each to elaborate on their bids.

Chicago's bid is based upon its preparations for the 1959 Pan-American Games, facilities of which would be expanded for the 1964 Olympics.

If the selection committee finds it difficult to make a decision this weekend, it may personally inspect facilities of the competing cities. This, of course, would prolong the selection date.

Various progress reports concerning the 1960 games at Rome will be made at the weekend meeting here.

County Series To Open Today

Kennell's Mill will play at Stringtown today at 6:15 p.m., in the first of a best-of-five final playoff series in the County Softball League, it was announced last night by Charles "Whip" Kreitzburg, president.

The second game is set for Tuesday at Kennell's Mill and the third at Stringtown a week from today.

Kretizburg said that the home team in each game must turn the diamond over to the visitors promptly at 6 p.m.

Roger Maris' Homer Sinks Indians, 2-1

Ralph Terry Bags 9th Win Of Season

CLEVELAND (AP) — Roger Maris hit a home run with a man on base in the sixth inning to give the Kansas City Athletics a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians before a crowd of only 1,667 at Municipal Stadium Thursday.

Ralph Terry, the A's 22-year-old right-hander, gave up nine scattered hits in winning his ninth victory against 11 defeats. The loss was charged to Cal McLish, the Indians' leading pitcher. It was his seventh defeat in 21 decisions.

Neither team had been able to get a man past second base until Maris hit his 24th homer of the season into the right field stands. Bill Tuttle, who had singled, scored ahead of him.

The Indians scored in the eighth. Vic Power tripled and scored when Minnie Minoso singled.

Leslie Combs Pays Near Record Sum For Gallant Man

NEW YORK (AP)—Leslie Combs II of Lexington, Ky., who headed a syndicate that bought Nashua for a world record price of $1,251,200 in 1955, paid $1,000,000 Thursday for a three-quarter interest in Gallant Man. It was the second-largest price ever paid for a thoroughbred.

The 4-year-old Gallant Man, owned by Ralph Lowe of Midland, Tex., is one of the top contenders for 1958 horse of the year honors.

In the announcement at Belmont Park, where the colt is stabled, Lowe said he would retain a one quarter interest and that Gallant Man would continue to race in his silks. His next start is the $25,000-added Sysonby Handicap at one mile Saturday at Belmont.

QUEEN CITY BREWING CO

By STEVE SNIDER

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—U. S. junior champ Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, the only American who has tested a Russian on a tennis court, said Wednesday, "the one I played was darned good."

"He was nervous and you could see the pressure on him was real heavy," said the rangy high school senior from St. Louis. "But he had the soundest forehand I've ever seen and had the makings of a very fine player."

That's an American teenager—Buchholz is 17 — appraising a Russian, venturing outside the Iron Curtain for the very first time at the identical age of 17.

"We played in the junior final at Beckenham in England," said Buchholz, son of a St. Louis pro and better known as "Butch." "I won 6-0, 7-5. That second set was just as tough as you'd expect from the score."

His Russian foe — "he's a nice guy" — was Andrei Potannin, one of two young players sent to England this season by the Soviet Tennis Association. "Butch" went on his own but with the unofficial blessing of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association which officially regards him as the best young prospect "at least since Ham Richardson was that age."

Considered Top Prospect

More enthusiastic critics regard young Buchholz as a lead pipe cinch to wind up at the top of the heap in the near future.

"Andrei's serve could be better," said Buchholz. "And his backhand wasn't exceptionally strong except on return of service. But you couldn't find any real basic faults with his game. He had been coached in the proper way to hit the ball and there was nothing phony about his form."

As for "Butch," himself, the future looks bright. Since his dad has been a pro for years with four clubs under his wing in St. Louis, Butch and his younger brother, Cliff, have been playing almost since they were big enough to walk.

"Dad helped me the most," said Buchholz. "But Bill Talbert has been a great help since I came East with the Junior Davis Cup team. I can't say enough about Bill."

Whips Cranston

In his first match in the nationals, Butch knocked over John Cranston, a Californian with a victory this season over Wimbledon champ Ashley Cooper. He finally was beaten in the third round by the more experienced Ulf Schmidt of Sweden in four sets after blowing numerous opportunities to win the 1917 first set.

"Give me a big serve and I'll be all right," said Butch later in the locker room, "Anybody got a serve for sale?"

"I'll sell you mine cheap," said light-hitting Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif.

"Even yours," said Butch with a grin, "is better'n mine."

The big point is, Buchholz knows his weakness. And at 17, there's plenty of time to make repairs. He's not only the "best since Richardson" but in our book much the best American teenager since Pancho Gonzales blazed down the pike just a decade ago.

Jones Is First N. L. 200-Strikeout Hurler In 17 Years

Card Pitcher Whiffs 8 Cubs For 201 Total

Betters St. Louis Mark Set By Dean In 4-2 Triumph

CHICAGO (AP) — Sam (Toothpick) Jones broke Dizzy Dean's St. Louis Cardinal season strikeout record and became the National League's first 200-strikeout hurler in 17 years as he fanned eight Chicago Cubs in a 4-2 triumph Thursday.

This success gave Jones a total of 201 strikeouts in 221 innings in 30 games as Sam became the first senior circuit pitcher to fan as many as 200 since Cincinnati's Johnny Vandermeer turned the trick with 202 in 1941.

Jones, a former Cub who pitched a no-hitter in Wrigley Field against Pittsburgh May 12, 1955, fanned Lee Walls for his No. 200 for the second out of the eighth inning. Then he made it 201 by fanning Jimmy Bolger, a pinch batter, to end the game.

Sam's success also bettered the Cardinal club mark of 199 set by Jerome "Dizzy" Dean in 1933.

Jones further celebrated his gala day by getting two singles as the Cardinals swept the two-game series to take a 13-7 season edge over the Cubs.

White Sox Buy John Callison

Chicago Recalls Thirteen Players

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox Thursday recalled 13 players and bought the contract of 19-year-old slugger John Callison of the Indianapolis Indians.

Only four of the players will report to the Sox this season, the others coming up in the spring.

Callison leads the American Assn. with 28 homers. He will report next Tuesday and catcher John Romano, second to the southpaw belter with 25 homers, will join the White Sox Wednesday.

Pitcher Don Rudolph of Indianapolis, who has an 11-11 record, will report Tuesday.

Catcher Chuck Lindstrom and pitcher Stover McIlwain, on option to Davenport, Iowa, will join the club at the close of the Three-I League playoffs about Sept. 12.

Reporting next spring will be pitchers Don Keegan, Paul LaPalme, Bill Dufour, Jim Derrington and Hal Trosky Jr., outfielders Norman Cash and Ted Beard and infielder Don Prohovich.

Lew Burdette Is Named NL Player Of The Month

Milwaukee Twirler Racked Up Seven Wins In August

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves, who turned in a remarkable total of seven pitching victories last month, Thursday was named the National League's "Player of the Month" for August.

Burdette's August performance was brilliant when it is considered that if that month's pace were projected throughout a season, his total would approximate 40 victories.

This marked the second straight month that a Milwaukee pitcher was voted the player-of-the-month honor by the panel of 40 baseball writers and radio-TV broadcasters who follow National League clubs regularly. Joey Jay won the July award.

Burdette's closest competition came from Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cubs' slugging shortstop, and Hank Aaron of the Braves. Burdette received 19 votes, Banks 10½ and Aaron 7. Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals attracted 2½ votes and Carl Furillo of the Los Angeles Dodgers one.

By an odd coincidence, Banks finished second to Jay in the July voting by the exact same margin of 19 votes to 10½.

Burdette, the 1957 World Series hero who got off to a slow start this season, boosted his 1958 record to 16-9 with his spectacular August performance. During the month, he won seven games and lost only one in 71 innings, compiled a 1.90 earned run average, struck out 37 batters and walked only 16. He finished seven of his eight starts, being lifted with two out in the ninth inning of his complete effort.

The 31-year-old righthander beat Milwaukee's two closest pursuers, the San Francisco Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates, twice each during August.

Banks had to be satisfied with runner-up honors for the second month in a row despite a home-run-hitting spree that at one stage brought him to within two of Babe Ruth's record 1927 pace. The Cubs shortstop hit 13 homers in August, drove in 27 runs and batted .319.

Aaron hit at a .414 clip for 34 games, with five homers and 24 runs-batted-in.

Previous winners of the award were Stan Musial of the Cards and Willie Mays of the Giants, who shared the May honors; Frank Thomas of the Pirates in June, and Jay in July.

Tigers Hand Chicago Sox 11-4 Beating

Collect 16 Blows, Bunning Is Victor

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers Thursday hopped on six Chicago White Sox pitchers for an 11-4 victory that put the Sox within nine games of elimination in the American League pennant race.

Any combination of nine Chicago losses or New York Yankee triumphs would give the Yanks the title again. Chicago fell 12½ games behind the idle Yankees Thursday.

Jim Bunning, aided by the Tigers' 16-hit attack, picked up only his second win since pitching the majors' only no-hitter seven weeks ago. Bunning retired the first 12 men in order before Sherman Lollar singled in the fifth.

Detroit scored four runs in the first, two on Gail Harris' 16th homer, and had a 5-0 lead by the time Chicago pushed over a pair of runs in the fifth.

The Tigers wound up with two runs in the sixth and four more in the seventh with Red Wilson's double, the big blow in the seventh.

Chicago committed five errors, three of them by Lollar, but only two of the Tiger runs were unearned. The American League record of errors by a catcher in a nine inning game is four.

Hagan And Pettit Signed By Hawks

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Bob Pettit and Cliff Hagan, who provided most of the scoring punch which brought a National Basketball Assn. Championship to St. Louis last year, Thursday signed St. Louis Hawks contracts for the coming season.

The addition of Pettit and Hagan completed the pre-season roster of 15 players who will report to coach Andy Phillip when training starts later this month. Nine of the men signed are returning from last season's team and three others—sophomore Al Ferrari and rookies Julius McCoy and Tom Hart—who are returning servicemen.

Frank Selvy returns from Minneapolis with whom he finished last season while Dave Gambee and Hub Reed are the club's first two draft choices.

Pettit will be playing his fifth season and Hagan starting his third. Last year they combined to average 44.5 points a game. Pettit had a 24.6 mark and Hagan, 19.9.

Rain Stops Rec League Playoff

Rain washed out the first game of the best-of-five final playoff series in the Men's Rec Softball League yesterday at Naval Reserve Field with Local 26 leading the Western Maryland Railway by the score of 6-0 with two out in the fifth inning.

Frank "Pickles" Doolan had a no-hitter going for the Rubber Workers when Jupe Pluvius put in his appearance.

Harry Widdows accounted for five of Local 26's tallies with a two-run homer and a three-run double.

The series is expected to be resumed next week.

Hot Stove League Games Rained Out, Teams Meet Today

Rain knocked out both Hot Stove Baseball League playoff games last night and play will resume today at Penn Avenue Field, according to George Flynn, president of the circuit.

The Kiwanis Club and Cumberland Optimists were locked in a scoreless tie in the opener of last night's scheduled twin bill when rain stopped the game.

Today the Kiwanis Club and Optimists tangle at 6 p.m., and the Elks and Lions clash at 8 p.m.

The Optimists and Lions bagged the opening games of the best-of-three series.

Flynn said that it may be necessary to play games on Saturday and Sunday to keep the series from dragging out too long. The dates for future games will be set today.

Aussie Aces Beat Seixas And Olmedo

Cooper And Fraser Reach Semi-Finals

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—A pair of tennis terrors from down under, Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser, swept into the semi-finals of the U.S. national championships Thursday past aging Vic Seixas and Peru's plucky Alex Olmedo.

First Cooper, Australia's 22-year-old Wimbledon champion, cut short the dramatic comeback of the 35-year-old Seixas, veteran of a half-dozen Davis Cup wars, 9-7, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

Fraser Tops Olmedo

Then Fraser, a lefthander given to sporadic bursts of brilliance, won a five-set struggle from Olmedo, the Inca Indian, 3-6, 6-1, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3.

Olmedo, in losing, enhanced rather than harmed his chances of becoming the first foreigner in history to play on the U. S. Davis Cup team.

He is certain to be selected for the trip to Australia although the American selection committee has been haggling for days on whether such a move would be accepted.

Olmedo's Davis Cup position has become an international issue.

He is a Peruvian and plans to keep his citizenship there. But he learned his tennis in southern California, at the elbow of U.S. Cup Captain Perry Jones. And, because Peru has no team and Alex has lived in this country three years, he is eligible.

Some selectors fear his use by a country of 170 million would be misunderstood by other nations. But Olmedo says it would be an honor to play. It's a cinch he will.

Aussies To Clash

Thursday's victors, Cooper and Fraser, will meet in the semi-finals Saturday. The other semi-finalists will be determined Friday when defending champion Mal Anderson plays Dick Savitt of East Orange, N. J., and Sweden's Ulf Schmidt squares off against Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Savitt and Flam are not regarded as American cup prospects because of business commitments.

Two unseeded "dark horses" who teamed a week ago to win the national doubles championship —Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., and Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., gained the semifinals in the women's division. They clash Saturday.

Miss Arth, a 23-year-old school teacher, won over second-seeded Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, 6-3, 6-2. Miss Hard, a bouncy blonde student at Pomona College, trounced Sally Moore of Bakersfield, Calif., 18-year-old Wimbledon junior champion, 6-4, 6-3.

Althea Plays Truman

Defending champion Althea Gibson will play Britain's Christine Truman Friday and Mrs. Beverly Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., will face Brazil's Maria Ester Bueno for the other women's semifinal berths Friday.

Roof Falls In On Los Angeles, Giants Win, 13-3

San Francisco Cops Season Series, 16-6

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's no roof on the Coliseum but one fell in on the Dodgers in the first inning Thursday. The San Francisco Giants scored eight runs in the inning and clobbered Los Angeles, 13-3, in the final game of the season between the two clubs.

The Giants' victory gave them the season series, 16 games to 6.

Right-hander Stu Miller confounded the Dodgers for the second straight time with his exasperatingly slow delivery and picked up his fifth victory. He has lost seven.

Miller, who beat the Dodgers in a 14-2 runaway last Sunday, allowed five hits, walked three and struck out three.

Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays slammed home runs for the Giants, both with the bases empty. Each team committed three errors.

The Giants took their commanding first-inning lead on six hits, two errors, two walks and a wild pitch. Ed Bressoud drove in two of the runs and Ray Jablonski, Bob Schmidt, Felipe Alou and Jim Davenport knocked in one each. Gino Cimoli and Gil Hodges committed the errors. Johnny Klippstein was responsible for the wild pitch.

Johnny Podres, who lasted only 1-3 of an inning, suffered his 12th loss. He has won 12

Jones Is First N. L. 200-Strikeout Hurler In 17 Years

Card Pitcher Whiffs 8 Cubs For 201 Total

Betters St. Louis Mark Set By Dean In 4-2 Triumph

CHICAGO (AP) — Sam (Toothpick) Jones broke Dizzy Dean's St. Louis Cardinal season strikeout record and became the National League's first 200-strikeout hurler in 17 years as he fanned eight Chicago Cubs in a 4-2 triumph Thursday.

This success gave Jones a total of 201 strikeouts in 221 innings in 30 games as Sam became the first senior circuit pitcher to fan as many as 200 since Cincinnati's Johnny Vandermeer turned the trick with 202 in 1941.

Jones, a former Cub who pitched a no-hitter in Wrigley Field against Pittsburgh May 12, 1955, fanned Lee Walls for his No. 200 for the second out of the eighth inning. Then he made it 201 by fanning Jimmy Bolger, a pinch batter, to end the game.

Sam's success also bettered the Cardinal club mark of 199 set by Jerome "Dizzy" Dean in 1933.

Jones further celebrated his gala day by getting two singles as the Cardinals swept the two-game series to take a 13-7 season edge over the Cubs.

White Sox Buy John Callison

Chicago Recalls Thirteen Players

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox Thursday recalled 13 players and bought the contract of 19-year-old slugger John Callison of the Indianapolis Indians.

Only four of the players will report to the Sox this season, the others coming up in the spring.

Callison leads the American Assn. with 28 homers. He will report next Tuesday and catcher John Romano, second to the southpaw belter with 25 homers, will join the White Sox Wednesday.

Pitcher Don Rudolph of Indianapolis, who has an 11-11 record, will report Tuesday.

Catcher Chuck Lindstrom and pitcher Stover McIlwain, on option to Davenport, Iowa, will join the club at the close of the Three-I League playoffs about Sept. 12.

Reporting next spring will be pitchers Don Keegan, Paul LaPalme, Bill Dufour, Jim Derrington and Hal Trosky Jr., outfielders Norman Cash and Ted Beard and infielder Don Prohovich.

Lew Burdette Is Named NL Player Of The Month

Milwaukee Twirler Racked Up Seven Wins In August

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves, who turned in a remarkable total of seven pitching victories last month, Thursday was named the National League's "Player of the Month" for August.

Burdette's August performance was brilliant when it is considered that if that month's pace were projected throughout a season, his total would approximate 40 victories.

This marked the second straight month that a Milwaukee pitcher was voted the player-of-the-month honor by the panel of 40 baseball writers and radio-TV broadcasters who follow National League clubs regularly. Joey Jay won the July award.

Burdette's closest competition came from Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cubs' slugging shortstop, and Hank Aaron of the Braves. Burdette received 19 votes, Banks 10½ and Aaron 7. Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals attracted 2½ votes and Carl Furillo of the Los Angeles Dodgers one.

By an odd coincidence, Banks finished second to Jay in the July voting by the exact same margin of 19 votes to 10½.

Burdette, the 1957 World Series hero who got off to a slow start this season, boosted his 1958 record to 16-9 with his spectacular August performance. During the month, he won seven games and lost only one in 71 innings, compiled a 1.90 earned run average, struck out 37 batters and walked only 16. He finished seven of his eight starts, being lifted with two out in the ninth inning of his complete effort.

The 31-year-old righthander beat Milwaukee's two closest pursuers, the San Francisco Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates, twice each during August.

Banks had to be satisfied with runner-up honors for the second month in a row despite a home-run-hitting spree that at one stage brought him to within two of Babe Ruth's record 1927 pace. The Cubs shortstop hit 13 homers in August, drove in 27 runs and batted .319.

Aaron hit at a .414 clip for 34 games, with five homers and 24 runs-batted-in.

Previous winners of the award were Stan Musial of the Cards and Willie Mays of the Giants, who shared the May honors; Frank Thomas of the Pirates in June, and Jay in July.

Dallas Open Starts Today

Louise Suggs, the sweet swinger from Carrollton, Ga., is No. 1 at this time, having grabbed off $11,279.70, but Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., is a close second with $10,773.20, and Fay Crocker and Marlene Bauer Hagge both have won better than $10,000.

There will be a field of more than 40 professionals and amateurs, the latter contingent including Polly Riley of Fort Worth, the veteran Curtis Cupper, and Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., the Lamar Tech co-ed.

Tigers Hand Chicago Sox 11-4 Beating

Collect 16 Blows, Bunning Is Victor

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers Thursday hopped on six Chicago White Sox pitchers for an 11-4 victory that put the Sox within nine games of elimination in the American League pennant race.

Any combination of nine Chicago losses or New York Yankee triumphs would give the Yanks the title again. Chicago fell 12½ games behind the idle Yankees Thursday.

Jim Bunning, aided by the Tigers' 16-hit attack, picked up only his second win since pitching the majors' only no-hitter seven weeks ago. Bunning retired the first 12 men in order before Sherman Lollar singled in the fifth.

Detroit scored four runs in the first, two on Gail Harris' 16th homer, and had a 5-0 lead by the time Chicago pushed over a pair of runs in the fifth.

The Tigers wound up with two runs in the sixth and four more in the seventh with Red Wilson's double, the big blow in the seventh.

Chicago committed five errors, three of them by Lollar, but only two of the Tiger runs were unearned. The American League record of errors by a catcher in a nine inning game is four.

Hagan And Pettit Signed By Hawks

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Bob Pettit and Cliff Hagan, who provided most of the scoring punch which brought a National Basketball Assn. Championship to St. Louis last year, Thursday signed St. Louis Hawks contracts for the coming season.

The addition of Pettit and Hagan completed the pre-season roster of 15 players who will report to coach Andy Phillip when training starts later this month. Nine of the men signed are returning from last season's team and three others—sophomore Al Ferrari and rookies Julius McCoy and Tom Hart—who are returning servicemen.

Frank Selvy returns from Minneapolis with whom he finished last season while Dave Gambee and Hub Reed are the club's first two draft choices.

Pettit will be playing his fifth season and Hagan starting his third. Last year they combined to average 44.5 points a game. Pettit had a 24.6 mark and Hagan, 19.9.

Rain Stops Rec League Playoff

Rain washed out the first game of the best-of-five final playoff series in the Men's Rec Softball League yesterday at Naval Reserve Field with Local 26 leading the Western Maryland Railway by the score of 6-0 with two out in the fifth inning.

Frank "Pickles" Doolan had a no-hitter going for the Rubber Workers when Jupe Pluvius put in his appearance.

Harry Widdows accounted for five of Local 26's tallies with a two-run homer and a three-run double.

The series is expected to be resumed next week.

Hot Stove League Games Rained Out, Teams Meet Today

Rain knocked out both Hot Stove Baseball League playoff games last night and play will resume today at Penn Avenue Field, according to George Flynn, president of the circuit.

The Kiwanis Club and Cumberland Optimists were locked in a scoreless tie in the opener of last night's scheduled twin bill when rain stopped the game.

Today the Kiwanis Club and Optimists tangle at 6 p.m., and the Elks and Lions clash at 8 p.m.

The Optimists and Lions bagged the opening games of the best-of-three series.

Flynn said that it may be necessary to play games on Saturday and Sunday to keep the series from dragging out too long. The dates for future games will be set today.

Aussie Aces Beat Seixas And Olmedo

Cooper And Fraser Reach Semi-Finals

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—A pair of tennis terrors from down under, Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser, swept into the semi-finals of the U.S. national championships Thursday past aging Vic Seixas and Peru's plucky Alex Olmedo.

First Cooper, Australia's 22-year-old Wimbledon champion, cut short the dramatic comeback of the 35-year-old Seixas, veteran of a half-dozen Davis Cup wars, 9-7, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

Fraser Tops Olmedo

Then Fraser, a lefthander given to sporadic bursts of brilliance, won a five-set struggle from Olmedo, the Inca Indian, 3-6, 6-1, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3.

Olmedo, in losing, enhanced rather than harmed his chances of becoming the first foreigner in history to play on the U. S. Davis Cup team.

He is certain to be selected for the trip to Australia although the American selection committee has been haggling for days on whether such a move would be accepted.

Olmedo's Davis Cup position has become an international issue.

He is a Peruvian and plans to keep his citizenship there. But he learned his tennis in southern California, at the elbow of U.S. Cup Captain Perry Jones. And, because Peru has no team and Alex has lived in this country three years, he is eligible.

Some selectors fear his use by a country of 170 million would be misunderstood by other nations. But Olmedo says it would be an honor to play. It's a cinch he will.

Aussies To Clash

Thursday's victors, Cooper and Fraser, will meet in the semi-finals Saturday. The other semi-finalists will be determined Friday when defending champion Mal Anderson plays Dick Savitt of East Orange, N. J., and Sweden's Ulf Schmidt squares off against Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Savitt and Flam are not regarded as American cup prospects because of business commitments.

Two unseeded "dark horses" who teamed a week ago to win the national doubles championship—Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., and Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., gained the semifinals in the women's division. They clash Saturday.

Miss Arth, a 23-year-old school teacher, won over second-seeded Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, 6-3, 6-2. Miss Hard, a bouncy blonde student at Pomona College, trounced Sally Moore of Bakersfield, Calif., 18-year-old Wimbledon junior champion, 6-4, 6-3.

Althea Plays Truman

Defending champion Althea Gibson will play Britain's Christine Truman Friday and Mrs. Beverly Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., will face Brazil's Maria Ester Bueno for the other women's semifinal berths Friday.

Roof Falls In On Los Angeles, Giants Win, 13-3

San Francisco Cops Season Series, 16-6

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's no roof on the Coliseum but one fell in on the Dodgers in the first inning Thursday. The San Francisco Giants scored eight runs in the inning and clobbered Los Angeles, 13-3, in the final game of the season between the two clubs.

The Giants' victory gave them the season series, 16 games to 6.

Right-hander Stu Miller confounded the Dodgers for the second straight time with his exasperatingly slow delivery and picked up his fifth victory. He has lost seven.

Miller, who beat the Dodgers in a 14-2 runaway last Sunday, allowed five hits, walked three and struck out three.

Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays slammed home runs for the Giants, both with the bases empty. Each team committed three errors.

The Giants took their commanding first-inning lead on six hits, two errors, two walks and a wild pitch. Ed Bressoud drove in two of the runs and Ray Jablonski, Bob Schmidt, Felipe Alou and Jim Davenport knocked in one each. Gino Cimoli and Gil Hodges committed the errors. Johnny Klippstein was responsible for the wild pitch.

Johnny Podres, who lasted only 1-3 of an inning, suffered his 12th loss. He has won 12

Howard Grant Scores With Dance Card

Liberal Lady 2nd At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 4 (AP)—Jockey Howard Grant, on a riding rampage since last Friday, today won the featured Jefferson Purse at Atlantic City Race Course aboard Carolyn K. Stable's Dance Card.

This was the third score of the day for the "Little General" and his 15th win in the last five days.

The race itself was a beauty, developing into a two horse battle between Dance Card and Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Liberal Lady. The latter joined Dance Card at the half mile pole and the two of them drew away from their rivals.

The feature, an all distaff affair, was run at six furlongs and Dance Card whirled the distance in a commendable 1.10 1-5.

The winner paid $5.20, $3.80 and $3.00. Liberal Lady was liberal in her return of $12.00 and $7.40. Salix paid $4.20.

It was exactly one week ago that Dance Card made her seasonal debut here. She led most of that trip but was probably a trifle short. Today she was a dead fit runner.

Young Grant resumed riding last Friday following a 10-day suspension.

His brilliant riding spree has now carried him into third place in the standings with 20 tallies. Twice in the last five days he has ridden both ends of the daily double. He accomplished this feat today with a $103.80 payoff.

Olympia Blend Cops Hawthorne Feature

CHICAGO, Sept. 4 (AP)—Olympia Blend, leading all the way, won the $4,000 Park Forest Purse by half a length before 10,000 at Hawthorne today.

Hoop Ring was second and Billiards third in the seven furlongs grass race clocked in 1:24 2/5.

Olympia Blend paid $6.20 and was ridden by Harrel Bolin.

Virgil Akins Signs Five-Year Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Welterweight Boxing Champion Virgil Akins has signed a new five-year contract with his managers giving the boxer 50 per cent of his earnings.

His two managers, Eddie Yawitz of St. Louis and Bernie Glickman of Chicago, will share 50 per cent, Yawitz said Wednesday night.

There had been rumors of a rift between Akins and his managers since the St. Louis fighter won the title by knocking out Vince Martinez here June 6.

Carmen Basilio

Art Aragon

Basilio Is 3-1 Favorite To Win Over Art Aragon

Middleweights Will Tangle Tonight In Los Angeles Ring

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tough little Carmen Basilio remained the firm choice to whip Art Aragon Friday night but a surprising surge of support for the local Golden Boy cropped up Thursday.

Basilio, former world middleweight and welterweight champion from the little farming town of Chittenango, N. Y., was quoted a 3-1 favorite Thursday and the odds might go to 4-1 when they climb into the ring at Wrigley Field.

The 12-round scrap, with the winner hoping to get a title match with Middleweight Champion Sugar Ray Robinson, will be televised across the land via National Broadcasting Co., with Los Angeles blacked out for a 300-mile radius.

Fight time is 7 p.m. (10 p.m. E.D.T.)

Most observers feel this will be a brawl pleasing for all to watch. Many think that under-dog Aragon, a game and fiercely proud warrior, will force the equally proud Basilio to go all out.

But Aragon, often erratic, may not have the ring equipment to score an upset and even his close admirers hesitate to risk their money on him.

They will weigh-in at 11 a.m. Friday at the Olympic Auditorium. The contract says 155 pounds is the limit. The two figure to scale close to 152.

Aragon, who will be 31 in November, has never been knocked out in 102 fights. Early in his career he was stopped because of cut eyes, and he has been floored numerous times, each time to get up and fight even harder.

Basilio stands 5-feet 7½, is an inch shorter than Aragon, and his 67-inch reach is also an inch less than the Golden Boy's.

Basilio, however, likes to press in close, concentrating on the midsection. This is an area Aragon does not fancy.

Basilio, who was 31 last April, has never been stopped and only once, 'way back, was he decked. He was up in an instant and knocked out his opponent before the round ended.

Basilio absorbed a lot of punishment—and dealt out a lot himself—in losing the middleweight championship to Robinson in Chicago last March.

Belmont Race To Handshake

ELMONT, N. Y., Sept. 4 (AP)—Bohemia Stable's Handshake, responding gamely to pressure by Jockey Eddie Arcaro, won a spine-tingling three-horse photo in the Throggs Neck Purse at Belmont Park today.

Handshake, 4-year-old son of Your Host-Eight Days, won by a nose from Charfran Stable's Dark Tale, who nosed George Lewis' Martins Rullah for the place.

The time for the mile and a sixteenth was a brisk 1:43 1/5.

Arcaro sent Handshake to the lead at the start and the horse never relinquished it. Before Dark Tale surged up in the stretch, Handshake turned back a challenge by Mrs. Henry Obre's Royal Clipper. In the final 50 yards Arcaro rode furiously foot and boot to keep Handshake in front.

Fourth choice in the betting with the crowd of 18,966, Handshake returned mutuels of $9.40, $4.30 and $2.60. Dark Tale paid $4.80 and $2.80 and Martins Rullah was $2.60 to show.

First Stimulation Case Is Reported At Timonium Meet

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The Maryland State Racing Commission reported Thursday its first stimulation case this year.

The commission's chemists said a urinanalysis taken on Bazaar Goya, winner of the fourth race at Timonium Monday, had a drug of the nature of amphetamine in his system.

The stewards suspended Trainer John J. Mooney and referred his case to the commission. Mooney, a former jockey, was aboard Black Gold when he won the 1924 Kentucky Derby.

The stewards ordered the purse of the race redistributed. Maurice S S, the actual runnerup, was awarded the winner's share.

"Tippy" Fuller Dies Supported The LAC

Gay 90's Grid Star 1893 Team Unbeaten

By C. V. BURNS

THE DEATH of Clifton E. Fuller, former city councilman, on Wednesday, brought back memories of the early 1920s when "Tippy," as he was better known to his friends, was one of the staunch supporters of the Liberty Athletic Club baseball team, one of the best drawing cards in the history of sandlot ball in Cumberland.

Mr. Fuller and the late Jack "Bulleye" Driscoll were instrumental in raising funds to keep the team going and acted as goodwill ambassadors of that organization.

Managed by Paul K. Collins, the L.A.C. had its inception in the days of the old Maryland Avenue school. Several of the youngsters who attended that school and played in the elementary school league later played for Collins' teams.

Among the early stars with the L.A.C. were Norman "Zeke" Fuller, son of "Tippy," and Charley Troutman, a pair of right-handed pitchers. Norman now operates an optical shop in Lancaster, Pa.

"Tippy" seldom missed a game played on the Rolling Mill diamond by the L.A.C. One season the Liberty club played 51 games against the outstanding sandlot nines of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania and scored 43 victories.

THE L.A.C. was such a good attraction that its games outdrew the Colts, who were playing their Georges Creek League games at South End Park.

Mr. Fuller's interest in athletics dates back to the Gay Nineties when he played on the University of Maryland (then Maryland Agricultural College) football teams.

That was in the days before we were born and long before the Purple People Eater era.

According to Morris Bealle's fine book, "Kings of American Football — University of Maryland 1890-1952 — Clifton Fuller was quarterback and halfback at M.A.C. in 1892 and halfback in 1893 and 1894.

Football was conducted on a haphazard basis at M.A.C. in 1890 and 1891. In 1892, however, an athletic association was formed at College Park and each of the 80 odd students were assessed $10 as an athletic fee and most of them paid it enthusiastically. Headgears hadn't been thought of then and the boys let their hair grow long for the supposed protection it gave them.

The 1892 team played three games and lost them all to St. John's College 50-0, Johns Hopkins 60-0 and Episcopal High of Alexandria, Va., 16-0.

AUTHOR BEALLE reports that in the Episcopal High game the College Parkers pulled the first of a series of shenanigans which certainly made the Gay 90's gayer at College Park but which one would expect to happen only in Brooklyn.

Pearse "Shorty" Prough, speedy Aggie halfback, ran the wrong way with the ball all of 30 yards, came to his senses, reversed his field, cut over to the sidelines and nearly went all the way. He ended up with a 35-yard net gain and, judging by the accounts of the game, it was the only gain his team made all afternoon.

The 1893 team in which Mr. Fuller played a halfback position, was Maryland's first unbeaten and untied eleven and claimant of the state collegiate grid title. The Aggies beat Eastern High 36-0, Central High 10-0, Baltimore City College 18-0, St. John's College 6-0, Western Maryland College 18-10 and the Orient Athletic Club, 16-6.

Maryland's 1894 team with Fuller at a halfback post won three and lost three. "Tippy" thus played on three M.A.C. teams that won nine games and lost six.

Morris Beall's book discloses there was no football played at Maryland in 1895. It seems that Lieut. Clough Overton, the new commandant of cadets, threw a monkey wrench into the works. He was described as being a "football hater" and he didn't think the sport had a rightful place in the curriculum of a college. He made everyone at the college mad and the team disbanded without playing a game that season.

The name "University of Maryland" was adopted in 1920 when the Maryland Legislature approved the combining of the five professional schools of the university in Baltimore with the College Park institution. The headquarters of the merged setup was College Park. In 1916, the Legislature OK'd the change of the name from Maryland Agricultural College to Maryland State College.

THIS ITEM in Mr. Bealle's book under the year 1928 should be of special interest nowadays:

"In this year Coach Byrd took a drastic step by abolishing the time-honored custom of electing captains by vote of team members.

"The fraternities at College Park had gotten too big for their britches and were turning the football captaincy into a political football — something that did the team no good at all. So the coach adopted a system of appointing a captain for each game, and this system continued uninterrupted for 15 years."

The Coach Byrd referred to is Dr. Harry C. "Curly" Byrd, who has been very active in Maryland politics in recent years.

Liberal Lady 2nd At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 4 (AP)—Jockey Howard Grant, on a riding rampage since last Friday, today won the featured Jefferson Purse at Atlantic City Race Course aboard Carolyn K. Stable's Dance Card.

This was the third score of the day for the "Little General" and his 15th win in the last five days.

The race itself was a beauty, developing into a two horse battle between Dance Card and Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Liberal Lady. The latter joined Dance Card at the half mile pole and the two of them drew away from their rivals.

The feature, an all distaff affair, was run at six furlongs and Dance Card whirled the distance in a commendable 1.10 1-5.

The winner paid $5.20, $3.80 and $3.00. Liberal Lady was liberal in her return of $12.00 and $7.40. Salix paid $4.20.

It was exactly one week ago that Dance Card made her seasonal debut here. She led most of that trip but was probably a trifle short. Today she was a dead fit runner.

Young Grant resumed riding last Friday following a 10-day suspension.

His brilliant riding spree has now carried him into third place in the standings with 20 tallies. Twice in the last five days he has ridden both ends of the daily double. He accomplished this feat today with a $103.80 payoff.

Olympia Blend Cops Hawthorne Feature

CHICAGO, Sept. 4 (AP)—Olympia Blend, leading all the way, won the $4,000 Park Forest Purse by half a length before 10,000 at Hawthorne today.

Hoop Ring was second and Billiards third in the seven furlongs grass race clocked in 1:24 2/5.

Olympia Blend paid $6.20 and was ridden by Harrel Bolin.

Virgil Akins Signs Five-Year Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Welterweight Boxing Champion Virgil Akins has signed a new five-year contract with his managers giving the boxer 50 per cent of his earnings.

His two managers, Eddie Yawitz of St. Louis and Bernie Glickman of Chicago, will share 50 per cent, Yawitz said Wednesday night.

Basilio Is 3-1 Favorite To Win Over Art Aragon

Middleweights Will Tangle Tonight In Los Angeles Ring

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tough little Carmen Basilio remained the firm choice to whip Art Aragon Friday night but a surprising surge of support for the local Golden Boy cropped up Thursday.

Basilio, former world middleweight and welterweight champion from the little farming town of Chittenango, N. Y., was quoted a 3-1 favorite Thursday and the odds might go to 4-1 when they climb into the ring at Wrigley Field.

The 12-round scrap, with the winner hoping to get a title match with Middleweight Champion Sugar Ray Robinson, will be televised across the land via National Broadcasting Co., with Los Angeles blacked out for a 300-mile radius.

Fight time is 7 p.m. (10 p.m. E.D.T.)

Most observers feel this will be a brawl pleasing for all to watch. Many think that under-dog Aragon, a game and fiercely proud warrior, will force the equally proud Basilio to go all out.

But Aragon, often erratic, may not have the ring equipment to score an upset and even his close admirers hesitate to risk their money on him.

They will weigh-in at 11 a.m. Friday at the Olympic Auditorium. The contract says 155 pounds is the limit. The two figure to scale close to 152.

Aragon, who will be 31 in November, has never been knocked out in 102 fights. Early in his career he was stopped because of cut eyes, and he has been floored numerous times, each time to get up and fight even harder.

Basilio stands 5-feet 7½, is an inch shorter than Aragon, and his 67-inch reach is also an inch less than the Golden Boy's.

Basilio, however, likes to press in close, concentrating on the midsection. This is an area Aragon does not fancy.

Basilio, who was 31 last April, has never been stopped and only once, 'way back, was he decked. He was up in an instant and knocked out his opponent before the round ended.

Basilio absorbed a lot of punishment—and dealt out a lot himself—in losing the middleweight championship to Robinson in Chicago last March.

Belmont Race To Handshake

ELMONT, N. Y., Sept. 4 (AP)—Bohemia Stable's Handshake, responding gamely to pressure by Jockey Eddie Arcaro, won a spine-tingling three-horse photo in the Throggs Neck Purse at Belmont Park today.

Handshake, 4-year-old son of Your Host-Eight Days, won by a nose from Charfran Stable's Dark Tale, who nosed George Lewis' Martins Rullah for the place.

The time for the mile and a sixteenth was a brisk 1:43 1/5.

Arcaro sent Handshake to the lead at the start and the horse never relinquished it. Before Dark Tale surged up in the stretch, Handshake turned back a challenge by Mrs. Henry Obre's Royal Clipper. In the final 50 yards Arcaro rode furiously foot and boot to keep Handshake in front.

Fourth choice in the betting with the crowd of 18,966, Handshake returned mutuels of $9.40, $4.30 and $2.60. Dark Tale paid $4.80 and $2.80 and Martins Rullah was $2.60 to show.

First Stimulation Case Is Reported At Timonium Meet

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The Maryland State Racing Commission reported Thursday its first stimulation case this year.

The commission's chemists said a urinanalysis taken on Bazaar Goya, winner of the fourth race at Timonium Monday, had a drug of the nature of amphetamine in his system.

The stewards suspended Trainer John J. Mooney and referred his case to the commission. Mooney, a former jockey, was aboard Black Gold when he won the 1924 Kentucky Derby.

The stewards ordered the purse of the race redistributed. Maurice S S, the actual runnerup, was awarded the winner's share.

"Tippy" Fuller Dies Supported The LAC

Gay 90's Grid Star 1893 Team Unbeaten

By C. V. BURNS

THE DEATH of Clifton E. Fuller, former city councilman, on Wednesday, brought back memories of the early 1920s when "Tippy," as he was better known to his friends, was one of the staunch supporters of the Liberty Athletic Club baseball team, one of the best drawing cards in the history of sandlot ball in Cumberland.

Mr. Fuller and the late Jack "Bulleye" Driscoll were instrumental in raising funds to keep the team going and acted as goodwill ambassadors of that organization.

Managed by Paul K. Collins, the L.A.C. had its inception in the days of the old Maryland Avenue school. Several of the youngsters who attended that school and played in the elementary school league later played for Collins' teams.

Among the early stars with the L.A.C. were Norman "Zeke" Fuller, son of "Tippy," and Charley Troutman, a pair of right-handed pitchers. Norman now operates an optical shop in Lancaster, Pa.

"Tippy" seldom missed a game played on the Rolling Mill diamond by the L.A.C. One season the Liberty club played 51 games against the outstanding sandlot nines of Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania and scored 43 victories.

THE L.A.C. was such a good attraction that its games outdrew the Colts, who were playing their Georges Creek League games at South End Park.

Mr. Fuller's interest in athletics dates back to the Gay Nineties when he played on the University of Maryland (then Maryland Agricultural College) football teams.

That was in the days before we were born and long before the Purple People Eater era.

According to Morris Bealle's fine book, "Kings of American Football — University of Maryland 1890-1952 — Clifton Fuller was quarterback and halfback at M.A.C. in 1892 and halfback in 1893 and 1894.

Football was conducted on a haphazard basis at M.A.C. in 1890 and 1891. In 1892, however, an athletic association was formed at College Park and each of the 80 odd students were assessed $10 as an athletic fee and most of them paid it enthusiastically. Headgears hadn't been thought of then and the boys let their hair grow long for the supposed protection it gave them.

The 1892 team played three games and lost them all to St. John's College 50-0, Johns Hopkins 60-0 and Episcopal High of Alexandria, Va., 16-0.

AUTHOR BEALLE reports that in the Episcopal High game the College Parkers pulled the first of a series of shenanigans which certainly made the Gay 90's gayer at College Park but which one would expect to happen only in Brooklyn.

Pearse "Shorty" Prough, speedy Aggie halfback, ran the wrong way with the ball all of 30 yards, came to his senses, reversed his field, cut over to the sidelines and nearly went all the way. He ended up with a 35-yard net gain and, judging by the accounts of the game, it was the only gain his team made all afternoon.

The 1893* team in which Mr. Fuller played a halfback position, was Maryland's first unbeaten and untied eleven and claimant of the state collegiate grid title. The Aggies beat Eastern High 36-0, Central High 10-0, Baltimore City College 18-0, St. John's College 6-0, Western Maryland College 18-10 and the Orient Athletic Club, 16-6.

Maryland's 1894 team with Fuller at a halfback post won three and lost three. "Tippy" thus played on three M.A.C. teams that won nine games and lost six.

Morris Beall's book discloses there was no football played at Maryland in 1895. It seems that Lieut. Clough Overton, the new commandant of cadets, threw a monkey wrench into the works. He was described as being a "football hater" and he didn't think the sport had a rightful place in the curriculum of a college. He made everyone at the college mad and the team disbanded without playing a game that season.

The name "University of Maryland" was adopted in 1920 when the Maryland Legislature approved the combining of the five professional schools of the university in Baltimore with the College Park institution. The headquarters of the merged setup was College Park. In 1916, the Legislature OK'd the change of the name from Maryland Agricultural College to Maryland State College.

THIS ITEM in Mr. Bealle's book under the year 1928 should be of special interest nowadays:

"In this year Coach Byrd took a drastic step by abolishing the time-honored custom of electing captains by vote of team members.

"The fraternities at College Park had gotten too big for their britches and were turning the football captaincy into a political football — something that did the team no good at all. So the coach adopted a system of appointing a captain for each game, and this system continued uninterrupted for 15 years."

The Coach Byrd referred to is Dr. Harry C. "Curly" Byrd, who has been very active in Maryland politics in recent years.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Hello again! Here I am back after a delightful trip to Hawaii during which I picked up news and views I want to share with you.

Hawaii confidently expects to be our 50th state by June, 1959. Eighty-three-year-old Raymond Coll, who is still active managing editor of the Honolulu Advertiser, told me there is little doubt of statehood for the tropical island. His emphatic statement was verified by the very attractive Lauren Thurston, publisher of the paper. I met Mrs. Jim Farrington (widow of the owner of the Honolulu Star Bulletin) and she agreed with the two other newspaper authorities.

One thing sure, if Hawaii achieves statehood, the most formidable choice for the first senator will be the present Governor William Quinn. The handsome governor is the most popular man on the island, with the Americans, the Hawaiians, the Chinese and the Japanese. He was appointed to his present political post by President Eisenhower. His wife, Nancy is also a great favorite and their six children are Honolulu's pride and joy.

It was at a dinner given for me by Gov. and Mrs. Quinn that I met General White, commanding officer of the Pacific Army Base. Only a few days ago he returned from a secret mission to the Far East. The general (who plays a fine ukulele!) told me that our Johnny Grant had done an outstanding job entertaining at the Army posts.

I also met Father John McDonald at the Quinns. He comes from Kealio Kanai and he has trained 32 Hawaiian, Japanese and Chinese children to sing. His choir is a great commercial success. Much of the movie "South Pacific" was filmed around the area where Father McDonald has built churches. He told me the conduct of the motion picture people was exemplary while they were on the island.

The islands are very movie minded and television has not yet become important entertainment. Movies and radio are the reigning mediums. I gave several interviews via radio (even though I'd said "I'd had it")!—also to the daily newspapers.

We spent a wonderful and rewarding day with the Ed Pauleys on their island kingdom, Cocoanut Island.They are located very close to a Marine base and the pilots salute them as they fly over the Pauley estate. Public-spirited Ed has established a laboratory where UCLA scientists experiment with fish, both for polio and atomic energy. I saw with my own eyes what great work is being done for polio and rehabilitation.

Cocktails with Doris Duke was something to remember. Her home with its antique treasures sits high on a cliff facing the Pacific and brought back nostalgic memories of San Simeon where I so often visited the late William Randolph Hearst.

Dr. Ruth Elwell and Lloyd Pantages were Doris' houseguests and it was Lloyd who insisted that I remove my shoes as I walked through the treasure-laden rooms. This I was happy to do — my feet were sunburned !

Another charming hostess was Mrs. Lester McCoy, close friend of Princess Conchita Pignatelli. Because of their friendship I was guest of honor at a luncheon she gave and was seated next to former Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, a staunch advocate of statehood for Hawaii. Another guest, Polly Guggenheim, wife of Colonel Robert Guggenheim, came to the boat to see us off, and I'm told she is one of the most popular hostesses in Washington, D.C.

Arthur Cameron, who had his three children with him, was the host at Don, the Beachcomber's Luau. Among his guests were Millicent, Hope and David Hearts, Patti and Jerry Lewis, Jimmy McHugh, Sy Bartlett, and Peaches and Tony Guerrero. The Guerreros are another hospitable couple and so well liked. We all went to the Luau in native costumes.

The next night Sy Bartlett gave a dinner honoring James Michener and his beautiful Oriental wife with Don the Beachcomber doing the cooking. Don has done very well on the island and has put on much weight, proving he is happy in his island home.

When I went to Hawaii, my friends said, "You'll be bored to death travelling by ship. You can fly there in a matter of a few hours. This is to tell them they are 100 per cent wrong.

I sat next to Commodore Gillespie both coming and going on the Lurline and never had I had a more entertaining dinner companion. He is head of all the Matson sailing vessels and has had many fascinating experiences. His one aim in life is to make his passengers happy and believe me he succeeds. He has the able assistance of Chief Purser Higgins.

Two Youths Set Off Burglar Alarm, Shot

RIDGEVILLE, Md. (AP)—Two Virginia youths were shot and wounded by a service station owner late Wednesday night after they tripped a home-made burglar alarm in the establishment.

George M. Tutwiler, 23, of Goshen, Va. was in Frederick Memorial Hospital for treatment of .20 gauge shotgun wounds in both legs.

William E. Tyree, 19, also of Goshen, is being held by State Police at Randallstown.

Lawrence W. Cope, owner of the station on U.S. 40, told police he had rigged up the alarm from the station to his home 300 yards away after recent thefts.

When the alarm went off, he had his wife call police and he went to the station.

He said he ordered the two men out, but they ignored his command to halt and continued walking to a car in which two others were waiting.

Cope said he fired when they were far enough away to escape serious injury from the shotgun blast. The car was found abandoned later.

Television and Radio

Mr. Randall Departs

Tony Randall, one of the three faces of Arthur Godfrey while Godfrey vacations, has departed, darn it, after two weeks of irreverent fun, much of it at the expense of the sponsors. My attention was called to Randall by two experts in the same line of work — Garry Moore who said he enjoyed Randall's programs so much "it almost made me want to get back into daytime television" and Peter Lind Hayes who said he almost fell out of bed laughing at him. That's high praise indeed.

I caught the act only once, on the last day. I must say it was an oasis of fun and frolic imbedded, as it was, between "Play Your Hunch" and "Top Dollar." ("On Play Your Hunch" four adults were gravely concerned over trying to guess which of three middle-aged women held a phoney as opposed to a real broom in her hands. God preserve us.) Randall did his own commercials on the Godfrey show with such light-hearted gaiety that the Armour Company people forbade him to talk about their products any more.

"I told the truth about creamed chip beef on toast," he says defiantly. He also spoke at some length about his wartime experiences with Spam and Spam happens to be a product of Armour's rival, Hormel.

On his last show, Friday, Randall did a parody commercial for "Veemferm—It gives you a firm veem."

"Four out of five doctors will tell you. . . It's that fifth doctor, you've got to watch. He says don't take it under any circumstances." There was quite a lot more of it all in that vein, so you can imagine the nervousness of sponsors at having Mr. Randall on the premises.

Commercials occupied the attention of others besides Randall on the show. The Honeydreamers, a vocal group, did a marvellous number which consisted of bits and pieces of all the singing commercials they have ever done — and they seem to have sung them all. Gads, the free advertising that was scattered all over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Randall, a boyish comedian, has a nervous staccato delivery and a voice that sounds quite a lot like Jack Paar's, of all things. So successful has his two-week stand been that all three networks, CBS, NBC, and ABC, have queried him on whether he'd like his own permanent daytime show.

"Well — would you?" I asked.

"No," he said, in a word. "I think it'd be awfully hard work to try to be funny every day. Frankly, I'd like to do television quite often and I will. But every day — no. I'm off to the Coast pretty soon to fulfill some movie commitments. I'm very much in love with my stage career. That's really what I'm looking forward to doing for a full time job."

Randall is one of three performers who are taking over for the vacationing Godfrey. This is the job once filled by Peter Lind Hayes who has since left to do his own daytime show on ABC, starting October 7. First of the Godfrey replacements was Dennis Day, Jack Benny's former singer. The third one, who is filling in now, is Ferlin Huskey, whom Randall introduced briefly at the end of his show.

"Ah've been watching yew," said Mr. Huskey, twanging like a guitar. "Ah think yew done a good job. Ah hope yew keep your sponsor 'n' everything. Ah'm from Memphis, yew know." This, I felt could get very wearing over the long haul. Still, it was too brief an encounter to form an opinion on Mr. Huskey who is being watched narrowly by all the CBS brass. Huskey is suspected of having the grass roots appeal that all earnest young daytime sponsors are looking for.

The Godfrey show has taken an awful rating licking from the bingo games and I devoutly hope CBS keeps it going. It's virtually the only daytime show that makes a pretence at entertainment any more. Daytime air once was full of solid comedy and excellent dramatic fare. Now it's foundering in soap opera and money games to the point where I find it impossible to watch.

Britain Reinforcing Hong Kong Garrison

LONDON (UPI) — Britain announced Wednesday it was reinforcing the Hong Kong garrison with a battalion of troops. The move was interpreted by diplomatic observers as a precautionary measure against Communist China's threatening strategy in the Far East.

The announcement said the battalion of approximately 600 men was being sent from Singapore to the British Crown colony temporarily to give it "a change of scene."

Although officials played down the shift as a routine move, the announcement caused speculation that growing uneasiness over tension in the area was the chief factor behind the British decision.

Forks with which to eat food probably did not become known in Great Britain until the 17th century.

Soil Tests Show Need For Potash, Phosphates, Lime

A summary of soil tests made in Allegany County from 112 samples submitted to the University of Maryland reveal that there is a big need for more lime, phosphates and potash, according to Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent.

Steger said the tests show the soil is too acid and needs more liming and fertilizer. Most of the tests were made from samples submitted by the more progressive farmers in the county, Steger said, and the results will probably cause them to remedy the situation.

Circle To Be Entertained

Mrs. Walter C. Capper will entertain members of Circle 1 of Centre Street Methodist Church at a luncheon today at 12:30 at her home, Washington Street. Mrs. G. Frank Malin and Mrs. Clarence Shutter will assist.

Miss Mabel Piper will outline plans for the season. Miss Grace Steiner is to introduce the spiritual life study, "Isaiah Speaks."

Committees Are Named

A club Achievement Day committee and Nominating committee were appointed at the meeting of the Bedford Road Homemakers Club, Tuesday in Zion Methodist Church. Mrs. LaMar Wentling was named chairman for the achievement program, October 7, assisted by Mrs. Robert Streett, Mrs. Winnie Brode and Mrs. Thomas Wotring. Mrs. W. O. Wolford, Mrs. William Knisely and Mrs. Thomas Boyle comprise the Nominating committee. A vice president and secretary are to be elected in November.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Fred Roberts, who led the group in prayer and the pledge to the flag. She announced the County Council meeting for 1 o'clock, September 9, at the library. Mrs. Paul Gilford directed the singing of "This Is My Father's World," and gave its history. She also reported on the fair and demonstrated making flowers for Christmas decorations. Mrs. Knisely reported on her sewing and crocheting classes.

Games featured the recreational period and Mrs. Boyle won the award.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Hello again! Here I am back after a delightful trip to Hawaii during which I picked up news and views I want to share with you.

Hawaii confidently expects to be our 50th state by June, 1959. Eighty-three-year-old Raymond Coll, who is still active managing editor of the Honolulu Advertiser, told me there is little doubt of statehood for the tropical island. His emphatic statement was verified by the very attractive Lauren Thurston, publisher of the paper. I met Mrs. Jim Farrington (widow of the owner of the Honolulu Star Bulletin) and she agreed with the two other newspaper authorities.

One thing sure, if Hawaii achieves statehood, the most formidable choice for the first senator will be the present Governor William Quinn. The handsome governor is the most popular man on the island, with the Americans, the Hawaiians, the Chinese and the Japanese. He was appointed to his present political post by President Eisenhower. His wife, Nancy is also a great favorite and their six children are Honolulu's pride and joy.

It was at a dinner given for me by Gov. and Mrs. Quinn that I met General White, commanding officer of the Pacific Army Base. Only a few days ago he returned from a secret mission to the Far East. The general (who plays a fine ukulele!) told me that our Johnny Grant had done an outstanding job entertaining at the Army posts.

I also met Father John McDonald at the Quinns. He comes from Kealio Kanai and he has trained 32 Hawaiian, Japanese and Chinese children to sing. His choir is a great commercial success. Much of the movie "South Pacific" was filmed around the area where Father McDonald has built churches. He told me the conduct of the motion picture people was exemplary while they were on the island.

The islands are very movie minded and television has not yet become important entertainment. Movies and radio are the reigning mediums. I gave several interviews via radio (even though I'd said "I'd had it")!—also to the daily newspapers.

We spent a wonderful and rewarding day with the Ed Pauleys on their island kingdom, Cocoanut Island. They are located very close to a Marine base and the pilots salute them as they fly over the Pauley estate. Public-spirited Ed has established a laboratory where UCLA scientists experiment with fish, both for polio and atomic energy. I saw with my own eyes what great work is being done for polio and rehabilitation.

Cocktails with Doris Duke was something to remember. Her home with its antique treasures sits high on a cliff facing the Pacific and brought back nostalgic memories of San Simeon where I so often visited the late William Randolph Hearst.

Dr. Ruth Elwell and Lloyd Pantages were Doris' houseguests and it was Lloyd who insisted that I remove my shoes as I walked through the treasure-laden rooms. This I was happy to do — my feet were sunburned!

Another charming hostess was Mrs. Lester McCoy, close friend of Princess Conchita Pignatelli. Because of their friendship I was guest of honor at a luncheon she gave and was seated next to former Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, a staunch advocate of statehood for Hawaii. Another guest, Polly Guggenheim, wife of Colonel Robert Guggenheim, came to the boat to see us off, and I'm told she is one of the most popular hostesses in Washington, D.C.

Arthur Cameron, who had his three children with him, was the host at Don, the Beachcomber's Luau. Among his guests were Millicent, Hope and David Hearts, Patti and Jerry Lewis, Jimmy McHugh, Sy Bartlett, and Peaches and Tony Guerrero. The Guerreros are another hospitable couple and so well liked. We all went to the Luau in native costumes.

The next night Sy Bartlett gave a dinner honoring James Michener and his beautiful Oriental wife with Don the Beachcomber doing the cooking. Don has done very well on the island and has put on much weight, proving he is happy in his island home.

When I went to Hawaii, my friends said, "You'll be bored to death travelling by ship. You can fly there in a matter of a few hours. This is to tell them they are 100 per cent wrong.

I sat next to Commodore Gillespie both coming and going on the Lurline and never had I had a more entertaining dinner companion. He is head of all the Matson sailing vessels and has had many fascinating experiences. His one aim in life is to make his passengers happy and believe me he succeeds. He has the able assistance of Chief Purser Higgins.

Two Youths Set Off Burglar Alarm, Shot

RIDGEVILLE, Md. (AP)—Two Virginia youths were shot and wounded by a service station owner late Wednesday night after they tripped a home-made burglar alarm in the establishment.

George M. Tutwiler, 23, of Goshen, Va. was in Frederick Memorial Hospital for treatment of .20 gauge shotgun wounds in both legs.

William E. Tyree, 19, also of Goshen, is being held by State Police at Randallstown.

Lawrence W. Cope, owner of the station on U.S. 40, told police he had rigged up the alarm from the station to his home 300 yards away after recent thefts.

When the alarm went off, he had his wife call police and he went to the station.

He said he ordered the two men out, but they ignored his command to halt and continued walking to a car in which two others were waiting.

Cope said he fired when they were far enough away to escape serious injury from the shotgun blast. The car was found abandoned later.

Mr. Randall Departs

Tony Randall, one of the three faces of Arthur Godfrey while Godfrey vacations, has departed, darn it, after two weeks of irreverent fun, much of it at the expense of the sponsors. My attention was called to Randall by two experts in the same line of work — Garry Moore who said he enjoyed Randall's programs so much "it almost made me want to get back into daytime television" and Peter Lind Hayes who said he almost fell out of bed laughing at him. That's high praise indeed.

I caught the act only once, on the last day. I must say it was an oasis of fun and frolic imbedded, as it was, between "Play Your Hunch" and "Top Dollar." ("On Play Your Hunch" four adults were gravely concerned over trying to guess which of three middle-aged women held a phoney as opposed to a real broom in her hands. God preserve us.) Randall did his own commercials on the Godfrey show with such light-hearted gaiety that the Armour Company people forbade him to talk about their products any more.

"I told the truth about creamed chip beef on toast," he says defiantly. He also spoke at some length about his wartime experiences with Spam and Spam happens to be a product of Armour's rival, Hormel.

On his last show, Friday, Randall did a parody commercial for "Veemferm—It gives you a firm veem."

"Four out of five doctors will tell you. . . It's that fifth doctor, you've got to watch. He says don't take it under any circumstances." There was quite a lot more of it all in that vein, so you can imagine the nervousness of sponsors at having Mr. Randall on the premises.

Commercials occupied the attention of others besides Randall on the show. The Honeydreamers, a vocal group, did a marvellous number which consisted of bits and pieces of all the singing commercials they have ever done — and they seem to have sung them all. Gads, the free advertising that was scattered all over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Randall, a boyish comedian, has a nervous staccato delivery and a voice that sounds quite a lot like Jack Paar's, of all things. So successful has his two-week stand been that all three networks, CBS, NBC, and ABC, have queried him on whether he'd like his own permanent daytime show.

"Well — would you?" I asked.

"No," he said, in a word. "I think it'd be awfully hard work to try to be funny every day. Frankly, I'd like to do television quite often and I will. But every day — no. I'm off to the Coast pretty soon to fulfill some movie commitments. I'm very much in love with my stage career. That's really what I'm looking forward to doing for a full time job."

Randall is one of three performers who are taking over for the vacationing Godfrey. This is the job once filled by Peter Lind Hayes who has since left to do his own daytime show on ABC, starting October 7. First of the Godfrey replacements was Dennis Day, Jack Benny's former singer. The third one, who is filling in now, is Ferlin Huskey, whom Randall introduced briefly at the end of his show.

"Ah've been watching yew," said Mr. Huskey, twanging like a guitar. "Ah think yew done a good job. Ah hope yew keep your sponsor 'n' everytning. Ah'm from Memphis, yew know." This, I felt could get very wearing over the long haul. Still, it was too brief an encounter to form an opinion on Mr. Huskey who is being watched narrowly by all the CBS brass. Huskey is suspected of having the grass roots appeal that all earnest young daytime sponsors are looking for.

The Godfrey show has taken an awful rating licking from the bingo games and I devoutly hope CBS keeps it going. It's virtually the only daytime show that makes a pretence at entertainment any more. Daytime air once was full of solid comedy and excellent dramatic fare. Now it's foundering in soap opera and money games to the point where I find it impossible to watch.

Britain Reinforcing Hong Kong Garrison

LONDON (UPI) — Britain announced Wednesday it was reinforcing the Hong Kong garrison with a battalion of troops. The move was interpreted by diplomatic observers as a precautionary measure against Communist China's threatening strategy in the Far East.

The announcement said the battalion of approximately 600 men was being sent from Singapore to the British Crown colony temporarily to give it "a change of scene."

Although officials played down the shift as a routine move, the announcement caused speculation that growing uneasiness over tension in the area was the chief factor behind the British decision.

Forks with which to eat food probably did not become known in Great Britain until the 17th century.

Soil Tests Show Need For Potash, Phosphates, Lime

A summary of soil tests made in Allegany County from 112 samples submitted to the University of Maryland reveal that there is a big need for more lime, phosphates and potash, according to Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent.

Steger said the tests show the soil is too acid and needs more liming and fertilizer. Most of the tests were made from samples submitted by the more progressive farmers in the county, Steger said, and the results will probably cause them to remedy the situation.

Circle To Be Entertained

Mrs. Walter C. Capper will entertain members of Circle 1 of Centre Street Methodist Church at a luncheon today at 12:30 at her home, Washington Street. Mrs. G. Frank Malin and Mrs. Clarence Shutter will assist.

All members of the Eastern Star and Masonic lodge are invited. Mrs. Regina Koegel is chairman for the social following.

Committees Are Named

A club Achievement Day committee and Nominating committee were appointed at the meeting of the Bedford Road Homemakers Club, Tuesday in Zion Methodist Church. Mrs. LaMar Wentling was named chairman for the achievement program, October 7, assisted by Mrs. Robert Streett, Mrs. Winnie Brode and Mrs. Thomas Wotring. Mrs. W. O. Wolford, Mrs. William Knisely and Mrs. Thomas Boyle comprise the Nominating committee. A vice president and secretary are to be elected in November.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Fred Roberts, who led the group in prayer and the pledge to the flag. She announced the County Council meeting for 1 o'clock, September 9, at the library. Mrs. Paul Gilford directed the singing of "This Is My Father's World," and gave its history. She also reported on the fair and demonstrated making flowers for Christmas decorations. Mrs. Knisely reported on her sewing and crocheting classes.

Games featured the recreational period and Mrs. Boyle won the award.

Social Chart

Piney Plains PTA will meet at 8 Monday evening at the school. A new president will be elected and the school children will present an entertainment.

Hap-O-Happy Club will hold a corn roast at 5:30 today on Grove 2 Constitution Park. Each member is to bring a sandwich and place setting.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of dad and husband, Roy G. Barnhouse, who died two years ago today, Sept. 5th, 1956.
What we would give
To clasp your hand,
Your happy face to see,
To hear your voice,
To see your smile . . .
Just to talk to you
For a little while.
WIFE AND CHILDREN

In loving remembrance of my dear husband, Richard "Bud" Valentine, who passed away 4 years ago, September 3, 1954.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day dear "Bud,"
I do not think of you.

Butler Sees Demo Victory In Maryland

GOP Candidates, Ike Administration Attacked In Speech

Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, told Allegany County Democrats here last night the party is "working together as a team" and is heading for a sweeping victory in November.

Speaking at the Democratic for Victory Dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, attended by some 300 party leaders from Maryland's Sixth District, Mr. Butler said the party is "fighting Republicans — not each other."

Maryland Democrats, he added, have combined good candidates and good party workers to work for a sweeping victory.

Butler devoted much of his talk to what he called the lack of leadership of U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg Republican, who is seeking re-election.

Criticizes Beall

The national chairman said that Allegany, Garrett and part of Washington counties now are excluded from the new interstate highway program, and added:

"Sure, Sen. Beall voted for the interstate highway appropriation but what did he do to see that its benefits are shared by the people of this western area?

"As I bounced along Route 40 today I was amazed that Sen. Beall thinks the present road is good enough for his neighbors.

"Sen. Beall said he would work with other senators to get the rest of Route 40 into the highway system. He told your chamber of commerce here he would do something. But what has he done. Where is the action?"

Beall announced recently that he has received campaign contributions from out-of-state persons. Butler referred to those contributions.

"Sen. Beall has not found the time to fight for the people of Western Maryland on Highway 40," Butler said. "But he has found time to represent wealthy Texans and Californians in the U. S. Senate to whom he is beholden for their generous financial contributions. . .

"The wealthy Texas and California contributors were interested in keeping natural gas from federal regulation; and in the billions of dollars at stake in tidelands oil. And Sen. Beall protected those interests with his votes on these two measures."

After criticizing Beall's stand on various other measures, Butler accused him of resorting to "photo fakery" in his campaign.

"In his television pitch for re-election, Sen. Beall implies that he has the support of religious and labor leaders by using unauthorized photographs which have nothing to do with campaign," Butler said.

"This is the same kind of photo fakery that brought shame and disgrace to those who perpetrated it against Millard Tydings — a shoddy political trick that has long since been discredited by Maryland voters."

Butler said that Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, the Democratic nominee for senator, "doesn't need fake photographs," and added:

Cites Mayor's Record

"He has a record of progress—a record of support for the new deal of President Roosevelt — a record of respected friendship from that great Democratic president who invited D'Alesandro to the White House.

"As mayor of Baltimore for 10 years, Thomas D'Alesandro's record can be seen all over that thriving and teeming city."

Butler also praised Millard Tawes, the Democratic nominee for governor, and said he is needed in Annapolis to "give strength and leadership to the executive office."

Butler said that Maryland's bonded per capita debt now is the fourth highest in the nation, and added:

"If this is not an example of poor administration, then it is an example of something considerably worse."

"Lack of leadership on the national level, after almost six years of a Republican Administration, has dealt our country serious blows both in international and domestic policies," he said.

"Are we committed to defend the islands of Quemoy and Matsu? Nobody knows — including President Eisenhower at Newport and Secretary Dulles en route to find out.

"This is but one of a series of

Candidates See Victory Ahead

Senator Louis L. Goldstein, candidate for State Comptroller, beams as he reads the speech Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, delivered at the Democrats For Victory dinner last night in the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. In the group which met before the dinner are Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert, candidate for re-election; Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, candidate for Senate; Mr. Butler and Mr. Goldstein and Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Allegany State Central Committee. Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, candidate for Governor, had not arrived when the picture was taken. Over 300 Sixth District party leaders attended the rally.

Foreign Students Stop Overnight Here On Tour

A group of 13 students from foreign nations, making a tour of part of the United States under the sponsorship of the Association for World Travel Exchange, stopped overnight at Triple Lakes yesterday.

The students, representing nine different nations, recently completed eight weeks as counselors at various YMCA, church and private camps, and are presently on their way to Chicago.

Hans Smit, a student at Utrecht University, about 40 kilometers from Amsterdam, Holland, is leader of the party which is traveling in two station wagons. They will leave Triple Lakes this morning on the next leg of their journey and they are expected to arrive in Chicago by Saturday.

The tour began in New York the first of the week and the students stayed overnight in Washington, D.C. There one of the students had the misfortune to lose his wallet containing $117 in cash. The search for the wallet held up the party for several hours before they continued west.

After their arrival in Chicago the students, part of more than 300 foreign exchange students who are now in the United States on various tours, will continue to Detroit, then into Canada, to Niagara Falls, to Albany, N.Y., and then back to New York City. Most of the group will return to their own countries before October 3.

The students — there are 10 men and three women—range in ages from 23 to 25. They are traveling across the country on visitor's permits.

Mr. Smit said last night the group is very pleased with the friendliness and hospitality accorded them everywhere in their travels. "It is amazing the way people here help us," he said.

In order to help defray much of the cost of travel the students carry their food and cook their own meals. They were enjoying an old-fashioned "cook-out" shortly after their arrival at the Yatch Bargain Center and motel at Triple Lakes just before dark.

Mr. Smit explained the majority of the students pay their own way to the United States, although his native country, Holland, pays two-thirds of the cost of passage over the ocean. All of them have been in the United States since the latter part of June.

As the students are allowed only $10 per week for pocket money, any salaries they would earn as camp counselors are turned over to the Association for World Travel Exchange in New York to help pay for the various tours conducted by the association.

Two of the students are from Holland, three from Germany, one from Finland, one from Sweden, one from England, one from Australia, one from Jamaica, one from Belgium and two from France. They all attend universities in their various homelands.

Scout Trip Scheduled In October

The 10th annual Tri-Towns Senior Scout Co-Ed trip to the vicinity of Washington, D. C., has been scheduled for October 17-19 under the auspices of the Tri-Towns Senior Scout Council, according to Alton Fortney, Scout leader in charge of the program.

On October 17, the group is scheduled to visit FBI headquarters, the Lincoln Museum, the house where Lincoln died, and Cinerama. The evening meal will be served at Fort Myer, Va.

The following morning, the group will visit and tour Bolling Air Force base. That afternoon Explorer Scouts will be given the opportunity for an airplane flight at the base while Senior Girl Scouts will be allowed to fly from the National Airport. The flights, however, depend upon weather conditions and written permission from the Scout's parent or guardian.

Scouts taking the trip will meet at Westernport Elementary School at 7 a.m. on October 17 and will travel to Camp Rockwood by chartered bus. For traveling within the limits of the District of Columbia, the group will be provided with a police escort.

Reservations for the trip must be made with Alton Fortney, Luke, no later than Tuesday, September 30.

Rosh Hashana Will Commence September 14

New rabbis for both of the local Jewish congregations have scheduled special services for Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, which commences at sunset Sunday, September 14.

Inaugurating the spiritual new year, the holy days are a 10-day span devoted to a review of the ethical level of one's conduct and worship exercises to stimulate nobler living.

In synagogues throughout the world, religious services on September 14 and 15 will be marked by prayers and repentance, musical selections with the same theme and rabbinical sermons urging conduct more in conformity with God's mandates.

The Hebrew term for the new year is Rosh Hashana (beginning of the year). The sacred period, known as the days of penitence, reaches its climax with Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, which begins Tuesday, September 23, and continues throughout the following day.

On Rosh Hashana day and at the conclusion of Yom Kippur, the shofar, or ram's horn, is sounded in the synagogue as a call to conscience. In many Jewish homes the dinner meal on Rosh Hashana Eve includes the eating of a bit of bread dipped in honey as a symbol of hope for a sweet year.

At B'er Chayim Congregation, 107 Union Street, the Reformed Jewish group, services will take place Sunday, September 14, at 8 p.m. and Monday, September 15, at 10 a.m. Rabbi Max Selinger will preach on "Rosh Hashana, The Expectation and the Vision."

At Beth Jacob, the Conservative Jewish congregation on North Centre Street, Rabbi Bertram Cohen announces Rosh Hashana services for 7:30 p.m. Sunday, September 14, Monday, September 15, at 8 a.m. with the sounding of the shofar at 10 a.m.; also at 7:30 p.m. another service, and at 8 a.m. Tuesday, September 16. The shofar again will be sounded at 10 a.m.

The cantor at all of these Rosh Hashana services at Beth Jacob will be Moe Sacks. George Ossip will sound the shofar and Rabbi Cohen will direct the services.

Rabbi Cohen also announced that a Seliches service will be conducted at Beth Jacob at midnight Saturday, September 6.

Doctorate Is Awarded Music Leader

County Supervisor Gets Notification

Frank E. Gamble, of LaVale, supervisor of music education in Allegany County public schools for the past year, has received a Doctor of Education Degree from Teachers College, Columbia University in New York.

He was notified yesterday in a letter from Kenneth H. Beesley, registrar of the university. In congratulating Mr. Gamble, the registrar advised him that "on the recommendation of the Committee on the Degree of Doctor of Education, acting for the faculty of the Office of Doctoral Studies of Teachers College, you have been formally granted the degree."

For the past three years he has been working toward his doctorate. Mr. Gamble, a native of Wayne, Neb., completed high school studies there and received his Bachelor of Fine Arts and Education Degree at Wayne State Teachers College.

He received his Master's Degree from Catholic University and did graduate work at Ohio State University, the University of Southern California and Claremont Graduate School in California.

Mr. Gamble taught at Waynesboro, Va., from 1946 to 1952 and for the next three years he taught instrumental music in Pomona, Calif. Prior to entering the service in World War II, he taught in Nebraska. From 1942 to 1946 he was at the Navy School of Music in Washington, D. C.

He did a year's residence work at Columbia from 1955 to 1956 and taught the following year in Westchester County, N. Y. In August of last year he was appointed to his present position in the county school system.

He is married and the father of four daughters. Mr. Gamble is choir director of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Driver Is Injured When Rig Overturns

A 20-year-old Keyser man was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital yesterday morning with injuries sustained when the tractor-trailer he was operating turned over along New Creek on U.S. Route 220.

Clyde Russell Burkett was admitted for X-rays and observation although his injuries are not serious, attaches said.

The accident occurred on Carnell Curve about seven miles southwest of Keyser. Volunteer firemen of that community received a call at 10:28 a. m. and went to the scene and took the victim to the hospital.

West Virginia State Police are investigating.

Tractor Kills College Youth Near Franklin

Conrad Slips Under Wheel

A 19-year-old college student was killed yesterday afternoon in a tractor accident on his father's farm at Fort Seybert near Franklin, W. Va.

James Conrad died en route to a hospital in Harrisonburg, Va. The accident occurred about 3:15 p. m. (EST). William H. Conrad, father of the victim, was a witness to the fatal accident.

Young Conrad, it was reported, had been driving the tractor and had stopped it to get off and open a gate along a road on the farm.

Apparently he didn't have the vehicle out of gear and when he alighted he slipped under the rear wheel which ran over his chest and mid-section, pinning him to the ground.

His father, who was nearby, jumped on the tractor and drove it off the youth's body and summoned an ambulance and medical aid.

Young Conrad who was graduated from Franklin High School in 1957 had attended Bridgewater (Va.) College last year and planned to enter the sophomore class this fall.

He was a member of the 4-H Club and also a member of the Franklin baseball team. Surviving besides his father are his mother, Mrs. Janet (Harper) Conrad, and two brothers, Steve and Dan Conrad, at home.

The body was taken to the Brown Funeral Home in Franklin.

SRC Unanimous On Need For License Boost

McMullen Suggests Delay On Proposal

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission agreed unanimously Thursday that the cost of auto licenses should be increased. But it didn't set any definite amount.

Previous recommendations have been for hikes of $5 to $7 in the annual registration charge.

The increase is needed to support highway maintenance, and SRC Chairman Robert O. Bonnell said the rise "is inevitable" if the current construction program is to be continued.

May Lose Jobs

The commissioners, although unanimous in favoring an increase, differed to a certain extent on whether it should be made a formal proposal to the 1959 General Assembly.

They are named to serve at the will and pleasure of the governor, and Gov. McKeldin leaves office next January. The three may be out of jobs.

Commissioner John J. McMullen suggested it might be better for the new commissioners to make any recommendation for a fee hike. Bonnell and Commissioner Edgar T. Bennett said it was the present commission's duty to make the proposal.

Boost Postponed

Bonnell, in explaining why an increase is needed, said an estimated $5,733,900 is earmarked for road maintenance during the current fiscal year. But maintenance will cost an estimated 9 or 10 million dollars during the year ended next June 30, the commission said.

So, about four million dollars must be taken from the construction fund to meet the deficit.

The 1955 General Assembly postponed a $5 to $7 increase provided when the original 12 year highway construction program was set up. The 1956 Legislature overrode Gov. McKeldin's veto of a further extension of the postponement. The 1957 Legislature killed outright any increase.

Lightning Hits Power Lines

Yesterday's two brief thundershowers brought only .29 of an inch of rainfall to the Cumberland area, but low flashing lightning caused utility company crews to be on the jump when it hit three different power lines during the day.

Harry G. Grimes, line foreman for Potomac Edison Company, said a bolt hit a utility pole at the entrance to Fairgo, tripping a circuit breaker and cutting off a primary power line momentarily.

The line is one of three which provide power to the Celanese Corporation of America plant at Amcelle. However, service was restored almost instantly, he said, although repair crews will have to replace some badly burned insulators there today.

Lightning, despite the old adage it never strikes twice in the same place, hit a utility pole at the intersection of "O" Avenue and McMullen Highway at Potomac Park about 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

It was not the second time the pole has been struck by a bolt but the third time in about five years. A secondary power line was affected, knocking out one transformer which serviced four of five houses in the area.

Only One TB Case Found In County X-Ray Survey

Results of the 1958 Chest X-Ray Survey in Allegany County show that only one case of tuberculosis was found.

And Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said the case was minimal and still tentative until all tests have been completed.

The survey was held in the Georges Creek Area during May, when 930 readable X-rays were taken.

No pathological conditions were found in 917 of the X-ray pictures for a disease-free rate of 98.6 per cent.

In addition to the one positive TB case, another picture indicated a cardiovascular condition.

Diagnosis was deferred in 11 pictures. These persons have been asked to have large X-rays taken by their physicians or at the Health Department.

A full-size X-ray picture is suggested whenever the miniature pictures taken by the mobile unit suggests the possibility of any chest abnormality.

Dr. van Strien said three cases were found in last year's chest survey, when about 10,000 pictures were taken.

Butler Sees Demo Victory In Maryland

GOP Candidates, Ike Administration Attacked In Speech

Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, told Allegany County Democrats here last night the party is "working together as a team" and is heading for a sweeping victory in November.

Speaking at the Democratic for Victory Dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, attended by some 300 party leaders from Maryland's Sixth District, Mr. Butler said the party is "fighting Republicans — not each other."

Maryland Democrats, he added, have combined good candidates and good party workers to work for a sweeping victory.

Butler devoted much of his talk to what he called the lack of leadership of U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg Republican, who is seeking re-election.

Criticizes Beall

The national chairman said that Allegany, Garrett and part of Washington counties now are excluded from the new interstate highway program, and added:

"Sure, Sen. Beall voted for the interstate highway appropriation but what did he do to see that its benefits are shared by the people of this western area?

"As I bounced along Route 40 today I was amazed that Sen. Beall thinks the present road is good enough for his neighbors.

"Sen. Beall said he would work with other senators to get the rest of Route 40 into the highway system. He told your chamber of commerce here he would do something. But what has he done. Where is the action?"

Beall announced recently that he has received campaign contributions from out-of-state persons. Butler referred to those contributions.

"Sen. Beall has not found the time to fight for the people of Western Maryland on Highway 40," Butler said. "But he has found time to represent wealthy Texans and Californians in the U. S. Senate to whom he is beholden for their generous financial contributions. . .

"The wealthy Texas and California contributors were interested in keeping natural gas from federal regulation; and in the billions of dollars at stake in tidelands oil. And Sen. Beall protected those interests with his votes on these two measures."

After criticizing Beall's stand on various other measures, Butler accused him of resorting to "photo fakery" in his campaign.

"In his television pitch for re-election, Sen. Beall implies that he has the support of religious and labor leaders by using unauthorized photographs which have nothing to do with campaign," Butler said.

"This is the same kind of photo fakery that brought shame and disgrace to those who perpetrated it against Millard Tydings — a shoddy political trick that has long since been discredited by Maryland voters."

Butler said that Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, the Democratic nominee for senator, "doesn't need fake photographs," and added:

Cites Mayor's Record

"He has a record of progress—a record of support for the new deal of President Roosevelt — a record of respected friendship from that great Democratic president who invited D'Alesandro to the White House.

"As mayor of Baltimore for 10 years, Thomas D'Alesandro's record can be seen all over that thriving and teeming city."

Butler also praised Millard Tawes, the Democratic nominee for governor, and said he is needed in Annapolis to "give strength and leadership to the executive office."

Butler said that Maryland's bonded per capita debt now is the fourth highest in the nation, and added:

"If this is not an example of poor administration, then it is an example of something considerably worse."

"Lack of leadership on the national level, after almost six years of a Republican Administration, has dealt our country serious blows both in international and domestic policies," he said.

"Are we committed to defend the islands of Quemoy and Matsu? Nobody knows — including President Eisenhower at Newport and Secretary Dulles en route to find out.

"This is but one of a series of

Candidates See Victory Ahead

Senator Louis L. Goldstein, candidate for State Comptroller, beams as he reads the speech Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, delivered at the Democrats For Victory dinner last night in the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. In the group which met before the dinner are Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert, candidate for re-election; Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, candidate for Senate; Mr. Butler and Mr. Goldstein and Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Allegany State Central Committee. Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, candidate for Governor, had not arrived when the picture was taken. Over 300 Sixth District party leaders attended the rally.

Foreign Students Stop Overnight Here On Tour

A group of 13 students from foreign nations, making a tour of part of the United States under the sponsorship of the Association for World Travel Exchange, stopped overnight at Triple Lakes yesterday.

The students, representing nine different nations, recently completed eight weeks as counselors at various YMCA, church and private camps, and are presently on their way to Chicago.

Hans Smit, a student at Utrecht University, about 40 kilometers from Amsterdam, Holland, is leader of the party which is traveling in two station wagons. They will leave Triple Lakes this morning on the next leg of their journey and they are expected to arrive in Chicago by Saturday.

The tour began in New York the first of the week and the students stayed overnight in Washington, D.C. There one of the students had the misfortune to lose his wallet containing $117 in cash. The search for the wallet held up the party for several hours before they continued west.

After their arrival in Chicago the students, part of more than 300 foreign exchange students who are now in the United States on various tours, will continue to Detroit, then into Canada, to Niagara Falls, to Albany, N.Y., and then back to New York City. The accident occurred on Carnell Curve about seven miles southwest of Keyser. Volunteer firemen of that community received a call at 10:28 a. m. and went to the scene and took the victim to the hospital.

Tractor Kills College Youth Near Franklin

Conrad Slips Under Wheel

A 19-year-old college student was killed yesterday afternoon in a tractor accident on his father's farm at Fort Seybert near Franklin, W. Va.

James Conrad died en route to a hospital in Harrisonburg, Va. The accident occurred about 3:15 p. m. (EST). William H. Conrad, father of the victim, was a witness to the fatal accident.

Young Conrad, it was reported, had been driving the tractor and had stopped it to get off and open a gate along a road on the farm.

Apparently he didn't have the vehicle out of gear and when he alighted he slipped under the rear wheel which ran over his chest and mid-section, pinning him to the ground.

His father, who was nearby, jumped on the tractor and drove it off the youth's body and summoned an ambulance and medical aid.

Young Conrad who was graduated from Franklin High School in 1957 had attended Bridgewater (Va.) College last year and planned to enter the sophomore class this fall.

He was a member of the 4-H Club and also a member of the Franklin baseball team. Surviving besides his father are his mother, Mrs. Janet (Harper) Conrad, and two brothers, Steve and Dan Conrad, at home.

The body was taken to the Brown Funeral Home in Franklin.

SRC Unanimous On Need For License Boost

McMullen Suggests Delay On Proposal

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission agreed unanimously Thursday that the cost of auto licenses should be increased. But it didn't set any definite amount.

Previous recommendations have been for hikes of $5 to $7 in the annual registration charge.

The increase is needed to support highway maintenance, and SRC Chairman Robert O. Bonnell said the rise "is inevitable" if the current construction program is to be continued.

May Lose Jobs

The commissioners, although unanimous in favoring an increase, differed to a certain extent on whether it should be made a formal proposal to the 1959 General Assembly.

They are named to serve at the will and pleasure of the governor, and Gov. McKeldin leaves office next January. The three may be out of jobs.

Commissioner John J. McMullen suggested it might be better for the new commissioners to make any recommendation for a fee hike. Bonnell and Commissioner Edgar T. Bennett said it was the present commission's duty to make the proposal.

Boost Postponed

Bonnell, in explaining why an increase is needed, said an estimated $5,733,900 is earmarked for road maintenance during the current fiscal year. But maintenance will cost an estimated 9 or 10 million dollars during the year ended next June 30, the commission said.

So, about four million dollars must be taken from the construction fund to meet the deficit.

The 1955 General Assembly postponed a $5 to $7 increase provided when the original 12 year highway construction program was set up. The 1956 Legislature overrode Gov. McKeldin's veto of a further extension of the postponement. The 1957 Legislature killed outright any increase.

Lightning Hits Power Lines

Yesterday's two brief thundershowers brought only .29 of an inch of rainfall to the Cumberland area, but low flashing lightning caused utility company crews to be on the jump when it hit three different power lines during the day.

Harry G. Grimes, line foreman for Potomac Edison Company, said a bolt hit a utility pole at the entrance to Fairgo, tripping a circuit breaker and cutting off a primary power line momentarily.

The line is one of three which provide power to the Celanese Corporation of America plant at Amcelle. However, service was restored almost instantly, he said, although repair crews will have to replace some badly burned insulators there today.

Lightning, despite the old adage it never strikes twice in the same place, hit a utility pole at the intersection of "O" Avenue and McMullen Highway at Potomac Park about 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

It was not the second time the pole has been struck by a bolt but the third time in about five years. A secondary power line was affected, knocking out one transformer which serviced four of five houses in the area.

Is This The Way Teacher?

These four bright-looking youngsters, who are first grade pupils of Centre Street School, learned in a short while that you can have lots of fun in the classroom. Yesterday was their first day of school and they are getting close attention from their teacher, Mrs. Mary Haines Radcliffe, of 817 Roeth Avenue, wife of J. Hubert Radcliffe, principal of Mt. Savage School. The pupils are, left to right, Robert Nommensen, Sherrie Shipley, Michael Dickson and Connie Mawhinney.
